MOVING TRIBUTE AT FUNERAL

Nation Honors General Vanier

Body Sent On Train To Quebec

OTTAWA (UPI) — The body of Georges Philias Vanier, 19th Governor-General of Canada, left here by special train for Quebec City today.

The 78-year-old statesman, soldier and diplomat will rest overnight in the Quebec Basilica where a Requiem Mass will be held Thursday morning. It will be offered by Maurice Cardinal Roy, the Chaplain-General of the Canadian armed forces.

Early this morning, as the sounds of a 78-gun salute—one for each year of his life — snapped sharply in the cold air, the body of the Governor-General was carried into Notre Dame Basilica here.

The flag-draped casket, the hat and sword of the former commander-in-chief on top, was brought in slow procession through the streets of the city from Parliament Hill.

TEN BISHOPS

Inside the Basilica a funeral mass was concelebrated by Paul Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal. He was assisted by ten bishops representing each of Canada's provinces and by Father Benedict Vanier, a Trappist monk, one of the four sons of the late Governor-General.

Dramatic changes in the mass were adopted for the state funeral.

The most striking were the replacement of black garb at the altar by white vestments and the joyous pealing of the church bells instead of the former mournful tolling.

The changes transformed the mass from one of sorrow to one of triumph in the eternal life of the soul and resurrection of the body.

From Parliament Hill the state funeral began as the first round of the gun salute boomed out over the Ottawa River.

The casket, mounted on a varnished oak and brass-trimmed gun carriage, was drawn by 60 naval ratings, their white hats and gaiters glaring in the bright morning sun.

Behind them walked the other three sons of the deceased Governor-General—Bernard, Michel and Jean, who works with the retarded in France. They were followed by a riderless black horse draped in a black mantle. In the stirrups, black empty reversed boots symbolized the warrior and master had departed.

VAN DOO'S ON GUARD

A 200-man guard of the Royal 22nd Regiment of Canada—the famous Van Doo's—stood at rigid attention as the gun carriage slowly moved down the gentle slopes of Parliament Hill.

To the sound of muffled drums the 2,000-man cortege slow-marched its way through the crowded streets of the city. The band was silent, the air so cold the instruments had jammed.

As the procession approached the Basilica, a flight of 12 jet aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force swept low over the rooftops along the route.

They came in three flights of four, their engines oddly muted to a muffled roar.

Despite the chilling cold, the people, six and eight deep in places, stood quietly, their faces pale and drawn.

Few spoke. Most men doffed their hats as the casket passed and some, obviously former

'A SIMPLE BUT GREAT MAN'

Victorians of All Faiths Join in Final Homage

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria joined with the rest of Canada today in mourning the loss of a distinguished soldier, diplomat and statesman and a "gracious Christian gentleman".

As a 21-gun royal salute thundered across the city, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes joined government officials and clergy of all faiths in a solemn service of remembrance in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

More than 1,000 men and women filled every pew in the white-pillared cathedral for a service of con-celebration conducted by Monsignor Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese.

At the left of the communion table stood Mr. Pearkes, in formal morning attire; Anglican Archbishop Harold Sexton in white surplice, and Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, president of Greater Victoria Council of Churches, wearing the formal black gown of a United Church minister.

To the right of the altar were Anglican Archdeacon J. W. Forth, Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral, Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Church of Our Lord, and ministers of many Protestant churches.

In the front pew, facing the altar, were Premier and Mrs. Bennett, Speaker William Murray, Opposition Leader and Mrs. Robert Strachan, B.C. Liberal leader and Mrs. Ray Perrault and deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace.

LED PROCESSION

Sounds of muffled weeping were heard above the soft tremulous notes of the cathedral organ and the soulful singing of Verdi's Requiem by the Sisters of St. Ann and the choir of St. Ann's Academy.

From without came the muffled boom of guns fired from Work Point by the 5th (B.C.) Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

After a scripture reading by Mr. Pearkes, the congregation joined in the singing of Abide With Me and a eulogy to the late governor-general was given

NEXT WEEK, SAYS PETERSON

'Entirely New' Act Due on Compensation

By GLEN ALLEN

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday promised Opposition critics an "entirely new" Workmen's Compensation Act will be tabled in the Legislature next week.

"The department intends not only amendments to the act, but an entirely new act, for this session," he said.

His statement came in answer to one of several Liberal and NDP members speaking to labor department estimates of $7,518,000.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) had charged Mr. Peterson's department — he doubles as labor and education minister — with delay in formulating a new act. The royal commission on compensation had been struck in 1961 he pointed out.

"I am going to insist on an answer," said Mr. Nimsick.

"What is going to be in that Compensation Act?"

He said that Mr. Peterson could have made available some kind of preliminary report some time ago.

Mr. Nimsick said that time had passed by many of the people in B.C. dependent on compensation payments.

"We're sitting pretty good," he said. "We get an indemnity at the end of the session. It's pretty easy to forget."

He said those who suffered by "picayune increases" in WCB payments were widows, children and those injured years ago."

Mr. Nimsick said where "a breadwinner is killed in an industrial accident, there is only $122.04 for the widow."

He said senior citizens are now guaranteed $140 monthly by the two senior governments.

"Is that right or just?"

He termed a two per cent rise since 1964 in pensions for those injured in accidents, "a slap in the face.

The official opposition's "shadow" labor minister Rae Eddie (New Westminster) attacked all phases of government involvement in labor disputes, particularly labor injunctions which are "thrown around most freely.

"USED AS LEVER"

"We see injunctions used as a lever to upset the delicate balance between the parties in the favor of the employer.

"The result can only be frustration and hard feelings."

Mr. Eddie also called for a full-time Labor Relations

Garrison Must Tell Says Judge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Bernard J. Bagert ruled today District Attorney Jim Garrison must reveal the "confidential informant" Garrison says heard conspirators planning the assassination of President Kennedy.

Bagert ruled attorneys for Clay L. Shaw, charged with conspiracy to murder the president, were entitled to a full hearing on the evidence, including the identity of Garrison's confidential informant at next Tuesday's preliminary hearing.

But Bagert turned down most of the other defence motions, including one to get the charge against Shaw dismissed.

After the brief session in Judge Bagert's courtroom, Assistant District Attorney James Alcock told newsmen his office would provide enough evidence Tuesday to hold Shaw for trial.

"More than enough," Alcock said.

Airliner Hits Bridge, 11 Killed in Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—A chartered airliner cut a swathe of death through trucks and a rickshaw when it plunged on to a bridge seconds after taking off from a civil airport here today, killing 11 persons.

Four of the aircraft's crew members and seven persons travelling in vehicles on the road, including the driver and passenger of the rickshaw, were reported killed.

Two crew members were taken to hospital.

He said it was owned by the French Air Transport Co. and was on a flight to Tokyo.

U.S. ALARM BELLS RINGING OVER OUR UNIFICATION?

WASHINGTON (CP)—A former U.S. naval attache in Ottawa has raked Canada's military-unification plan from stem to stern.

"If the Royal Canadian Navy is indeed doomed as an anti-submarine warfare force, we may be sure that the alarm bells are ringing in U.S. naval headquarters in Washington, Norfolk, Va. and Pearl Harbor," says retired Capt. P. B. Ryan.

Has Canadian "preoccupation" with an international peacekeeping role really obscured traditional Canadian emphasis on defence of her Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic waters, he asks?

"Pushing the thought farther, are Mr. Defence Minister Hellyer's aides indeed relying on the U.S. Navy to assume the burden of anti-submarine warfare operations for both countries?"

Ryan, who served in Ottawa from 1956 to 1959, is the author of an article called Canadian Unification: The World Watches, in the current issue of U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings.

The magazine is published monthly by the U.S. Naval Institute, a private organization.

Ryan also said the protest retirements of senior Canadian naval officers have ensured a good parliamentary discussion on the navy and "the upshot may be a veering away from the humanitarian policy of international peacekeeping to the more realistic one of protecting Canadian and North American interests."

IT'S LADY COMRADE'S DAY IN RUSSIA

The Other 364 Days Don't Count

MOSCOW (UPI)—Today Russian women laid down their sickles and hammers and for 24 hours became a weaker sex. It was ladies day in the Soviet Union.

The government told men to cook the meals and try to mind the children, to shovel the snow and run hospitals and do the work expected of Soviet women the other 364 days of the year.

The combination Mother's and Valentine's day is a legal holiday, the one day when a Russian woman's place is strictly in the home.

Husbands carried home candy, flowers and other gifts for their wives. Moscow television broadcast special programs for women. The Kremlin announced it adores Soviet women.

"Builders of Communism," it called them and reminded Russians that it was a women's march for bread that started the trouble in Petrograd (formerly St. Petersburg, now Leningrad) that led to the Bolshevik revolution.

"You are resolutely against U.S. aggression in Vietnam," the Soviet Communist Party central committee said in a message to lady comrades.

The committee told the women they also are "against the attempts of imperialists to involve mankind in the catastrophe of a new world war."

The men of the central committee, which also has women members, said, "In the USSR the women have every opportunity to apply their energy and initiative."

In practice, this means it is women who go into the wintry streets before dawn to shovel off the snow and do many tough manual jobs that in other countries are considered male jobs. Besides repairing roads, pouring cement, driving locomotives, Soviet women also provide most of the nation's doctors and many of its engineers.

A favorite theme of the Soviet press is that Soviet men all too often cling to the "old fashioned" idea that women, besides working in the factories, must do all the housework. The result, they say, is that the women of Russia work seven days a week, 52 weeks a year—except on ladies day.

Fer a lot o' them flyin' hunters in the St. Lawrence it's sealing zero.

. . . VICTORIANS

by Very Rev. William Bulloch, rector of St. Andrew's.

"While we mourn his loss, we thank God that we have known such a man," Rev. Bulloch said. "He was a man who recognized the value of the whole human being. And he put all these values together in the life of Christ.

"He stood forth as a giant among men and he revealed his deep personal faith and humility in everything he did.

"Throughout this great nation today there is a wave of vast silence; of a whole people pausing to do honor to one who stood for the ultimate in human integrity."

Archbishop Sexton said the late governor-general stood rock-like for stability in an unstable age.

"His was an example of courage and quiet, steady determination whose influence will endure; indeed his life had that ever-green quality of simplicity, honor and integrity that will never fade.

'SIMPLY BUT GREATLY'

"He lived simply but greatly, serving the peoples of this great dominion with faithfulness and loyal regard for their welfare. And he was passionately devoted to the cause of national unity.

"The immense power of personal example, as well as the value of high ideals, has been abundantly exemplified in his life. His was a character, marked by the highest qualities . . ."

Archbishop Sexton recalled that the wise men in the Book of Proverbs said the spirit of man is the candle of the Lord.

"The candle of the Lord was particularly luminous in the life of the late governor-general. He was an illuminated character, illuminated not only by high qualities, but by a simple faith in God.

"These things, like the light of any candle, are derived, and from a parent flame greater and more transcendant than its own . . .

"This was the secret of his poise and high efficiency. He was always at ease and he put others at their ease because the candle of the Lord burned brightly in him.

"The noble qualities which adorned his life were manifest in a deep concern for the welfare of Canadian home life, which we need to realize is so vital to the best interests of our country."

The archbishop closed with a short prayer:

"Rest eternal grant unto him, O Lord, and let light perpetual shine upon him. May he rest in peace."

Absent were Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo and Attorney-General Robert Bonner, both attending the state funeral in Ottawa.

Three Protestant and three Roman Catholic services for members of the armed forces were held at Naden Chapel, Belmont Park and the Canadian Officers' School at Venture.

WORK POINT SERVICES

At Work Point barracks, the First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, held Protestant and Catholic services in the two chapels.

All government offices in the Federal Building were closed during the morning. So were HMC Dockyard, the Manpower and Immigration department at Vancouver and Pandora, and the Unemployment Insurance office.

Books of condolence have been placed in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings and Government House for signatures of private citizens.

One of the first to sign at the Legislative Buildings was 83-year-old Mrs. Roderick MacKenzie, 675 Niagara Street.

Along the one-mile route another 1,000 servicemen—regular and reserves—lined the pavement. They, too, stood rigid as the cortege passed.

WINDOWS FILLED

Windows in buildings overlooking the procession were jammed with faces, some young but mostly old. A few blessed themselves as the casket moved slowly by.

For tribute to Canada's first French-Canadian Governor-General, the nation and the world were there to mourn.

HUMPHREY THERE

Vice-president Hubert Humphrey came to represent the United States, and ambassadors from all the countries represented in Ottawa attended.

Mr. Humphrey, who flew from Washington earlier in the day, arrived with External Affairs Minister Martin and W. W. Butterworth, American ambassador.

Just before their car pulled up in front of the church, two carloads of American secret service men raced to the church entrance. As Mr. Humphrey emerged from his car, the agents surrounded him.

On Thursday, interment ceremonies for Vanier will be held in Quebec City, his home. Final burial will take place later in the chapel of the Royal 22nd Regiment in Quebec's historic Citadel.

Red Carpet Treatment Spotlighted

Role of the professional host in Canada's Centennial Year will be examined at an afternoon seminar for hotel and restaurant personnel Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

Titled Red Carpet Canada '67, the discussions are part of a country-wide effort to improve the nation's food and accommodation image, impress the importance of tourism to Canada's economy, and build Canada's reputation abroad as a host country.

Seminars are sponsored jointly by the Canadian Restaurant Association and the Hotel Association of Canada with the assistance of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau.

OPEN TO ALL

Although aimed at management personnel and department heads, the seminar is open to anyone with an interest in the tourist, including policemen, sales clerks and public servants.

Victoria visitors bureau commissioner Mike Heppell will welcome what is expected to be a crowd of up to 300. Deputy minister of recreatoin and conservation Dr. David B. Turner will take part, and guest speakers will be:

Michael Lambert, general manager of the Calgary Inn, who will speak on methods of providing warm, friendly service to guests;

C. C. Bud Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of Niagara International Centre, who will describe the importance of Centennial Year as a means of putting Canada on the tourist map.

Program chairman will be Colonist publisher R. J. Bower, former president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Seminar starts at 2 p.m. and closes at 5.

FIRST CALL with Bowes

Stranded Seal Hunters Picked Up

HALIFAX (CP) — About 50 seal hunters who spent last night on ice in the gulf of St. Lawrence apparently suffered no ill effects despite snow, high winds and low temperatures.

Ross E. Homans, area director for the federal fisheries department, said in a telephone interview from Cap-aux-Meules in the Magdalen Islands that a department helicopter picked up 17 of the men who were stranded Tuesday when at least nine planes were damaged in a variety of landing accidents on the ice.

Mr. Homans said some of the men spent the night on sealing ships in the area while others built shelters for protection from wind and snow. Temperatures had dropped to about 10 above zero by early this morning.

PLANES TAKEOFF

Two planes that remained on the ice overnight rather than risk returning to land in snow and sleet left the ice after daybreak with men and seal pelts aboard.

It was considered doubtful many aircraft would be used today to ferry sealers to the herd, which covers an area four miles wide and 12 miles long near the centre of the gulf. The weather office here warned of freezing spray and northwest gales of 35 miles an hour.

About 60 aircraft and eight ships began the annual hunt at dawn Monday but only four—the Chesley A. Crosbie, North Star VI, Brandal and Chester—had reached the herd.

Seal Hunt Protests Called for

MONTREAL (CP)—"A total of 1,000,000 protests in Ottawa" against the hunting of seals in the Gulf of St. Lawrence is being called for by Brian Davies, executive secretary of the New Brunswick Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mr. Davies issues the call in letters to the editors of a number of newspapers. He lists specific directions as to what form the protests can be given by Canadians anxious to "help the seals."

First on the list of suggested methods are petitions to Prime Minister Pearson, each with 1,000 signatures.

Also suggested are letters of protest to MPs and letters of approval sent to officials of news media carrying "exposures" of methods being used in the seal hunt.

Mr. Davies says petitions to the prime minister should ask "that the Gulf of St. Lawrence be declared a sanctuary for harp seals." This would "end the brutal seal hunt."

Mr. Pearson also should be urged to "recommend that alternative modes of employment be found for those men who will suffer loss of income when seal hunting is abolished."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Some clearing and cooler temperatures have occurred on the north coast in the wake of the system and will spread to the remainder of the province tonight. Interior areas will see some sunshine Thursday but shower activity is expected to persist in coastal areas.

GROWING PROBLEM

Delinquency Probe Set

A municipal "royal commission" is to be established to study the growing problem of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria.

The Intermunicipal Committee agreed Tuesday to fully support a Community Welfare Council request that it become an action group with the solution to the delinquency problem its aim.

Welfare Council president B. A. Tobin told the joint committee that without the support of elected representatives he doubted if an adequate program could be implemented.

"We feel that if the mayor and the reeves form a special committee to study the problem and invite people to write in with recommendations and suggestions we shall be able to come up with an effective program," Mr. Tobin said.

Mr. Tobin stressed that the Welfare Council would do most of the preliminary work required.

"Whatever suggestions are sent in could be added to our already large file on the problem," he said. "The municipal committee would have to meet only infrequently, but participation is required if we are to get any action."

Mayor Stephen said it would be foolish to pretend that a very real problem did not exist.

"In the city we see more of this problem than in other areas because the city is the focal point for the district," he said.

"But many of the incidents that culminate in the city originate in other municipalities. A very genuine problem exists and I think we must all do our part to find a solution," he added.

ROYAL COMMISSION

"What we are doing in effect is setting up a sort of municipal royal commission," he said in endorsing the Welfare Council aims.

confessiu the boy went down to

Reeve Hugh Curtis, Saanich, confessed that in the past he had tended to turn to what he termed more concrete work.

"But we can't turn out back on this problem," he said.

Garth Homer, executive director of the Welfare Council, said he felt that by determined action following an intensive study period corrective measures could be recommended to both provincial and municipal governments.

French Leftists Teaming Up In Runoff Vote

PARIS (AP) — France's usually-quarrelling leftists completed a single slate Tuesday night in a concerted effort to wrest control of the National Assembly from President de Gaulle's party in Sunday's runoff election.

The Communists were reported to have withdrawn at least 15 candidates who received more votes in their districts than other leftist candidates in the first round of voting last Sunday. The Communist candidates stepped down in the belief that more moderate leftists would have a bigger appeal in those districts.

The Gaullists, who received slightly more than 37 per cent of the vote in the first round, expressed confidence they would retain a majority in the 487-seat assembly and that voters would support de Gaulle's leadership.

Only 81 candidates — 66 of them Gaullists—polled a first-round majority, leaving 406 seats to be decided. Candidates in the runoff need only a plurality instead of a majority to be elected.

The left-wing alliance, made up chiefly of Socialists and Communists, got about 40 per cent of the votes in the first round, three per cent more than the Gaullists.

The electoral agreement between the Communist and the Socialists failed to work in only eight districts. In these there will be a three-way contest of Socialist, Communist and Gaullist candidates.

Fund Plea To Defend Doctors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A committee of prominent northern Californians asked Tuesday for public donations from throughout the United States to help defend nine physicians accused of performing therapeutic abortions.

California law permits abortions only to save the life of the mother, but the nine physicians performed operations on women who had German measles during the first weeks of their pregnancies, a condition which can lead to deformed children.

Two of the doctors, J. Paul Shively, chief of obstetrics at St. Luke's Hospital, and Seymour P. Smith of St. Francis Memorial Hospital, were ordered last summer to appear before the state board of medical examiners, which could revoke their right to practise.

The hearing was delayed by court action, and disposition of the other seven cases was put off until a decision is made on Shively and Smith.

MEREDITH TO RUN AGAINST POWELL

Negro Leaders Cool to Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro leaders reacted cooly today to James H. Meredith's plans to run as the Republicans' choice against Democrat Adam Clayton Powell in a special congressional election April 11. They gave him little chance of winning.

Meredith, in agreeing to oppose Powell after being recommended by Republican leaders, said Tuesday he was aware that in running he might lay himself open to "the fear and the scorn from fellow Negroes." He said Powell, excluded from the House of Representatives last week, had lost his influence and the people deserve more than what they're getting.

Meredith was recommended by members of the Republican executive committee from the 18th district. His nomination is expected to be made at a meeting of Harlem Republican county committeemen within a week.

NO COMMENT

Powell, who has won the 18th district of Harlem in 12 consecutive elections by wide margins, had little comment when he learned of the announcements.

"We'll wait and see," he said from his retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas. Powell is taking court action in efforts to regain his seat, but plans to run again should litigation fail to settle the matter by April 11.

Percy Sutton, Manhattan borough president whose home political district is in Harlem, said he would support Powell. Sutton, a Democrat like most Harlem leaders, said in a statement:

"While Mr. Meredith has certainly earned his credentials as a civil rights hero, I think the Republicans will find many in the Harlem community feel Mr. Meredith is an outsider, selected by the Republicans to be imposed on the Harlem community."

Rev. Roy Nichols, pastor of the Salem Methodist Church, said Meredith "is unprepared and not indigenous to the Harlem community."

IN SUICIDE RACE

"In the event that Meredith has chosen to kill his political ambitions before he gets started, this is a good race for him to enter. He made one mistake going to Mississippi with a Bible instead of a gun. This is suicide, running against a genius like Mr. Powell before you even get known."

Meredith, whose enrolment desegregated the University of Mississippi in 1962 and touched off bloody riots, is one of the most prominent Negro civil rights activists. He was shot last year on a civil rights march through Mississippi.

Now 33, he has been a student at the Columbia law school here for two years.

Not to the Brink

THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT a difference of opinion on the treatment of the United States owners of the Mercantile Bank has ruffled cabinet meetings in Ottawa, leading to a brisk confrontation between Mr. Gordon and Mr. Sharp. But it is equally likely that the reports of the interchange have suffered nothing in the telling by proponents of one side or the other, and that the basic situation will be resolved with little further ado.

It is normal that differences of opinion should arise within a cabinet. As Mr. Sharp says, that is what cabinets are for: to discuss varying viewpoints and synthesize them into a formal government policy. If resignations were to be expected every time this process was applied to a controversial issue, no government, of any party, would long maintain its unity or its office.

It is, of course, to the advantage of opposition parties to promulgate the belief that the government of the day is on the verge of disintegration and collapse. But this is all part of the political game, and recognized by the professional politicians on both sides of the Commons.

While Mr. Pearson has frequently shown a lack of the heavy-handedness that is sometimes required of a political leader who must be ruthless in the pursuit of policy, he certainly has demonstrated his ability at compromise and the achievement of a consensus among disputants. This ability has been recognized internationally as well as in domestic politics. It would therefore be unusual if the prime minister were not able to smooth out the current differences on Mercantile policy and come up with an acceptable solution.

In any case the principle of the banking legislation appears to be valid in both camps. It is a matter of how quickly or forcefully the policy will be applied that is in question. And that in itself does not boil down to the sort of vital issue that prompts resignations.

Still Holding Back

WHILE IT IS OBVIOUS THAT nothing said by any outsider is going to influence the course of American policy in Vietnam, it also becomes more apparent that uneasiness about that policy is spreading in countries friendly to the United States. The specific cause of the disquiet is the persistent credibility gap — the difference between what the Johnson administration says and what it actually does —and this has been emphasized in recent weeks as more facts have become known about the lunar truce last month.

During the truce period, American military intelligence reports from Saigon purportedly disclosed hundreds of violations of the truce by North Vietnam. Upon analysis, however, it turns out that these mostly involved the movement of boats, trucks and trains in North Vietnam and included traffic both north and south in that country.

Meanwhile, as the North Vietnamese were going about their quite lawful business, the American army during the truce period was shifting thousands of men and tons of supplies and munitions for the jump-off of one of the largest campaigns they have waged yet in South Vietnam. Yet President Johnson and Secretary of State Rusk have said that it was the movement by the North Vietnamese in North Vietnam which, in the president's words, "left no alternative" but to resume the bombing of the north.

The determination with which the bombing was resumed, supplemented by naval and army bombardment and the mining of North Vietnam waterways, leads to a belief that the administration is determined on nothing less than total victory, and that in part this can be achieved by stepping up the punishment of the North. At the same time spokesmen for the United States maintain that "no serious proposal for ending the fighting" has been received in Washington.

This is a very cagey statement in view of the suggestion from Hanoi, transmitted through the Soviet Union, for negotiations following the cessation of American bombing of North Vietnam. Negotions would not necessarily mean an instant halt in the fighting and on that basis, perhaps, the United States is entitled to say that "no serious proposal" has been received. But it is an ambiguous approach for President Johnson, who went on record not long ago as being willing to follow any path which could conceivably lead to an honorable peace.

Before It Fades Away

LIKE THE OLD SOLDIER IN the song, the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee is expected to fade away during the remaining months of this year. It could cease to exist within that time because the purpose for which it was originally established, the maintenance of Elk-Beaver Lake, Gorge and Mount Douglas parks, is largely passing to other jurisdictions.

As it slips towards its modest place in local history, it is appropriate to note the value inherent in this pioneering joint effort between municipalities.

In the decades since the committee's inception more than 45 years ago, Saanich and Victoria have differed on many issues. Sometimes those differences were acute. The group of aldermen and councillors entrusted with the upkeep of the city-owned recreational areas in the northern municipality nevertheless continued to function in a relatively harmonious manner.

The Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee preserved the slender thread of co-operation as an example of what might some day become a more widely accepted principle in intermunicipal joint action. That day is now upon us, with beneficial results.

The group will go, but it should not be forgotten. It has served its purpose better than might have been expected.

Chlorine and Conscience

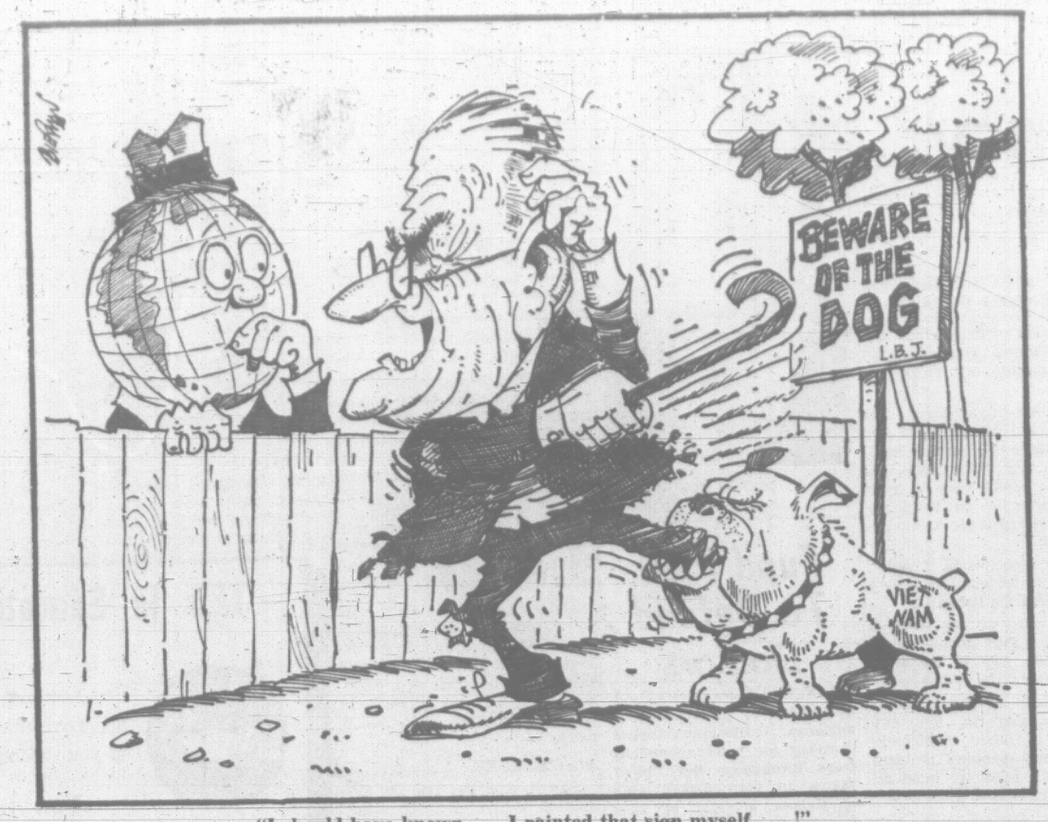
TO THOSE OLD ENOUGH TO remember the agonizing and lethal effects of chlorine gas in the First World War there is a tragic implication in Mr. Arch MacKenzie's Canadian Press report on a statement by Lt.-Col. Stanley Fair, of the United States.

He quotes the American officer, who served for a time in the Vietnam chemical corps: "Public antipathy toward gas warfare . . . can be reduced — perhaps eliminated — by an enlightened program of public information . . ."

In other words, the revulsion which has swept the world since the first disabling and killing use of chlorine, can be dissipated by an effective publicity campaign.

It is shocking to hear such a point of view expressed by an American officer—the suggestion of a method by which gas warfare can be made acceptable in defiance of the almost universal stand of conscience against it.

Still more shocking is the possibility that Lt.-Col. Fair might be right, if an atmosphere of war hysteria could be created over a wide enough area.



"I should have known . . . I painted that sign myself . . . !"

INVESTMENT IN CANADA

By JAMES H. GRAY

Casual Dismissal of the Free Trade Plan

TWO recent forays of Liberal ministers into the Liberal wasteland of western Canada can be taken as good indications of the way the winds of change are fluttering the dovecotes of the Ottawa brain trust. Or it may only be that Hon. Mitchell Sharp and Hon. Walter Gordon have broken loose from the grasp of their high priced help. Both rejected the whole concept of establishing a free-trade area with the United States. In an interview in Calgary, Mr. Gordon rejected it with a casualness that was a most forceful indication that the free-trade drum-pounding of Prairie Liberals is an exercise in futility.

Gray

A Canada-United States free trade pact might work, Mr. Gordon said, provided that the United States would consent to immediately permit a million or so Canadian unemployed to migrate to that country.

Production Transfer

Today, said the minister, we keep hearing about the advantages of a Canada-U.S. free-trade pact from the academic economists, but nobody who understands much about the Canadian economy is talking about it. If you know anything about the ecoriomies of scale, he went on, you cannot conceive of the owners of Canadian branch factories not transferring Canadian production to their gigantic United States plants.

Because the bulk of Canadian industry is owned in the United States, the inevitable result of free trade would be the loss of a million or so jobs for Canadians. As an alternative to such a pact, Mr. Gordon suggested that arrangements similar to the auto-pact be examined for other industries.

Mr. Sharp, who is an East Block alumnus himself, was less incisive in Winnipeg than Mr. Gordon was in Calgary but he left no doubt that he shared Mr. Gordon's basic conviction, though as former minister of trade and commerce he paid the usual respects to the need to expand Canadian trade.

Closer Together

On the question of the ownership and control of Canadian industry, Mr. Sharp and Mr. Gordon seemed to have moved as closely together as Tweedledum and Tweedledee. To get there Mr. Sharp seemed to have veered one way and Mr. Gordon the other. Both are now agreed that positive encouragement must be given to Canadians to get them to invest in the equities of Canadian industry.

Mr. Gordon indicated that he is also aware of the necessity of finding some way of providing a modicum of effective protection for Canadian investors. The Atlantic, Windfall and Prudential scandals have been impressing Ottawa with the necessity, at last, of investor protection.

The tenor of Mr. Gordon's replies to questions indicated that he is no longer thinking in terms of penalizing American investors in Canada. He plumped time and again for encouragement of Canadians. He made the point that is almost revolutionary coming from a Canadian politician — that a sharp distinction should be made between borrowed and equity capital.

Need for Outside Capital

Everybody has been paying obeisance to our need for American capital to develop Canada. Politicians, economists, editors and bankers all have been singing the same chorus. Few have ever drawn the line clearly and carefully between borrowed capital, which can be repaid from the profits of industrial and commercial development, and equity capital which cannot be repaid.

In his Calgary appearance, Mr. Gordon went to great pains to spell out the difference very clearly indeed. He pointed out that the United States itself was largely developed by outside capital which came in largely in the form of loans.

It was perhaps fitting that Mr. Gordon should have been making all these points in Calgary. It was Calgarians who led the campaign to rescue Canadian investors from the inflood of "American 10 cent dollars" in the first decade after the Second World War. In those early years of the oil and gas boom, Americans were diverting hundreds of millions of U.S. excess profits tax dollars into Canadian oil and gas development.

Canadians Pushed Out

Canadians, who had financed the original boom, found themselves pushed out by outsiders using money that would have otherwise have been paid in taxes.

The attitude of the Ottawa policy makers under Hon. Douglas Abbott and Hon. Walter Harris was this: "It makes no difference to us who owns Canadian industry as long as we have the power to tax!"

It has taken Ottawa a decade to discover that it does make a difference and that power to tax is not enough. Mr. Gordon's answers also indicated that the anti-investor bias of the Finance Department theoreticians is being vitiated. Ten years ago, westerners who came down to ask for tax changes that would give them an even break with American investors in Canada were given short shrift. All such requests for tax changes were dismissed as simple assaults on the common weal by the unpatriotic greedy.

Now, from Mr. Gordon's comments, the recognition is spreading that it is American tax policy which has enabled American industry to dominate the world.

FROM VIENTIANE, LAOS

By JOSEPH ALSOP

J.F.K.'s Lost Gamble in Laos

A BIT more than five years ago, President Kennedy took a major gamble, not without some reluctance. His first instinct, by some now forgotten, had been to meet with force the forceful North Vietnamese invasion of sleepy little Laos. Instead, for many practical and political reasons, the president decided to seek a settlement. Governor Averell Harriman was deputed to undertake the task. Since the Soviets also wanted a seeming settlement, the Geneva Agreement of 1962 was the result.

Alsop

The long dishonored terms of this Geneva Agreement can be briefly summarized. Laos was to have a three-cornered government with each corner hopelessly irreconcilable with two others (composed of neutralists, nationalists and Communists), and the North Vietnamese invaders were to withdraw from Laos entirely, and were never to use Laos as a corridor to supply or reinforce the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

On paper, these were good terms, testifying amply to Averell Harriman's wiliness and stonewalling powers as negotiator. They were in fact crammed down the reluctant throat of the North Vietnamese by Soviet urging. But no one, least of all President Kennedy, and, one presumes, Ambassador Harriman, really expected the terms of this agreement to be observed by the North Vietnamese signatories.

The virtual certainty that the agreement would be honored only in the breach was pointed out to President Kennedy not long after it was triumphantly signed. He remarked, with a wry smile, that one could never be sure about such matters, but that there were certainly ample foundations for such a forecast.

Place To Make Stand

To this he added, speaking much more seriously, that if you were going to make a stand in Southeast Asia, the right place to do so was in the main theatre of action, especially if the main theatre was much more militarily advantageous than a subordinate but more early-threatened theatre.

"The key is South Vietnam," he said, "and although the other side may think differently, we are not going to be beaten in South Vietnam."

Although the worst fears about the unreliability of accord reached in 1962 were fully justified from the very outset. The president's gamble has also been justified — at least tentatively. To begin with the first point, no breach of any solemn international agreement has ever been more flagrant or more prompt than the breach of the last Geneva Agreement by the Hanoi war planners.

At this writing, the war planners in Hanoi have assigned to duty on the Ho Chi Minh trail through southern Laos — which they gravely promised never to use again — a combined total of nearly 35,000 men.

Of this total, about 20,000 are coolies and farmers. These are people who have been sent in to maintain the trail's network of main and subsidiary roads and also to plant rice in the fields abandoned by the wretched Laotians whom the North Vietnamese have forced to take refuge on the American side of the line.

A North Vietnamese division, to provide flank guard for the trail, and engineer battalions, to maintain it, comprise the balance of the men on the trail. It can be seen, then, how perfectly this part of the accord is being honored.

Guarding the Trail

As for the other part of the accord, which was supposed to give this small and pleasant country the right to settle its own affairs in its own way, the story is exactly the same. In North Laos, where the Laotian civil war centres, there are still about 13,000 North Vietnamese troops.

They are either operating in independent battalions or are brigaded in one way or another with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces. And if these foreign troops were not here, the Laotians would indeed have settled their own affairs among themselves.

Outwardly, therefore, President Kennedy's gamble has been a dead bust. A second report will show why this has nonetheless been a good gamble — provided the recent prescriptions of the president's brother are not adopted.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 8, 1907.

The government has taken prompt steps to carry into effect the legislation foreshadowed in the speech from the throne, having for its object the abatement of taxation made possible through the surplus of $300,000, which the minister of fincance expects to report this year.

The legislation in comtemplation affords relief to two classes—to landowners and to trade through commercial travellers.

Positive Stand

When parliamentary secretary Pierre Trudeau, speaking in a Uvic debate, stated that Canada could do nothing to end the war in Vietnam by opposing the U.S., he intentionally or otherwise, bypassed a vital point.

Certainly no one seriously believes, or is naive enough to believe, that Canada could in any way pressure Washington into a more realistic policy. President Johnson has signified very little inclination to listen to anyone—note the belittling of Senator Robert Kennedy's pleas.

But the unswerving fact remains that we should adopt a firm positive stand and stick with it. And we do not necessarily have to generate hostility. A decisive position would let the outside world know that we are not merely a fly riding the camel's back. This is the primary issue. — Frank E. Lockyer, 4154 Holland.

Voice of the Young

Your long article on the growing numbers of alienated young people in all large cities was well worth the space devoted to it, as it deals with an important aspect of our society.

Their basic charge is that the middle-class society of their elders is riddled with hypocrisy, and their main conclusion is that it is therefore unworthy of respect.

Religion: Almost any clergyman will privately admit that he does not believe many of the dogmas he delivers with such authority in church.

Education: College students are assured whenever they are gathered en masse that a university is a place provided for the worship of truth, goodness and beauty. Such exemplars as Socrates (kicked out of Athens U. for "not-publishing") are constantly held up before them. Actually a university is supported by public funds in order to equip young people to turn the wheels of industry even faster and provide in the fullness of time three cars in every garage.

Sex: Young people are accused of being obsessed with sex (unlike their Victorian grandparents who put pantaloons on table legs). Yet the magazines, movies and TV which plug sex day and night, are all under the control of the older generation, using sex as a money-maker.

Foreign affairs: The main project under way in this field at the moment is the spending of two billion dollars a month bombing a group of hillbillies in almost the smallest country in Asia into seeing the virtues of the American Way. The generation that finds nothing much wrong with this by contrast sees a little experimenting with new drugs (or even the pill which their high-minded elders want to keep for themselves) as a sign of moral collapse.

This is the sort of thing that is going on in the rather cloudy expanses of these youthful minds. I see no chance at all that this growing rebellion will simply go away. — Derek Pethick, Pat Bay Highway.

CREATING A CHARACTER

Many years ago, I think at one of the very early writers' summer schools, Phyllis Bentley talking about characterization in her novels, said that she had a cannibal pot with no missionary in, and she had flames licking the side, and she had logs underneath and into pure water, which was something existing before she put a pen to paper, she put love and hate and envy and greed and all the many essences which one needs to make a character live. When the spoon stood upright in that stew, she knew that that person had come alive.

Hazards of Rural Life Emphasized by W.H.O.

By M. S. WILDE

GENEVA — Some common beliefs — as that it is healthier and safer to live in the country than in a town — are upset in a report of a seminar organized by the World Health Organization.

The countryside is becoming more important to the whole of mankind because the growth of world population calls for more food production. A striking illustration of the population explosion is that the area of the earth for each person on it — including that covered by cities, deserts, swamps and jungles — was 32.7 acres in 1850, but only 11.4 acres in 1962. And the shrinkage is increasing its pace. In 1970 there will be only 5.7 acres per person.

Greater food production must come, however, from a decreasing labor force, because of a world-wide drift of people from the country to the towns. Even in a farming country like Canada, for example, farmworkers who were 19 per cent of the population in 1951 were only 11 per cent in 1962.

Of course, the introduction of more and more machinery and scientific farming techniques may nullify or more than nullify this loss of manpower, but the consequences are disturbing enough.

For one thing, it is mainly the young and able-bodied who go for the more exciting life in towns, leaving behind a high proportion of older, sick and perhaps less intelligent people. Farm workers in many countries are often illiterate. It is they who must handle the new machines and control the use of chemicals.

The report thinks that among causes of accidents among farm workers were carelessness, lack of training in handling machinery, impaired efficiency because of disease, disability and fatigue, and also the toxic effects of chemicals or exhaust gases.

Tractors, says the report, are probably the most rapidly-increasing agricultural accident hazard. It has been estimated that one in three tractor accidents in France is fatal, and one in 3,000 tractor drivers in France is killed each year.

In Britain, the likelihood that a man injured when a tractor overturns will die is about one in four, whereas the corresponding risk for car drivers is only one in 22.

The Soviet Union has given much attention to these problems the report says, including the formulation of work rules and the training of workers. And while mechanization has risen in the USSR the annual accident rate has declined from 6.9 per 100 farmworkers in 1931 to one per 100 in recent years.

Other hazards for the countryman which town dwellers escape are harsh climates, infections caught from contact with animals (zoonoses), and the disease of tropical lands.

Mental Health

Most surprising of all, perhaps, is that where mental health is concerned the assumed advantage of rural life is now found to be a myth.

It is commonly supposed that the strain of city life is a major factor in mental breakdown. "Yet" says the report, "in a study of selective examinations for the U.S. armed services it was found that the rejection rate for psychoses was 4.5 per 1,000 for men from the country and only 3.1 per cent per 1,000 for men from the city.

Rejections for psychoneuroses were 44 per 1,000 for countrymen and 37 per 1,000 for townsmen; and rejections for all mental disorders together were higher for farmers and farm managers than for any other occupational class."

The report makes recommendations for improving rural health services and the introduction of a system of labor inspection for agriculture which it says should be backed by legislation.

"Happy the man whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound . . ."

So it was to Alexander Pope, singing 200 years ago. The sad new version by WHO investigators is:

"The hardcore of the problem is the impoverished farmer with his own small plot of land. Such farmers often live in scattered rural communities under adverse conditions, their poverty unrelieved by social insurance, constituting a permanently under-privileged working group."

THE GALLUP POLL

Where Is the NDP Making Its Gains?

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

In recent months the Gallup Poll has reported major shifts in party loyalties of Canadian voters. Following is the second of two reports in which, by means of an augmented sample, the Institute examines various population segments for clues as to where the strengths and weaknesses of political parties lie.

The New Democratic Party, sired by the former CCF party, has made steady gains in popular favor since the federal election of November, 1965, particularly in the past few months.

In November, 1965, some 18 per cent of electorate marked their "X" opposite the names of NDP candidates. Today, 27 per cent say they would do so, when asked by Gallup Poll interviewers: "If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

Any electorate is made up of various groups of very different types of peoples; different ages, different sexes, different income groups, and people living on farms, small towns and large cities.

The first thing one notices in studying Gallup Poll returns is that the NDP has gained in most areas of Canada. Table below compares on a regional basis the percentage of the popular vote obtained by the NDP in the election with current poll findings:

	New Democratic Party
	1965 Election	Today
National	18%	27%
Ontario	21	31
Quebec	12	20
West	24	31

The NDP has openly wooed the ranks of organized labor—with some success as shown by these results:

	Union Members	Non-Union Members
Would support NDP	35%	20%

Variations in the degree of support from various age groups are not as sharp as with the two older parties, although there is some indication that people between the ages of 30 to 39 are less likely to vote NDP than are other age groups:

Age Groups—	Would Support NDP
21 to 29 years	27%
30 to 39 years	21
40 to 49 years	27
50 plus	25

Men (29%) are more likely to be NDP supporters than women (21%).

	Would Support NDP
Upper income	24%
Middle income	25
Lower income	27

Greatest variations show up when one looks at the results by the different sizes of community, with people living in cities of 10,000 up to 100,000 showing the strongest support:

Size of Community—	Would Support NDP
100,000 plus	29%
10,000 to 99,999	34
1,000 to 9,999	22
Rural, non-farm	13
Farm	19

One conclusion which observers may draw from the above is that the NDP have been no more successful than its predecessors in attempting to combine the support of both labor and the farmer.

Sir Joseph William Trutch

Founders Of B.C.

The first lieutenant-governor after British Columbia became a province of Canada, Sir Joseph Trutch, almost missed his entrance into public life because he was too successful in private life.

He was a British civil engineer, born in Somersetshire in 1826, and was in Jamaica when he heard the call of the west. It took him to California, a place he disliked, and to Oregon, which he liked, and there was married. Construction work took him back to Illinois, but in 1859 he came to Victoria where he won the task of building Alexandra Suspension Bridge over the Fraser at Spuzzum and part of the road from Yale to Cariboo.

Trutch was a logical choice as Commissioner of Lands and Works and Surveyor-General but Governor Frederick Seymour hesitated in the appointment. Seymour wrote to London in 1864 pointing out that Trutch for six more years would continue to collect tolls on roads and bridges he had built. Alexandra Bridge alone brought him £4,000 a year. If, as land commissioner, he allowed one of the many portages of the Fraser to become impassible, all the traffic would go to his bridges, tripling his private income. Seymour finally made the appointment on condition that Trutch sell his interests.

Once in office, Trutch continued his career as a builder, became a member of the executive council, was a delegate in 1870 to the Ottawa talks which led to our entry into Confederation and in 1871 was appointed lieutenant-governor, succeeding five colonial governors. He retired in 1876, was knighted in 1889 and died in England in 1904.

Anatomy or Morality?

By DOUGLAS MacDONALD

(Excerpts from an article in The Interpreter, published by the Department of Journalism, University of Western Ontario.)

Sex, religion, politics, and the weather: traditionally the stand-bys of barbershop conversation, the topics for cocktail parties and editorials. And sex heads the list.

Today sex is all tied up with mini-skirts, the "New Morality," Elizabeth Taylor, and scandals in government. It helps sell cigarettes and cars, and is the stock and trade of the hit-parade.

And now the schools are getting involved. For the past five years or so, educators have been taking a serious look at our "sex-saturated" society. The result is sex education in its various forms.

These programs are rapidly spreading in Canada and the United States where students are exposed to them anywhere from kindergarten to senior high school.

Discussion, hopefully, is sparked after the sessions. The main topics dealt with at the high school level are male and female anatomy, human reproduction, and human sexual response. Films and pamphlets are used to aid the teachers in the biological aspects.

More complex and difficult to deal with are the moral issues involved.

Dr. R. A. H. Kinch, a gynecologist at the University of Western Ontario who helped to set the courses up for the London Board of Education, explains:

Stage Set

"After the medical questions and misconceptions have been dealt with, the stage is set to answer the questions about boy-girl relationships. These young sophisticates are hungry for a set of rules to which they can conform without appearing 'square'."

The watchword here, the teachers say, is a simple but effective tool of good teaching: throw the questions back to the students—"What do you think?" A discussion ensues, all sides are presented, and the students then have both the information and various viewpoints to help them make a meaningful decision.

"Inter-adolescent relations would be a good title for these courses," Dr. Kinch suggested. "It suggests that we are teaching more than the biological aspects of human "sexuality".

"If you present these people with the facts at an age when they are intensely interested and can comprehend them, they will get their parents interested."

The parents' role in sex eduction is most important.

Dr. D. M. Cram, medical director for the London Board of Education, believes that the schools can only supplement the more thorough knowledge learned in the home.

Family and parents influence a child from birth. He learns how to get along with his brothers and sisters. He watches how his parents get along.

"If we were short of time and could only teach the parents or the children, we'd teach the parents," he said. The schools can teach the ABC's of physiology, but it's the parents who teach and change the student's value systems and morals.

Much Discussed

Invariably, the parents are fascinated by the whole subject and discuss it for hours, he said.

But it's obvious that parents aren't fulfilling their role. A child with parents who don't get along will have many conflicts about male-female relationships. A recent survey of London high school students showed that only 10 per cent of the boys, and 42 per cent of the girls felt that parental sex education was helpful.

A list of written questions submitted by girls 15 and 16 years old show, in many cases, a keen interest in sex, but a frightening lack of information, even the most basic knowledge of their own body's functions.

Dr. Kinch points out that significantly there has not been one complaint from parents in the two years that the courses have been taught. The parents are obviously relieved to have the chore taken off their hands, he said.

To help the parents out, Dr. Cram explained, we give the students knowledge of sexuality.

"You can't be exploited if you have the facts. And facts remove guilt."

Invariably students raise the question: "Should we, or shouldn't we have sexual intercourse before marriage?"

The Kinsey studies show that a male reaches a peak of sexual activity by age 16. This fact points to an unfortunate aspect of our society. Sexual intercourse is not sanctioned at this age.

There is a gap of several years, says Dr. Kinch, between the time young people are physically ready for sexual experience, and the time when they are emotionally ready, or economically ready to support a family. Marriage for people under 18 years of age produces a divorce rate of over 50 per cent.

So the question, "Should we or shouldn't we?" is usually answered "No".

He stresses responsibility.

Teen-agers have no conception of the far-reaching effects, most of them detrimental, of an illegitimate pregnancy; not to mention the fate of the child. He believes that the teacher is perfectly within his rights to try and influence the student against premarital sex as long as all sides of the question are presented. Until the social stigma of illegitimacy is removed, premarital sex is harmful. This is what Dr. Kinch calls the "practical approach."

Authoritarian? Maybe. But psychologists say that discipline is definitely necessary for children between the ages of 12 and 18. Dr. Cram says it is really care.

Morality Respect

He quotes Michael Schofield, a British sociologist: "Morality equals respect and responsibility." Again, the teaching method is important. A straight no to premarital intercourse is not enough. Better is: "No, I don't believe you should. But what do you think?"

Although little or no criticism has been offered against London's courses, the whole idea of sex education has run into a number of snags. The main problem seems to be the motives for teaching the courses, and the effect this has on how they are taught.

Curtis E. Avery, professor of education at the University of Oregon, points out in a pamphlet on the premarital pregnancy and venereal disease — or even premarital intercourse itself — leads to what he calls the "truth and consequence" method of teaching, in which the emphasis is placed on the evil consequences of premarital sex.

They are then asked to make a choice, and a "right" choice. Herein lies the subtle distinction between "choice" and "decision."

A "decision" involves all available information; a "choice" involves someone else's prejudice. Sex education, he believes, should not be set aside as a separate subject. All possible education — sociology, religion, English literature—should be brought to bear on the subject of sex.

Dr. Cram points out that there is just as much "sex" taught in an English class. As an example he cited Catcher in the Rye.

"We don't complain about bad English teachers. We don't complain that their interpretation of a novel might influence the students. Why complain about a bad sex education teacher?"

Know Audience

"The trouble with nearly all the books on the subject written for a teen-age audience, is that the authors don't know their audience. Unless you speak to 16-year-olds exactly as if they were adults; you are insulting their intelligence."

And how do the students react? Most of the teen-agers asked felt that the courses were extremely interesting and most said that they'd learned something.

Is this information useful? "When I get married, not now," was a common reaction.

Are the courses challenging, are they helping you make decisions about your problems — like going steady? One 15-year-old girl said that the information was helpful in some cases, but that more formal discussion was needed. She didn't feel that knowledge of how children were born was going to help her decide whether or not to go steady with someone and "how far to let him go."

The usual comment was that there wasn't enough discussion in the schools; that the courses were presented, then forgotten.

And as one bright youngster responded when asked whether a film he saw on human reproduction should be shown in school: "I guess so; it's probably more important than mathematics."

A Better Man Can Be Bred, But Who's to Set the Ideal?

By ART STOTT

Last week I took in "My Fair Lady" again, listened to Professor Higgins sing "Why Can't a Woman Be More Like a Man?" enjoyed Rex Harrison's rendition of it and disagreed entirely with the idea of the song. I'm quite happy they aren't.

Stott

Monday evening I listened to Dr. David Suzuki describe the techniques whereby genetics is moving toward predetermination of sex in babies. This, I believe, could be very useful. It could assure those few remaining monarchies which insist on male offspring inheriting the crown a scientific approach to the matter. Also, it could save the little mother expense or embarrassment by letting her know in advance whether to crochet the booties pink or blue. You'd think the wool trade would sponsor research in the field.

But that could lead to problems, also, according to Dr Suzuki. As he explained it, the male, because of chromosome characteristics, was inclined to be dominant, the aggressive and frequently belligerent partner in our society. In addition, males were not entirely free of egotism and probably would follow the techniques for a predominance of sons. That could lead to an unbalance in population, with far too few females. Like Maurice Chevalier, I sing, badly but with some feeling, "Thank Heaven for Little Girls."

The learned doctor from UBC brought us up to date on some of the miracles of eugenics and the possibilities of not only breeding a superior human being, but also of correcting some of the defects that occur before, during or immediately after birth. Experiments, he said, are continuing which could lead to cellular stimulation and specialization which might grow a new arm on a person who had lost one by accident, as lizards grow new tails when they break off.

He pointed to advances in removing fatal dangers to blue babies, in methods of counteracting such inherited disabilities as diabetes and certain other ailments of which man is victim.

He spoke, too, about test-tube study of the developing embryo to determine what influences certain drugs or treatments might have on the organism before birth.

And he left the impression that in years to come it may be possible for humans to create for themselves—and from some of their own cells—a sort of spare parts department so that when various organs wore out with age, they could dig into the stockpile and use replacements.

The prospects looked quite rosy, to me, of a man, in a future much closer than some believe, being able to go in to a scientific service station for a valve-grind and general tune-up that would enable him to function much better than many of us over-forties function now. I was also convinced that it is already feasible to breed up humanity, and breed out the defective.

India, which most of us consider a bit backward educationally, is already predetermining the sex of some of its sacred cattle so more cows are produced to give milk instead of bulls merely to eat up sustenance in areas where they are protected on religious grounds.

But with all the possibilities apparent in genetics, Dr. Suzuki purposely left unanswered the big question: Who's to decide what type of human should be developed?

Assuming that we could come much closer to perfection not only physically but in terms of character and spirit, what authority should have the right to define this state nearer perfection? It wasn't, in his mind, a question that could be answered by religious leaders, and it couldn't be left to scientists. Nor was it an issue to be determined by the nationalist who, quite conceivably, could order the development of an invincible people completely responsive to his will.

Dr. Suzuki's opinion was not at all firm that authorities, despite British Columbia's sterilization law, had the right to deny a child to a woman with defective genes if she had a better than two-tone chance of bearing a relatively normal infant—who would inherit defective genes.

Who decides?

There doesn't seem to be an answer yet. With a little luck, those of us who aren't superior specimens may hang on for quite a while.

Old Plant New Bane Of Insects

LONDON — One of the most potent insecticides yet discovered has emerged from research on a natural poison produced by a little white daisy-like relative of the chrysanthemum which grows in East Africa.

The plant is Chrysanthemum cinerariaefolium. For many years it has provided the raw material for pyrethrum, an extremely useful all-purpose insecticide whose main drawback has been its cost relative to some of the new synthetic insecticides.

The natural product, however has one over-riding advantage: insects seem unable to devise defences against it. Strains of many kinds of insects have now emerged which are resistant to several kinds of potent synthetic insecticides. This is a special threat to the large-scale spraying programs against mosquitoes which have so drastically reduced malaria in many parts of the world. In recent years, though, mosquitos have become resistant at an alarming rate.

Led to Study

This led scientists at the Rothamstead Experimental Station in England to study the chemistry of pyrethrum, and try to devise chemical variants.

They have now come up with a closely related synthetic compound "5-benzyl-3-furyl methyl - trans-chrysanthemate" (they have not got round yet to thinking of a less cumbersome name). One version of this compound turns out to be 55 times more toxic to houseflies than natural pyrethrum, and three times more toxic than parathion.

Another version is more toxic to young female mosquitos than any other insecticide ever tested, and is the most toxic insecticide known which consists only of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen.

But as with pyrethrum, its toxicity to mammals is low. Preliminary tests on rats indicate that it could be used easily and safely among animals, although much more testing is needed.

One great hope is that, being closely related to natural pyrethrum, insects will be equally unable to develop resistance. This could be of far-reaching importance for mosquito control programs.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Freight Ferry Idea Discussed

By AB KENT
Business Editor

A capital idea to capitalize on one of the capital's most pressing problems was suggested Tuesday by Victoria businessman Tom Denny.

As a member of Victoria Chamber of Commerce harbor and transportation group, Mr. Denny was discussing with other committee members the possibilities for Inner Harbor development.

KENT

He said there is opportunity for an enterprising person to establish a unitized freight truck service that would connect with the mainland via Victoria harbor, thus eliminating the often congested and time-consuming highway trip to and from Swartz Bay.

Such a service would carry drop trailers much as the B.C. Ferries and CPR freight service now handle at Swartz Bay and Sidney.

Mr. Denny noted that ferrying the trailers around the waterfront and into the Gulf Islands route would take longer than setting off from the end of Saanich Peninsula. But this would be insignificant compared with the cost of driving trucks and trailers the 20 miles they now cover between Victoria and Swartz Bay.

Both rail freight cars and unitized freight trailers could be carried to provide direct intercity service with Vancouver or Fraser River ports, Mr. Denny said.

Unitized trailers carry bulk or other shipments for redistribution or break-up at another main terminal.

Mr. Denny said a terminal could be set up in the harbor area here so that goods could be re-assigned for local delivery.

He said he knew of one businessman who likely would be interested in providing such a service.

The advantages for Victoria are clear. Not only would the indicated savings be made, but the competition could serve to keep rising freight charges down, and that is a matter of concern to all.

Metropolitan Victoria housing starts during the month of January plunged 77 per cent, according to statistics published by the B.C. region, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Comparing with the same month a year ago, single family units increased by 13 per cent and multiple units dropped by 96 per cent, for an average 77 per cent decline.

Completions rose by 44 per cent and units under construction during the month were down 42 per cent.

To assist Victoria district income tax office answer inquiries during the pre-tax deadline period, two additional incoming telephone lines are due to go into service.

There will be six incoming lines and four lines for outgoing calls, all operated through the main switchboard number, 382-2173.

Imperial Tobacco Profits Decline

MONTREAL (CP) — Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd. has reported net earnings of $12,725,000 or $1.28 a share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1966 compared with $13,331,000 or $1.34 a share in 1965.

President John M. Keith attributed the decrease in earnings to the "cost-price squeeze that dominated the year."

Living Costs Edge Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index edged a fraction higher in February despite significantly lower prices for many foods.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today that the index stood at 146.1 at the beginning of February, a rise of just one-tenth of a poin from 146.0 in January. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Sub-indexes for housing, clothing, transportation, health and personal care, recreation and reading, tobacco and alcohol all rose during the month.

But the food sub-index was down to 144.1 from 144.9 in January. Among the items priced lower were most fats, including butter, eggs, grapefruit and bananas, some processed and frozen fruits and juices, canned and frozen peas, fresh tomatoes, poultry and all cuts of pork and beef except blade roast, stewing beef and hamburg.

SOME PRICES UP

Prices were higher for all dairy products except cheese, as well as for bread, tea, apples, root vegetables, cabbage and lettuce, fresh and frozen fish, lamb and veal.

Today's report on consumer prices showed housing costs almost steady; the sub-index was 147.7, compared with 147.6 the month previously. Slight increases were recorded for rents, new houses and insurance.

Transportation marked up the largest price changes of the month. The sub-index increased to 155.0 from 153.0 on subway and bus fare increases in Montreal, and generally higher prices for gasoline, motor oil, car insurance and some taxi fares.

Men's and women's wear and piece goods cost more, outweighing price reductions in footwear and many items of children's wear to drive the clothing sub-index to 129.1 from 128.6.

Fair Sex Won't Go Underground

Women won't be allowed to work underground as mining technicians after all.

The International Labor Code severely restricts the conditions under which females are allowed to go underground, the legislature's mining and railway committee learned Tuesday.

The proposal to allow female employees below ground for the first time in B.C. history was amended in the committee at the mines department request to comply with the Convention of the International Labor Organization to which Canada is a signatory.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers earlier had explained the new system would allow female computer operators and other technicians to work below ground under carefully supervised contidtions in an office or laboratory-type of environment.

But the new amendment will bar all females from underground activities under the ILO Convention except those in managerial positions not involving manual work, females involved in health or welfare services, students and occasional visits by above-ground female employees for non-manual purposes.

Chief mining inspector W. J. Peck, who suggested the original change after visiting mining operations in Sweden, told the committee that the provincial labor department brought the ILO requirements to his attention after the bill was drafted.

Committee chairman James Chabot was authorized by the committee to contact mine operators and union officials to request submission of their views on the 68-page bill which would completely overhaul the safety and working regulations for the mining industry.

Deadline for the submissions is March 17.

Just as a doctor earns the right to his M.D. after serving as an intern in a hospital, a Chartered Accountant earns the right to the designation of C.A. after undergoing a period of intense training with a firm of chartered accountants employed in public practice. This "on-the-job" experience is vital because of the nature of a C.A.'s work in public practice, industry, education and government: the organization, analysis and application of financial methods, procedures and controls. A Chartered Accountant is a key man in charting a company's course, and the rapid growth of his profession is one of the outstanding phenomena of the modern business era.

Metchosin Asks More Bus Runs

More than 150 people have signed a petition seeking a better bus service for Metchosin.

Mrs. Willy de Groot, who with her husband operates a riding school at Metchosin, started the ball rolling for a better service when parents of pupils complained that their children weren't able to get out for lessons.

At present there is one bus a day out to Metchosin. It goes out early in the morning and returns late afternoon.

The Metchosin golf course is losing business because of the poor service, Mrs. de Groot said.

"A better service will be important when the Colwood pool is open," she said. "There is only one bus a day and it is a big bus and sometimes there are only two people on it.

"We could do with a smaller bus and more trips."

She added that many individuals are inconvenienced. People who go to see doctors or to pay hospital visits are stuck in Colwood or the city for most of the day. Wives whose husbands take the car to work aren't too free to travel and there are many elderly people in that area who do not drive and must rely on the bus.

The Metchosin Ratepayers' Association will meet next Tuesday to discuss the petition before it is presented to the PUC.

Victoria Daily Times

Arthur Mayse

Recent intelligences from Gastown-on-Burrard indicate that B.C. Progressive Conservative association has managed to land a haymaker on its own jaw. This by entertaining a convention resolution which would rob Victoria of her position as provincial capital.

The suggestion, lugged in by covetous Vancouver Tories, should have been rejected with promptitude and vigor. But the convention chose to refer it back to committee, which means that it just might raise its ugly little head another day.

As a result of this caper, PC legislative standing is now reduced from zero to a minus quantity. After all, who on this side of the water is likely to plunk for a party which has any such resolution lurking under its platform?

The capital is here, and here is British Columbia's capital. This happy condition has prevailed since away back near our beginnings, when it became plain that New Westminster couldn't cut the mustard, and Victoria assumed the crown.

★

That Vancouver should covet our role is understandable. To be the capital—to host the lieutenant-governor and bask in the kudos we enjoy through possession of a legislative complex—would suit that purse-proud metropolis very well indeed.

However, I doubt that even those mainland legislators who scurry for the ferry each Friday afternoon would truly appreciate a shift in location.

For one thing, they wouldn't like the climate, which specializes in fogs even thicker than those that descend on our stately Victoria legislative chamber when the member for North Muskeg is sawing his way through his 69-page reply to the throne.

Further, I can envisage all too easily the hideous edifice which Vancouver would run up as its seat of provincial stewardship.

It would glitter with chrome and glass-brick, and in exterior design, would cross the United Nations Building with Toronto City Hall.

Inside, it would be heavily air-conditioned. Elevators would serve it, not stone stairways worn by the tread of generations of thoughtful law-makers. We do have an elevator here, of course, but it is largely ignored, even by the sturdy old folk who populate the public galleries from beginning to end of each session.

That audience conducts itself with proper Victoria decorum. Over there, they'd be constantly screaming for yet another bridge across Burrard Inlet, and like as not would throw things at our MLAs where they cowered under the hard, fluorescent glare.

★

The arguments advanced at the PC convention for a shift of capitals are the same old set with which we are belabored whenever jealous Vancouver looks our way.

To keep the capital here, those who advance them insist, is to indulge in 'expensive inefficiency' and 'outdated economics.'

If we care to forget the virtues of established tradition, also the massive dislocation of civil servants which a shift of capitals would involve, such arguments might have a minor validity.

But this is overweighed by the advantages of permitting government to conduct its legislative and executive functions in the relative peace and quiet Victoria affords.

Much better to keep the peoples' business and private industry separated by a highway haul and a watergap.

Anyway, the time is coming when we will have to rebuke these snatchers after the capital status we enjoy, and for a measure that would make our point, suggest another dose of the disciplining which Victoria applied to rowdy Vancouver in February, 1867.

On the 24th of that month, with the ink on their city charter scarce dry, a rioting mob of Vancouverites swarmed down on the Chinese quarter with fist and flame.

Victoria promptly impounded Vancouver's charter until she promised to behave herself . . . a come-uppance that our mainland cousins would do well to keep in mind!

SHIRLEY

'SPECTATOR GALLERY' ALERTED

Boat-Watchers: Dust Off the Binoculars, Cameras

EYE-FILLING DAYS AHEAD

Shirley Hewett, a sailing enthusiast of several years standing, today launches a weekly column on small boat activities in the Southern Vancouver Island area. Shirley is a graduate of Victoria College and became a boat fan after her marriage, crewing for her husband, who is in the business. Her column will cover the wide range of small boating as well as actual sailing. Mail for her column should be addressed c/o The Times.

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

The Boat Watchers Society of Victoria is unorganized and largely informal.

Its membership is anonymous and includes everyone who has ever travelled the waterfront roads, paused to lean over the Causeway, or stopped for a coffee at Oak Bay Marina.

Its dues are exacted in tolls of shoe leather and car gasoline. Its most avid members pursue their quarry with binoculars and cameras. Its legions probably include you.

•

Boat watching can be highly specialized. Some people never miss the passage of a P & O-Orient liner. Dallas Road residents can time their daily activities by the Port Angeles ferries. But in the city which has played host to many Swiftsure yacht races, hundreds of people have a particular interest in the sailing boats which are now proliferating at an unprecedented rate.

Those who relish the excitement of the Swiftsure spectacular can look forward to another international sailing regatta this summer. The Royal Victoria Yacht Club will sponsor the Pacific International Yachting Association Regatta from July 1 to 4. This will probably attract a field of over 100 entries ranging from small racing dinghies to the Swiftsure regulars.

•

So the "Spectator Gallery" has three months to brush up on basic terminology, and sort out the difference between a spinnaker and a genoa.

During March, refresher courses in sailboat watching are available free of charge at two locations.

Sunday March 12 will see the seventh race of the cruising classes series which has been going since November at Tsehum Haven.

These races have attracted an average of 15 starters, whose skippers and crew are mostly the "pros" of the local sailing world. The first and second placers in the 1966 "Little Swiftsure" (Juan de Fuca) Race, Peter Coombs' Doxy II and Theo de la Mare's Tandem, have both been out perfecting their tactics. A good vantage point for viewing is the Sidney government wharf.

No less enthusiastic, but a little less experienced are the group which sails out of Oak Bay Marina. The Turkey Head Sailing Association will hold its final races on Sunday, March 19. This series was launched last fall by Dick James and Charlie Pash, who qualify as unofficial commodores of the Marina Sailboat Owners' "Yacht Club."

Competing boats are rated by a golf-type handicap, which is constantly revised according to the performance of the boat and her skipper. The Marina is winter home for most of the Sharks and Haidas in the area, and these two "one designs" have been the most consistent participants in the Sunday races.

Once a year, power and sailing boats can be inspected away from their natural environment. Boat Show time is here, and many Victorians will make the annual pilgrimage to the Vancouver P.N.E. grounds.

Formerly, only boats, motors, and related equipment were exhibited. Last year the show expanded to include trailer, camping, and other outdoor sporting gear. The show runs for 10 days and includes two weekends, which is particularly convenient for out-of-towners who cannot travel during their working week.

Starting on Thursday, the Showmart, Purefoods, Agrodome and Home Arts Buildings will be open on weekdays from 6 p.m. through to 11 p.m. The Saturday and Sunday schedule is 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. A variety act stage and pool show in the Agrodome goes at 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 4 and 8:30 p.m. Saturdays; and 4 p.m. Sundays.

Young Forger Jailed

$800 Obtained In Cheque Fraud

A young man who pleaded guilty to charges of forgery amounting to more than $800 was sentenced to 15 months in jail today in central court.

Magistrate J. A. Byers also sentenced Harry Marshall Smith, 3000 Tillicum, to six months indefinite detention.

Smith had been remanded to today after an earlier hearing.

A total of nine counts of uttering at stores in three Victoria municipalities were specified in the charge.

Speaking to sentence, Smith's counsel said Smith "had a false sense of values. He thought as long as he had money he would be alright."

CAR THEFT SENTENCE

Marko Smart, 1751 Hampshire, was sent to jail for 14 months definite, and six months indefinite on a charge of theft over $50.

Court was told at an earlier hearing Smart stole an automobile from the lot at Victoria High School Feb. 24.

Passing sentence Magistrate Byers said "various probation officers and others have been doing their best to straighten you out.

"But you insist on getting yourself in trouble."

WEEK REMAND

A Vancouver man was remanded a week for a presentence report after pleading guilty to forging another man's name to $140 worth of travellers' cheques Tuesday.

Court was told Donald MacDonnell passed seven forged $20 American Express cheques at the Hudson's Bay Co., the T. Eaton Co., Safeway Co. and Esquimalt Bakery in Esquimalt Plaza.

After being arrested the man gave police $140 cash to make restitution to the stores.

Big Weekend Shaping Up For May 24th

"Victoria Through the Centuries" will be the theme of this year's three-day May 24 celebrations.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee met Tuesday to discuss plans for the holiday weekend and reports indicate there will be no shortage of entertainment.

Concerts will be held throughout the weekend and featured will be the Ingraham Junior High band from Seattle which has 200 members, and will put as many as possible into the band shell at Beacon Hill Park.

Application forms have gone out to six out-of-town bands which have asked permission to take part in the parade on Monday, May 22, said chairman John Rafter.

In addition to the concerts, the committee expects the Victoria Riding Academy's annual horse show will be staged on the weekend, as well as an inboard-outboard regatta at Elk Lake and a soap box derby.

Woman Given Three Months

A woman who has spent one year in the last three in jail on vagrancy convictions, was sentenced in central court today to another three months.

Court was told Lynn Baily, no fixed address, was found sitting on the railway tracks on the Johnson Street bridge Tuesday afternoon.

LIONS CLUB ON THE BALL SATURDAY

When the Easter Seal campaign gets rolling this year it will be with a real ball.

Lions clubs on the southern Island will push a six-foot ball (made from a fiberglas septic tank) from Sooke to Victoria on Saturday.

★ ★ ★

City area Lions will roll up at City Hall at 3:30 in the afternoon and will be met there by civic officials.

Campaign chairman Ray Baechler said the target amount for this year's campaign in Greater Victoria — for Centennial year — is $19,670.

★ ★ ★

Last year the Lions and other campaign workers collected $17,000 through the mails.

Money is used by the B.C. Society for Crippled Children in many programs — summer camps, transportation, recreation — for the handicapped.

MLAs MOURNING VANIER

Nobody at Buildings For Peace Marchers

About 50 marchers from the British Columbia Peace Council paraded to the Legislative Buildings in the rain to present a brief urging an end to the Vietnam war.

But there was no one to receive them. The cabinet and MLAs were gathering at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for a memorial service for Governor-General Vanier whose state funeral took place in Ottawa three hours earlier.

Peace Council secretary Lawrence Gardner of Vancouver said most of the 50 marchers were from the lower mainland.

Their march had been organized before the Governor-General's death.

"It was all laid on. We had no chance to change our plans," he said.

ALL ARRANGED

He had understood that some MLAs would be at the Buildings when they arrived.

"We didn't know until this morning about the memorial service."

The marchers dismantled their signs and banners and departed soon after 11 a.m. But they said they would parade back to the Buildings at noon where they hoped to present a brief to the government. They had an appointment to meet NDP officials at 1:40 p.m., they added.

The marchers came here by chartered bus and were joined by a few local demonstrators. They represented all age groups. A handful of youths representing Victoria Youth Council gathered on the Buildings steps to observe the marchers.

The signs read "Stop the bombing in North Vietnam" and "One out of every 17 Vietnamese is now an amputee."

The Peace Council brief asks the provincial government to urge Ottawa to call on the U.S. to halt bombing North Vietnam, halt shipments of war materials to the U.S., ask the U.S. make a settlement based on the 1954 Geneva agreement and make Canadian medical aid available to all of Vietnam.

'TIP THE SCALES'

A press release says, "If the Canadian government can be persuaded to take a positive stand its position in the world would tip the scales in favor of peace. . . ."

The brief claims a million children have been killed or wounded, many of them burned beyond recognition by napalm. It cites Canada's non-neutrality in provision of war supplies.

The brief also points out that the war is having an effect on the B.C. economy, the scarcity of money making it hard for B.C. to compete in overseas markets.

Driver Injured, $1,400 Damage In Hillside Crash

A man was treated for head cuts and rib injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning following a traffic collision at Quadra and Hillside.

George Wetherall, 410 Gorge Rd. W., was driving a car east on Hillside when it collided with a car driven by Robert Johnson, 608 Cornwall, north on Quadra.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $1,400.

Everybody Mum On Welfare Controversy

The question of an alleged list of young welfare recipients prepared for city police was to have been aired Tuesday night by the executive of the Southern Vancouver Island branch, B.C. Association of Social Workers.

But its president, Miss Ann Black, today would only state, "We are not prepared to make any further statement."

Reg Clarkson, who resigned last week as chairman of the social action committee because of the association's reticence, promised further disclosures after the meeting. But he was called up Island on duty and was not available.

Park Handover 'Within a Year'

Mt. Douglas Next To Go Regional

Mount Douglas Park will come under regional district jurisdiction within a year, according to Ald. Robert Baird.

Ald. Baird made the statement this morning following the last meeting of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

During the meeting the committee formally agreed to switch the administration, and maintenance of Elk-Beaver Lake Park to Saanich on March 15 as the first step to bringing the area under regional control.

Two weeks ago Victoria council agreed to sell the park area to the regional board for $250,000 and to dedicate the land for park use in perpetuity.

Under the agreement Saanich agreed to take over maintenance.

'NOT TOO LONG'

In discussion on what the budget should be for the one remaining property, Ald. Baird said he didn't think too much should be spent "because it won't be too long before Mount Douglas becomes a regional park."

Asked how long he felt it would be before the city relinquished title to its last park property in Saanich, Ald. Baird replied "in a year's time."

NEW NAME

With Mount Douglas the only park left to the Victoria-Saanich Committee it was decided to recommend to both municipal councils that the name of the group be changed to the "Victoria - Saanich Mount Douglas Park Committee".

The budget for work on Mount Douglas this year will run a little more than $5,000 as compared with $3,500 spent last year.

Total budget for the joint-committee operation, estimated prior to the transfer of maintenance costs to Saanich, was $53,000.

WHOLE COST

In the past the costs have been shared on a 50-50 basis with Saanich which will now pick up the entire cost of the Elk-Beaver operation.

The budget, as prepared by Victoria parks superintendent Herb Warren and city treasurer James Bramley, will be handed over to Saanich for study and a final decision on how much should be spent.

As prepared the budget had earmarked $6,565 for Hamsterley Park, $6,650 for Eagle Park, $15,300 for Beaver Lake Park, $8,225 for lifeguards, $6,580 for varied maintenance and improvement projects and $4,790 for administration.

These expenditures will now be assumed by Saanich.

The transfer of the park to the regional district and the maintenance costs to Saanich comes after 50 years of joint operation.

POLISH FESTIVAL PLANNED TO MARK CANADA'S CENTENARY

Victoria's Polish community will celebrate Canada's centenary with a banquet and concert on Easter Sunday.

Sponsored by the White Eagle Polish Association, the festivities will be held in the Polish Hall, 90 Dock Street, starting at 3 p.m.

President Les Kubica, a veteran of World War II, who served with the British Eighth Army as a paratrooper in North Africa and Italy, said about 200 people are expected to attend the banquet.

"It will be a Polish festival," he said. "There will be Polish music, songs and dances."

Marriage Split Hurt Policeman's Promotion Chance

The fact a city policeman was separated from his wife was a factor in deciding his eligibility for promotion, Detective-Inspector William Andrews testified Monday.

But he said the fact that Constable Lorne Shandley is president of the Victoria Policemen's Union was not considered when he was evaluated for promotion.

Inspector Andrews was giving evidence before an arbitration board inquiring into Constable Shandley's charge that he was treated unfairly by the city police commission.

Constable Shandley, a member of the police force for 21 years and union president for 15 of them, claims he was passed over for promotion despite his being recommended for advancement by a department promotional board.

DISCRIMINATION

Constable Shandley told the hearing that he thinks he was discriminated against by Chief J. F. Gregory, Deputy Chief Ray Maitland, Inspector Brooke Douglass and Inspector Andrews.

The deputy chief and the two inspectors made the evaluation of Constable Shandley for promotion. This evaluation resulted in him being recommended as suitable for promotion.

However, he was passed over by Chief Gregory in favor of another man who scored a lower over-all rating.

Constable Shandley told the hearing that he questioned some items in his evaluation, as well as the fact that he was passed over for promotion.

SCORED HIGHER

Constable Shandley scored 75.75 points in the over-all evaluation, compared with 70.75 points for the man who was promoted. However, if the points for seniority were deducted, the other man came out one point ahead of Constable Shandley.

One reason for this one point difference was that Constable Shandley's rival was awarded two points for "integrity" on the evaluation and Constable Shandley received only one.

Questioned on the reason why Constable Shandley was given half the points awarded the other man, Inspector Andrews replied that it was done "for the simple reason that Shandley is separated from his wife."

Const. Shandley was given one point when evaluated on his "respect for authority" compared with 1½ points for the other person in the case.

Insp. Andrews, under examination by Const. Shandley's lawyer, Dermod Owen-Flood, said this lower evaluation had nothing to do with Const. Shandley's union activities.

RESPECTFUL

He said "I can't recall" why Const. Shandley received a half-point less than the other officer. "As far as I am concerned, he has always been most respectful for authority."

Insp. Andrews said that when Const. Shandley completed a six-months stint as a detective-constable, and moved back into the uniform division, "I complimented him on his work and said I was sorry he had to leave the (detective) division."

Mr. Owen-Flood's examination on the reasons for the evaluation was cut off at this point after E. E. Pearlman, lawyer for the police commission, objected.

Mr. Pearlman argued the arbitration board should not be concerned with how the promotional board made its evaluations so long as it applied the same yardstick in each case. Insp. Andrews said all candidates for promotion were assessed on the same factors.

Giving evidence, Const. Shandley told of an interview with Chief Gregory when he asked why he had been passed over for promotion.

He said the chief at first pointed out that Const. Shandley had received 28.75 points on a law examination, compared with 32.25 for his rival. However Chief Gregory, when corrected by Const. Shandley, agreed that he in fact had scored 34.75 points on the exam.

Const. Shandley said that on another occasion when he discussed his evaluation with the chief, Chief Gregory asked ". . . if I was questioning the integrity of the board to evaluate you. I said, 'I certainly am at this juncture'."

ONLY WHEN EQUAL

Under cross-examination by Mr. Pearlman, Const. Shandley agreed that at one point Chief Gregory had told him that seniority was a factor in promotion only when the evaluation of candidates was equal.

Mr. Pearlman told Const. Shandley, "You seem to overlook the fact that, although there were no complaints against you, it is possible there were also none against (the other man) and he may be a better man than you. Is that possible?"

Const. Shandley answered, "Yes".

But he also said under cross-examination that "I feel I am just as qualified or better" than the man promoted over him "and he is a personal friend of mine."

The hearing continued this morning before the three-man arbitration composed of B. W. Dysart, a retired civil servant, Ken Murphy, a city lawyer, and C. R. Maclean, a Vancouver lawyer.

When Does Row of Trees Become a Fence? Saanich to Try and Find Right Answer

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich will dust the cobwebs off its fence regulations in May.

As matters stand, under a 31-year-old bylaw, fences and hedges must be less than five feet high unless permission is obtained from council to exceed the limitation.

Council recently rejected a request from one homeowner for a seven-foot fence and tabled a request for permission from another person to retain a hedge over five feet.

One councillor, noting that hedges are fences, wondered when a row of trees ceases to be that and becomes a fence.

One of the earliest Saanich bylaws, passed in 1914, defined a "lawful fence" and even provided for "fence viewers."

A lawful fence was defined 53 years ago as:

- Of earth, stone, brick, concrete or iron;
- Of logs, rails, boards or bars of wood or iron;
- Of upright posts, boards, palings or pickets;
- Of a combination of the foregoing;
- Of standard gauge wire, woven wire or barbed wire;
- Any hedge.

This bylaw provided that:

- No one shall within 25 feet of the boundary line of a property erect a fence or permit any hedge higher than five feet, without council permission;
- No one shall erect a fence of barbed wire beside a highway with a sidewalk;
- No one shall erect a barbed wire fence between his property and the neighboring one or within 25 feet of the boundary without the neighbor's permission.

It was at this time that Saanich incorporated penalties into the bylaw.

The maximum fine was set at $100, or in default imprisonment not exceeding one month.

There was a minor amendment in 1943 and in 1949 it was decided that council permission was needed first before barbed wire fences could abut a highway.

All of which appeared to indicate a row of trees isn't a fence — unless, somehow, it is considered a hedge.

This is just one of the problems in the fence bylaw that municipal officials, and later council, will have to consider in May.

Victoria Aims At Fourth Spot Against Oakland

Skies were dripping on Victoria this morning but the day seemed bright and full of promise to coach Frank Mario.

First of all, Mario and his Victoria Maple Leafs are in position to take over possession of fourth place in the Western Hockey League when they tangle with Oakland Seals tonight at the Memorial Arena.

As if that wasn't enough, there is the acquisition of two players to aid the Leafs in their campaign to nail down one of the league's four playoff positions.

Vancouver Canucks added other pleasantness for the Leafs when they blanked the Seals 3-0 Tuesday night at Vancouver.

UP TO LEAFS

That kept the Seals deadlocked in the fourth spot with Los Angeles Blades, just one point ahead of Victoria. The Blades are idle tonight, which leaves it strictly up to the Leafs to climb into playoff territory by slapping the Seals.

Tuesday had started with the appearance at the morning training session of big Gary Smith, ready and willing to back up rookie Al Smith in the Victoria goal.

More good news arrived later in the day from the parent Toronto Maple Leafs. The Toronto brass announced that Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional League had been ordered to send their leading scorer to Victoria.

Due to arrive today was Gary Veneruzzo, a 23-year-old winger in his third professional season.

TULSA'S LEADER

Playing for a club hopelessly out of the race for a playoff berth, Veneruzzo last week had a total of 21 goals and 24 assists with the Oilers, lowest-scoring club on the circuit.

Although they didn't get the defenceman they had been asking for, Mario and manager Buck Houle were pleased with acquisition of Veneruzzo, a sturdy 165-pounder.

"He should help us," said Houle. "He's a real good worker who has improved every season."

Mario and Houle were to decide today whether or not Veneruzzo will be in the lineup against the Seals tonight but they will certainly have him in action before Saturday to make him eligible for playoffs.

SOME WORRY

Although things are looking considerably brighter for the Leafs than they did two weeks ago, Mario was following the normal pattern for coaches and finding a few things to worry about. He was concerned about the law of averages and overconfidence.

Winners of six of their last seven games, the Leafs have had remarkable success against the Seals this season and Frank fears his club might be too confident against a club that is too good to keep on losing.

In nine games between the clubs this season, the Leafs have collected six victories and two ties, losing only once. In those nine arguments, the Seals have scored only 14 goals gainst the Smith boys.

Al Smith was in the nets for seven of them, allowing only nine goals and posting two of his six shutouts.

SHUTOUT LEADERS

Smith is now sharing the league shutout lead with Vancouver's Don Simmons, who fashioned his sixth whitewash job Tuesday night against the Seals.

In addition to the sparkling work by Simmons, the Canucks were a sharp club and it took alert netminding by Jack McCartan to save Oakland from greater humiliation. McCartan stopped 28 of 30 shots in the first two periods.

(The Washington Post)

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. — By the presence of Bill Burbach, a pitcher, in their training camp, it is manifest that these are not the glory days of the New York Yankees.

Burbach is only 19 years old and he had a ghastly 3-14 record with Greensboro in the Carolina League last year, yet he is a Yankee, at least tentatively.

Before compiling that 3-14 record at Greensboro, Burbach was 2-9 at Johnson City, Tenn., the previous year. These credentials are not quite impressive, and in the Stengel-McCarthy era the scout with the temerity to usher a Bill Burbach into a Yankee camp would have been inquired of, unpleasantly, "are you out of your blank-blank mind?"

But this is the spring of 1967 and the Yankee manager cannot afford such hauteur toward anybody. Ralph Houk is manager of a team in trouble, as the Yankees 10th-place finish last season would suggest, plus their eighth-place status of the year before. Of young Burbach, Houk was saying, "There's a good-looking young pitcher out there working. His name is Burbach."

He is a big boy for his years, 6-foot 4, and 205 pounds. "He's got size going for him," Houk said. But how could Houk like a rookie who was a 3-15 flop at Greensboro?

"You should have seen that Greensboro club he pitched for," Houk said. "Anybody who could win three games for it must have been a magician."

'No-Hitter, Eh? But Did He Win?'

Houk preferred to point to Burbach's 2.19 earned run average. "That's what I like about him," said the Yankee manager. "He allowed 60 runs and 25 of them were unearned. He averaged eight strikeouts a game and allowed an average of six hits. He was losing ball games 1-0 and 2-1 all season. He was the Sandy Koufax of that league."

Greensboro, it seems, was a worse-hitting club last year than even the Los Angeles Dodgers. And young Burbach was never certain what his Greensboro infield was going to do with a batted ball.

Don Drysdale several seasons back made a commentary on luckless pitchers like Koufax and young Burbach. It was a day when Drysdale was given permission to leave the Dodgers for a day to transact some personal business. Informed by an excited fan on his arrival at the Dodgers' hotel that "Koufax just pitched a no-hitter against the Phillies," Drysdale inquired, "Did he win?"

The Yankees used to come to these training camps wondering mostly about minor problems such as who would be their third-string catcher or where they would get another right-handed pinch hitter. Their starting lineup, including the pitching, was predetermined, with only one new man, at most, breaking in.

Numbers Mean Weakness at Short

But these Yankees are scrounging just like any other second-division team, and in fact they are in worse shape than most.

They are gambling at first base, where they are asking Micky Mantle to take ever so his legs may be saved the wear and tear of outfielding. And for the first time in 11 years they don't have Bobby Richardson at second base and are gambling that Horace Clark, last year's part-time shortstop, can do the job.

It is not a solid situation on the right side of the infield, and thus it was somewhat startling when manager Houk said, "It is the left side that is our problem." The left side was, indeed, shattered a bit the other day when the number one hope at shortstop, Bobby Murcer, got army draft greetings.

Houk is now trying three guys at the shortstop job, Ruben Amaro, Dick Howser and Jerry Kenney. In this instance, numbers mean weakness, with no solid shortstop available. Amaro, from the Phillies, is a good glove man but shares a common weakness with the others—not much hit. Howser is a Cleveland castoff and Kenney has not played a game of major league ball.

The Yankees have seven catchers in camp, another case in which numbers mean they are worried about the position. Elston Howard is now 37 and was slowing last season. Their number two man, Jake Gibbs, doesn't hit like a Yankee catcher should.

In the outfield, the Yankees are attempting to patch. Tom Tresh in left is solid and Joe Pepitone can play centrefield. But in right they are relying on Bill Robinson, a rookie from the Atlanta Braves. The Yankees got Robinson by trade in the hope he is a big leaguer. This is the kind of gamble they used to ask other clubs to take.

'Peg Pilot Suggested As Coach for Vikings

WINNIPEG (CP) — Bud Grant, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Tuesday said Minnesota Vikings had not asked permission of the Winnipeg football club to talk to him about becoming head coach of the National Football League club.

He was commenting in an interview on speculation he is one of four men being considered for the coaching job at Minneapolis.

"If Vikings wanted to talk to me they would have to get permission from the Winnipeg football club and, to my knowledge, they have not asked."

He said he signed a five-year contract with the Winnipeg club as coach and general manager last month "in good faith" and had not been personally contacted by the Viking club.

Grant declined comment when asked if he would be interested in the coaching position.

Ekstrom Claims Frostbite Honor

Ron Ekstrom hooked, played and landed an 11-pound, 14-ounce chinook salmon and reeled in the top prize in a Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association frostbite fish derby.

Jean Christie Tops Uplands Golf Event

Jean Christie fired a sparkling net 66 Tuesday to take "A" division honors in a women's competition at Uplands Golf Club.

Win McGuire topped "B" section with a net 76 and Mrs. M. Boorman paced "C" division with a net 75.

BRISK ACTION AT BRIER

Tough Sledding Ahead For Alberta Says Hec

HULL, Que. (CP)—Former world curling champion Hector Gervais, of Winnipeg, says the defending champion Alberta rink is "in for some tough going" during its final six games of the Canadian men's curling championship.

The defending world and Canadian champions skipped by Ron Northcott of Calgary, were the only undefeated foursome going into today's rounds.

But "they have to meet four of the toughest rinks in the bonspiel" over the remaining route, Gervais said Tuesday night.

The four tough rinks he referred to are Manitoba, British Columbia and Ontario, all jammed into second place with 4-1 won-lost records, and Saskatchewan with a 3-1 record.

NEWFIE WINLESS

The Prince Edward Island foursome skipped by Ken MacDonald of Montague was in sixth place after Tuesday's three rounds with a 2-2 record, while the Bill Grozelle skipped Northern Ontario rink from Haileybury and Ron Franklin's Nova Scotia representatives from Halifax followed at 1-3.

Rinks skipped by Charlie Sullivan of Saint John, N.B., and Bruce Beveridge of Montreal followed at 1-4, and Newfoundland's Ken Kaltchak of Goose Bay was still looking for his first victory after five games.

B.C. TOPPLED

Manitoba began the day by topping B.C., skipped by Buzz McGibney of Trail, from the unfeated ranks with an 11-10 laststone decision. Included in the come-from-behind victory was a four ender by Manitoba in the third end.

That left Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba undefeated, but Nova Scotia changed that by pulling the first major upset of the tournament and downing the Winnipeg rink 10-5 in the fourth round.

"They were shakier than I thought they'd be and they missed quite a few shots," Franklin said after the game.

Ontario defeated Saskatchewan 9-7 in the fifth round in one of the most exciting games of the day. It was the first loss for the Elbow foursome and was in doubt until skip Doug Wankel's final shot was delivered.

Drysdale Drops Retirement Hint

By The Associated Press

Don Drysdale left the problem-plagued Los Angeles Dodgers wondering today how far he and Sandy Koufax can carry the idea of togetherness.

The two pitched the Dodgers to pennants and World Series victories together, held out together, and now Drysdale is talking about following Koufax into retirement.

"I'm pitching on a year to year basis," said the 30-year-old right hander, who has been bothered by a sore arm this spring. "This could be my last year, or I might play five more.

"I've reached the point where I have to think of my family and security. At the end of 1967, I'll weigh all the factors."

Drysdale, who was acting with Koufax at this time last year during their celebrated salary holdout that cost Drysdale most of spring training and subsequently led to a 13-16 record, signed for about $100,000 this year and reported to camp in the best shape in several years. But the sore arm apparently is bothering him.

With Los Angeles' 1967 pennant hopes all but dashed by Koufax's retirement in December because of his arthritic elbow, similar action by Drysdale would make the situation even worse next year.

Meanwhile, San Francisco Giants also received more bad news from Juan Marichal, another of baseball's top pitchers.

The Giants found another unsigned contract in their mail from the Dominican right-hander, who is holding out for a reported $125,000 after a 25-6 won-lost season in 1966 when he got $75,000. Marichal said a week ago he was returning the Giants' $90,000 offer.

Rocky Colavito ended his hold out with Cleveland Indians. He will get a reported $55,000, a $10,000 cut from last year. General manager Gabe Paul is reported to have been asking the 33 - year - old outfielder to take the maximum 25-per-cent cut after hitting 30 home runs with a .238 batting average.

153 INJURED . . . . . IN TICKET LINEUP

Sale Prompts Melee

LIVERPOOL England (AP)—Women and children were trampled underfoot in a mile-long queue of 40,000 soccer fans battling in a frenzy Tuesday night for tickets for Saturday's Football Association Cup match between rival teams Everton and Liverpool.

Police counted 153 persons injured in the near-riot. Twenty-three needed hospital treatment. Many of the others collapsed with exhaustion after waiting outside the stadium for 24 hours.

When the tickets finally went on sale, the crowd lost control, fighting and scuffling through cordons of mounted police.

Saturday's match will go on at Everton's Goodison Park. Closed-circuit television will relay live pictures of the game to Liverpool's Anfield Road stadium.

Wings Go Deep For Player Aid

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings dipped deep into their farm system for help this week as they sought help that would put them back in the National Hockey League playoff picture.

The Wings, trying desperately to make the fourth and final playoff spot, will have three minor-league players in uniform tonight when they meet the second-place Rangers at New York in one of three NHL games.

The other games tonight have fourth - place Montreal Canadiens in Toronto for a game with the third - place Maple Leafs and league-leading Chicago Black Hawks are host to the last - place Boston Bruins.

The Wings have brought up goalie George Gardner and defenceman Bob Falkenburg from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League and Gerry Abel, son of Detroit coach Sid Abel, from Memphis of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Goalie Hank Bassen, defenceman Warren Godfrey and forward Ab McDonald were returned to Pittsburgh. Bassen was in nets Sunday when the Red Wings beat Boston 5-3 in one of the club's rare road victories this season.

Detroit will be without Paul Henderson and rookie Ray Cullen for tonight's game. Henderson has a pulled groin musole and Cullen a chipped knee bone.

The Bruins will have winger Ross Lonsberry in uniform for tonight's game with the Hawks. He was called up from Oklahoma City of the CPHL to replace injured Bob Dillabough.

The Canadiens will have defenceman Terry Harper back in the lineup for tonight's game with the Leafs. The rugged rearguard was out for a month with a shoulder injury.

Canucks Rally For Win

The same teams tied 4-4 in an exhibition last Sunday.

Ted Hargreaves, 23-year-old left wing from Weyburn, Sask., tied the count in the fourth minute of the second period, storming in alone against Czech goalie Holecek.

The Canadians overpowered the home team in the third period. Billy MacMillan scored in the second minute, Ray Cadieux in the seventh minute and Morris Mott in the 18th, assisted by Fran Huck.

Swedes Pick Best

Blackboard Binges Danger to Russians

LONDON (UPI)—Bunny Ahearne, colorful European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, thinks Russia's world supremacy will come up for its strongest challenge yet at the 1967 world championships in Vienna, March 18 to 29.

Canada, Czechoslovakia or even Sweden might put an end to the Russians' four-year reign as world champs in the 11,000 capacity Wiener Stadthalle, Ahearne said.

"Too much blackboard coaching is hurting the Russians," said the former World Hockey president now in charge of the 27-nation European division of the federation.

ARMY-TRAINED

The powerful Russian sextet has taken it on the chin against all three main challengers this season, Ahearne said he believes one of the reasons is that their coaching is too strict and does not leave enough room for fantasy and initiative on the ice.

But it's doubtful if the Czechs, Canadians and Swedes would agree after having been handed brilliant hockey lessons by the Russians in the last four world tournaments.

In fact, the closest anybody got to beating the super-fit, army-trained Russian outfit in the last three years was Sweden's draw in last year's world tournament at Ljubljana, Yugoslavia.

Ahearne said he thinks Canada's sextet, coached by former NHL player Jackie MacLeod and advised by father David Bauer, is stronger than ever this season. Their wins over the Russians and Czechs on home ice seem to prove it.

Czechoslovakia, which has been rebuilding its team during the last three years, seems to be hitting top shape just in time. "Dangerous as ever," said Ahearne.

Sweden has had serious trouble with its half-new, half-veteran club and they have been trounced badly by the Czechs in warmup games.

"But I can see possibility of the psychological factor letting down," said Ahearne. "That the Russians and Canada might well let Sweden and the Czechs in.

"It will all depend on the coaching, said Ahearne, "from now on they should be psychiatrists rather than hockey coaches."

FOUR SOCCER PLAYERS SLAIN

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — A customer in a bar here drew a pistol and shot to death four soccer players after he had been hit in the back by a football, police said Monday.

The customer, who escaped, seriously wounded two other members of a soccer team who had gathered in the suburban bar after a local match.

CIVILIZED FOLLEY . . . WON'T NEED EARPLUGS

He'll Be One Mum Muhammad

NEW YORK (AP)—World heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay, sporting a 10-gallon cowboy hat, green-silk suit and brightly manicured fingernails, checked into New York this week and said a buttoned lip will be the theme of his March 22 title defence against Zora Folley.

"Folley is a nice, clean, civilized man," the champion told newspaper men during a brief business visit to the New York Athletic Commission.

"I don't plan to enter into controversy this time as I have in some other fights. On this fight I plan to keep my mouth shut."

Ed Dooley, chairman of the New York commission, reminded Clay that some people were wondering whether he would be able to fight because of his draft status.

"I just don't understand it," said Clay, who prefers the Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali. "We are fighting in Vietnam for people's freedom and I am being criticized for my religious beliefs. That seems to me to be hypocritical."

The champion said he expects Folley to give him a better fight than did Ernie Terrell, whom he outpointed in a unanimous decision at Houston Feb. 6.

He repeated that his next out probably would be against Oscar Bonavena of Argentina because Joe Frazier, the unbeaten, 1964 Olympic champion from Philadelphia, had turned down a bout.

HARD, DRAB ARGUMENTS

'It's One Man's Opinion'

. . . COMPENSATION

Board," representative of labor, management and the general public.

"There should be no civil servants as members.

He said such a board would take labor injunctions out of the hands of the courts and "would not issue such orders without a full hearing based on sworn testimony subject to cross-examination."

Mr. Eddie said the need for an overhaul of labor statutes was illustrated by the "peculiar phenomenon last year of a strike and a lockout going on at the same time between the same employers and the same union."

LITTLE CHANGE

"We are still using the old set of legislation and procedures which were concocted during the Second World War. They have not changed materially since.

"Strike or lockout votes should be in order at any stage of negotiation proceedings," he said.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said the department's system of conciliation should be abolished.

"It serves only to lock management and labor into inflexible positions, and itself becomes a strike issue," he said.

Mr. Perrault called for a "top-level, blue-ribbon mediation service."

But he said mediation officers would have to be better treated than they are now, that is, "getting less than the workers coming to them."

He said the services of qualified mediation officers would be inexpensive at $25,000 or $30,000 a year.

OMBUDSMAN

Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver-Burrard) told the House the Workmen's Compensation Board needs an ombudsman "with the right to go through files like a dose of salts and find out what's going on there."

Mr. Berger said the board "ought to be compelled to give reasons for their decisions and make more adequate provision for appeal.

Mr. Berger said the present three-man board should resign.

He said that in the decade since the present chairman J. E. Eades had been appointed in 1954, the ratio of rejected claims had trebled.

"That means something is wrong," Mr. Berger said.

He added the new act should require the board to disclose the sources of its information to claimants who have been rejected and should establish the rule that any doubt about claims should be resolved in favor of the injured workman or his survivors.

Mr. Berger also urged Mr. Peterson to include agricultural workers and fishermen under the benefit provisions of the promised legislation.

APPEAL SYSTEM

Two Social Credit backbenchers also demanded that a satisfactory appeal system be introduced to review rejections by the WCB.

"There must be some place where people can appeal," Cyril Shelford (SC — Omineca) emphasized.

"I shudder now when I get a compensation case (complaint) because I don't feel good about writing back 'sorry, but there's nothing much I can do for you'," he said.

"There certainly has to be something better in the new act that comes before this House."

Ernie Lecours (SC—Richmond) said a separate board of appeal is required and "it should not be dominated by the medical profession . . . because there might be some reluctance to admit the medical profession has not solved the (injury) problem."

MORE STOPPAGES

Answering his critics, Mr. Peterson said: "I differ somewhat with the suggestion that parties should have the right to strike or lock-out at any stage.

"This would create more work stoppage than ever.

"I subscribe to the point of view that as long as you can keep parties talking, there is a chance to settle without a work stoppage."

He agreed the status of conciliation officers should be raised.

"But," he said, "these people can't be found anywhere."

He said a vigorous in-service type training is already established within the labor department.

An afternoon of hard, drab argument on labor department estimates was marked by an hour of cocktail party chatter when Opposition Leader Robert Strachan took the floor Tuesday.

Jibes were tossed back and forth across the House floor after Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) defended the Workmen's Compensation Board against falsely laid claims.

Mr. Capozzi had said opposition members would be satisfied with new Workmen's Compensation Board legislation.

"How does that member know it's good legislation?" asked Mr. Strachan. "Has he seen it?"

"No! No! It's one man's opinion," said Premier Bennett.

"If he has seen it, it should be tabled before the House rises," said Mr. Strachan.

Deputy Speaker Herb Bruch held back a tide of government and opposition comments with hammers of the chairman's gavel, not with notable success.

Mr. Strachan went on to charge the government with "jumping from crisis to crisis in the field of labor relations like a mountain goat."

"What got your goat?" asked a Socred member.

"I'll tell you," answered Mr. Strachan. "The complete inability to recognize what is wrong with the complete labor-management picture in this province.

"This is a government more concerned with the bankbooks of employers than employees," said Mr. Strachan.

"That's cheap political chat," said Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Strachan said Mr. Peterson is "a half-a-day-a-week minister."

Speakers Have 30 Entries For Contest

So far 30 entries have been received for the Victoria Toastmaster groups' annual Golden Gavel contest, set for March 10, 13, 15 and 17 in the St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora.

Entries have been received from the local Toastmasters clubs: the Arbutus Toastmistresses club and the prep school at Naden where public speaking is taught.

The contest is open to speakers who are over the age of 18 and have had less than 15 months speech training and have never competed before.

Jack Driscoll Rites Saturday

Funeral services for Jack Driscoll, well-known Victoria trade unionist, will be held Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at McCall Brothers Floral Chapel, Johnson and Vancouver.

Rev. F. W. Hayes will officiate. Interment will be at Colwood Burial Park.

Mr. Driscoll died Sunday aged 73. He was president of the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council and a former business agent of Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Centennial Plaque Test

The plaque contest involves two-minute impromptu speeches during the dinner.

After the meal the area's annual speech contest will be held with one representative from each of the eight district clubs competing to represent Victoria in the B.C. finals at Vernon.

FEATURE attraction at the Wagon Wheel Round-Up show at Langford, Saturday, is Victoria vocalist Sherry Fletcher. The show will start at 8 p.m. in the Catholic Hall.

A-Plant Sabotage?

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—Scotland Yard is investigating possible sabotage at Britain's newest atomic power station. The $44,800,000 plant at Winfrith, near here, is scheduled for completion by the end of the year. Police said piping inside an aluminum tank was damaged by mercury, which corrodes aluminum, and is not part of the reactor's construction.

'Embarrass' Government By Improving Airport Road

Making improved access to Victoria International Airport an intermunicipal project was recommended Tuesday by a Victoria Chamber of Commerce steering committee.

Involving Greater Victoria municipalities financially in the scheme may serve to "embarrass" the provincial government into paying 50 per cent of the cost, said Foster Isherwood, a member of the harbor and transportation group.

Mayor Hugh Stephen will be asked to direct the chamber in view of the intermunicipal involvement, and a copy of the letter to the mayor will go to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

Recently, committee chairman George Farmer led a delegation to Mr. Gaglardi to ask for provincial government action in relocating the awkward access from Patricia Bay Highway to the airport.

He said Mr. Gaglardi promised an estimate on cost of the project, but no figure has been received.

Mr. Gaglardi will be reminded there is considerable local pressure for improved access and directional signs.

Dealing with local traffic problems, the committee recommended to the chamber executive that full support be given to the city engineer's traffic control program, including the application of one-way streets to downtown Victoria.

"As far as I'm concerned, one-way streets are number one in priority for this city," said Mr. Farmer.

Mossadegh Dead

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Former Iranian prime minister Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh died Saturday of intestine bleeding, a hospital spokesman said. He was 86.

Mossadegh, Iran's strongest dictator as premier in 1951-53, carried out the campaign against the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company which resulted in the nationalization of the country's oil industry.

BAHAMAS STORY BRINGS SUIT

TORONTO (CP)—A writ for $1,000,000 libel damages was issued Tuesday against Time Inc. on behalf of Sir Stafford Sands, prominent Bahamas barrister and former minister in the Bahamas government.

The suit arises from an article in Life magazine of Feb. 3, entitled The Scandal in the Bahamas.

We've told you how the Volvo Canadian out-accelerates every other compact in its class and gets over 30 miles to the gallon.

7 Victorians Share Venture In Learning

Seven Victorians are among the 80 senior secondary school students from throughout British Columbia who will share in a new venture in learning March 31 and April 1 at the University of Victoria.

They will take part in the first Humanities and Science Symposium at which 29 leading students will discuss the work they have been doing before an audience of teachers and students.

The local students who will make presentations at the symposium are Christina Andreae, a Norfolk House School student who will discuss poems she has written, and Heather Hepenstall, an Oak Bay senior secondary school student who will discuss experiments she has done on leopard frogs.

BEST SUBMISSIONS

The other students who will attend the conference as observers are Paula Allen and Karen Nagel, both of St. Ann's Academy, Brian Inglis and Mona McAllister, both of Oak Bay senior secondary, and Tony Quon of Victoria senior secondary.

The students were selected on basis of papers they submitted. The best submissions will be presented by their authors and the runners-up have been invited to attend as observers.

Papers to be given cover almost the entire range of subjects offered at university level. One paper is entitled "The Death of God" and others deal with bilingualism, the school system, and the implications of modern technology.

POETRY

Several students submitted their own poetry, paintings and music. One Vancouver youth included examples of all three arts and will stage them simultaneously in what he describes as "an analysis and experiment in multi-media project form."

Special speakers at the symposium will include Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, an internationally known geophysicist from the University of Toronto, Professor Tony Emery of the art department at Uvic, and Dr. S. W. Jackman of Uvic's history department.

BARRETT
. . . bargaining rights

Government 'Sets Poor Example'

Dave Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam) said Tuesday the provincial government set an example for poor treatment of workers by industry.

Mr. Barrett said the government shows "utter disregard" for its own employees.

Mr. Barrett said the government has treated civil servants with "contempt" in not allowing them bargaining rights.

"And," said Mr. Barrett," when the government does not treat its own employees with respect how can it expect industry to look on its own employees with respect?"

Mr. Barrett said because of the government inflexibility in this regard and the consequent turnover of staff, the taxpayer has had to pay for the losses.

5-Mill Power Eyed by Alaska

The proposal was made by Gov. Hickel Tuesday at Juneau, the Associated Press reports. The meeting would be held there to discuss "common problems."

Gov. Hickel said the possibility of bringing B.C. power from Kitimat into Alaska is one matter already under discussion. The pair met in Victoria last week.

"If we could get British Columbia power at the border at some 5 mills per kilowatt hour," Hickel said, "it might be that eventually we could have a power grid in southeast Alaska using low cost hydro power."

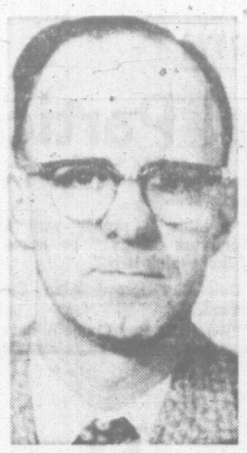
Water Safety Show Planned

Victoria city council has been invited to attend a water safety display Sunday.

The invitation comes from the Victoria (Chinatown) Lions Club which will stage a display of safety techniques at 11:30 a.m. at the Crystal Garden.

Club president Colin Seto said in his invitation that the club felt a practical demonstration by a team of experts would do a great deal towards instructing the general public in safety methods.

The display will be open to the public.



STEVENS

Administrator Named

A Comox private hospital administrator has been named business manager for the Mount St. Mary Extended Care Hospital.

John Stevens takes up his new duties April 10. He has also had hospital experience in India and in the B.C. interior.

The announcement followed the first meeting of a new board of management under chairmanship of Thomas Shorthouse.

Since the recent transition of the hospital from private to general administration has been in the hands of a board.

Other members are John Woolcock, representing the city, T. D'Arcy McGee, K. D. McRae, Brig. S. E. E. Morres, Dr. Vere Stuart, Sister Mary Ann Cecelia and Sister Mary Justinian.

A provincial representative is still to be named.

MINISTER ADMITS ACTION

Check Columbia Overtime

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Tuesday suggested that overtime is being worked regularly on the Columbia River project without a department of labor permit.

"I didn't say it nor do I intend to say it," Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said with a broad smile.

However, under further questioning by Mr. Strachan, he admitted that the department has begun checking the Columbia construction work to see if overtime is a regular feature.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) asked if legislation to restrict ex parte injunctions in labor matters would be introduced at this session but Mr. Peterson said the matter is under study both in B.C. and other provinces.

Professor Sets Talk on Marxism

"Does Marxist materialism make sense?"

That will be the topic discussed in a lunch-hour lecture Thursday at the University of Victoria.

Speaker will be Dr. Colwyn Williamson, professor of philosophy at the University of Victoria.

His talk will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the lecture theatre of the Education-Arts Building. It will be open, free of charge, to the public.

"I just wonder if more men will go to jail while these things are studied," snapped Mr. Macdonald. "The minister admits on one hand there is a problem and on the other he says we need more study—what we need is legislation."

The legislature adopted the $7.5 million labor department vote after 7½ hours of grilling Mr. Peterson.

$6,000 TOO MUCH FOR BOOTH AT FAIR, SAYS CURTIS

Jaycees' Idea for Municipal Participation 'Little Less Than Realistic'

The pat and the rap came from Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis who praised the Jaycees for the efforts in staging an annual exhibition but termed their ideas for municipal participation a little less than realistic.

The Jaycees had asked each municipality in Greater Victoria to take a special area in the 21st Exhibition scheduled for May.

Committee members estimated the cost of such a project done on an individual basis would run between $6,000 and $7,000.

"At the risk of again incurring the wrath of the Junior Chamber I have to ask if this could be termed properly a municipal expense," Reeve Curtis said.

"Is this a proper way to spend tax dollars?" he asked. "I don't think it is."

Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox agreed.

"We (Oak Bay Council) have failed to see the importance of this sort of thing," he said. "We are a small municipality and we have no people on our staff equipped to do this sort of job. If we go for something like this we have to hire someone from outside to do the job and that becomes costly.

The Jaycees had requested that each municipality efect a display based on the historic theme around a central fountain to be displayed in the arena.

"I think we should ask the Jaycees to take another look at this and see if they can't come up with an alternative," said Reeve Curtis. "I don't like to give them a flat 'no' because they do put tremendous effort into it."

"Maybe," quipped Reeve Cox, "we could invite them to come along and throw rocks at us."

If the Junior Chamber can come up with an alternative and cheaper idea the Intermunicipal Committee indicated it would be prepared to consider a joint municipal display.

TESTIMONY FROM UNDERCOVER AGENTS RELEASED

Stolen Maps Located Shipwrecks Off Atlantic Coast, Spy Trial Told

OTTAWA (CP)—A cloak-and-dagger chase involving a Soviet diplomat, a civil servant and RCMP undercover agents was described in testimony made public Tuesday.

Four RCMP "special constables" testified that Eugeni I. Kourianov, an attache at the Soviet embassy here until last September, met spy suspect Bower Featherstone at a closed shopping centre on a quiet Sunday morning about a year ago.

The two men were seen walking slowly together for about 40 minutes along various streets in the east end, talking most of the time. The embassy official was seen giving something to Featherstone, who put it in his wallet, and they left the scene in opposite directions.

Featherstone, a 27 - year - old lithographer with the mapping branch of the resources department, has been charged with two violations of the Official Secrets Act.

CONFIDENTIAL CHART

Specifically, he is accused of "obtaining" and "retaining" two copies of a confidential navy chart of the Newfoundland coast "for a purpose prejudicial to the safety of the state." The young civil servant, a father of four with a salary of about $5,700, has pleaded not guilty and is free on property bond pending his trial.

At a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Glenn Strike last month, naval officers testified that the chart in question locates shipwrecks on the sea bottom and might be useful to Soviet submarines trying to avoid detection by sonar equipment used by the Canadian navy.

KEEP USEFULNESS

The four undercover Mounties testified Feb. 20 and the press and public were excluded from the courtroom to preserve their usefulness in counter-espionage work. The transcript of their testimony was made public Tuesday by the justice department, but the Mounties were identified only as witnesses, A, B, C and D.

Bride Carries Heirloom Handkerchief

THAME-FUSSEY VOWS EXCHANGED

A silk handkerchief which her grandmother, Mrs. O. V. Herbert, carried at her own wedding, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Jacqueline May Lilian Fussey when she became the bride of Stanley Thomas Thame.

A rose diamond snake ring, "something borrowed" from her sister, Miss Dianne Fussey, was the only jewelry accent to her floor-length gown of white crepe. The bodice, fashioned of lace, was starred with crystal beads and sequins. Her cape-style cathedral train of the same lace extended back from the shoulders. An orchid headpiece with beads and sequins held her four-tier lace veil. She carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations and pink roses over a blue Bible. A sixpence was worn in her shoe.

Rev. F. V. Hayes and Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh officiated at the ceremony in St. Alban's Church, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fussey, 1480 Edgeware Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Thame, 138 St. Lawrence Street. Mr. Fussey gave his daughter in marriage.

Arrangements of pink carnations and white tulips decorated the church for the wedding. Walter Hamilton was organist.

Mrs. J. Sailor was matron of honor for her aunt, and bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, the Misses Dianne and Patricia Fussey. Their gowns, which were made by the bride's mother, were of shocking pink organza over taffeta in the same tone. Headpieces were self-fabric rosettes and they carried bouquets of white carnations centred with pink rosebuds.

Little Kathy Johnston was flower girl. Her gown was similar to those of the senior attendants and her headpiece was a band of pale pink flowers. She carried a basket of white carnations. All wore the bride's gifts of heart pendants.

David Rivers was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with pink ribbon rosettes and white and silver bells were the groom's brothers, Jack and David Thame. Master Trevor Johnston carried the rings on a white, heart-shaped pillow.

Pink candles and tulle flanked the wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception in White Eagle Hall. The cake had been made by the bride's mother and decorated in pink and white by Mrs. T. Roger.

The couple is now living at 532 Dallas Road, following a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Calif. For travelling, the new Mrs. Thame chose a camel-hair walking suit, topped with an off-white mohair coat. She complemented her ensemble with a whimsie hat, black patent accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

SHOPPING GUIDE

If Your Car Stalls, You May Need This

By Penny Saver

When it comes to driving, especially in traffic, there is nothing more embarrassing than to have your car stall right at an intersection as the light flashes green. In a situation like that, I'm inclined to panic. My futile attempts to start the car usually result in my flooding the engine instead, which naturally causes even more of a delay to the streams of traffic behind my beast. With my limited knowledge of cars and how they work, I thought my car was on its "last leg" the other day when it kept stalling every time I came to a stop.

To my relief, I was told that such was not the case. The trouble was that the automatic choke needed cleaning. In one shop, I found a canned "tool kit" to keep in the car in case that happens again. This is a special cleaner for the choke, which the owner of this shop claims is so easy to use that "even a woman can use it" without any problems. Explaining the process briefly, you just spray some of this fluid on the choke mechanism to clean it out. Complete detailed instructions are on the can, which sells for $1.98.

Another item that I was told about is an auto-body undercoating. Apparently this prevents rust and corroding, and it helps to deaden road sounds when you're driving. A spray-on container of this coating sells for $2.29. Have your garage man, or the handy man in your house, coat your car with this.

One item that has as many uses as a tool kit in the household is a marking pencil that I found. This will work on any kind of surface.

Use this colored marker for all labelling on jars of preserves, cans, plastic containers or anything else. They sell for 26 cents each.

One special in this shop, while the supply lasts, is a half-price sale on oil paints and tubes of water colors. They have five series of oil paints to choose from, ranging at the normal price from 45 to 90 cents the tube. Now is the time to fill up your paint box.

Give me a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where to shop for these items.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"I guess there's a bright side to everything—it doesn't take me near as long to part my hair as it used to."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The following letters came to me not long ago.

"I'm so thrilled with my weight loss! After many diets and doctors, I finally visited our local Tops club. In seven weeks I have lost 20 pounds. I feel like a new person and have some energy again.

Lowman

"I felt real apprehensive about joining because, to me, it indicated that I wasn't strong enough to lose it by myself. It was exactly what I needed, keen competition, discussions, contests, and loads of fun. I stayed, and am staying, on 1,000 calories a day, until I reach my ideal weight.

"We are taught not to set our goals too high. Tell your readers to take it by units, just 10 pounds at a time. It is so much easier."

Here's another enthusiastic Topper. Tops stands for Take Off Pounds Sensibly. This woman says:

"Can you mention Tops in your column? Thousands of men, women and children have lost weight by belonging to it. Six months ago at 208 pounds and a heart condition I was being scolded by my doctor to lose weight, that my life might depend on it. I had tried to reduce so many times that I had decided I was hopeless. I have lost 26 pounds and am confident that I will lose at least another 32.

"My disposition has improved and many aches and pains have eased up. I am changing from a self-conscious fat woman into a happy normal one. At Tops we do not perform miracles in reducing. It boils down to eating less and avoiding the extremely fattening foods.

"We discuss our problems, and our achievements. We pay a small fine for putting on weight. We compete with each other. The one who puts on the most weight during the week is the Big Pig of the week and takes home a plastic pig. The one who loses the most is the Queen of the week and takes a crown home for the week.

"Tops helps so much because everyone has the same problem. I am by no means the best reducer in my class. In October I only lost 1¼ pounds, but in one week in November I lost almost five pounds. Had I been dieting alone, I would have become discouraged and stopped when I lost only 1¼ pounds in a month."

I bring you these letters because the idea is so sound, even if you do not have a local Tops club in your community. The competition and the fact that all members have similar problems are enough to make it work. Then it is a great help to be able to talk over your discouragements and failures as well as your successes and triumphs with someone who understands because the same things have happened to them.

I am wondering why more women do not get together once a week in similar groups. It could be a neighborhood project, with a different member of the group doing any necessary baby sitting each week. However, I think that most Tops meet in the evening, perhaps so that Hubby can do the baby sitting and women who work in offices in the daytime can come. Most of these groups meet only once a week.

I have often urged you in this column to break a long job into small parts and to concentrate on one part at a time. Think in terms of losing five or 10 pounds, and when that is accomplished, think of the next five or 10 and so on.

If you gained weight during pregnancy or are expecting a baby any time soon, my booklet "Don't Blame Your Baby" will be of great value to you. If you would like to have it send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

No Way to Find A New Husband

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an unwed mother, age 24. My daughter, Nancy, is nearly six years old and she is my problem. We live with my parents, and no matter who I bring home, Nancy doesn't like him.

When I ask her if she wouldn't like to have a "Daddy", she says she already has one. (She calls my father "Daddy", although she knows he is really her grandfather.) What am I going to do? I love my daughter, but I would like to marry again, and at this rate I don't have a chance.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: When you meet the man you want to marry, bring him home and introduce him to your daughter as YOUR "future husband". In other words, leave the word "Daddy" out of it. Nancy has known only one "Daddy" (your father) so she can't be blamed for rejecting every man who threatens to replace him.

If you appear more concerned with providing your daughter with a new "Daddy" than finding yourself a new husband, Nancy will get married before you do.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law gave me a beautiful hostess gown for my birthday. I thanked her for it and thought it was a lovely gift. Then she told me that she had originally bought it for herself a few months before, but she decided that she didn't like it well enough to wear, so she gave it to me.

That spoiled the gift for me, and now I can't enjoy wearing it, so it's still in the box.

What do you think of a sister-in-law who would say such a thing? And what should I do with the gift?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Your sister-in-law is either unbelievably thoughtless or just plain stupid. In any case, since you can't enjoy wearing it, give it to someone who doesn't know its history.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine—not a very close friend, but we are in the same circle—has a nasty little habit. She goes into other people's refrigerators on the pretense of "getting a glass of water." She says she doesn't like to bother the hostess so she helps herself. I am a good housekeeper and keep things orderly, so it's not that I'm ashamed of what she might see, but I do not like to have strangers "casing" my refrigerator. How can I get this nosey person to cease this annoying practice?

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Make sure there is a pitcher of ice water and plenty of glasses handy when you know the "caser" is coming. If she invents another excuse to go into your refrigerator, put a padlock on it for her next visit. She'll get the message.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Dear Emily Wilkens:

Loveller Lips

I seem to have dry lips most of the time, particularly during the school year. Lipstick makes them look the worst — all cakey, cracked and dry. My lips certainly never look like those luscious ads for lipstick, even though I use the products advertised. Is there anything I can do?

Lucy P.

Dry chapped lips are nothing to laugh about. Perhaps when you're nervous you unconsciously wet your lips. This coupled with cold weather keeps them chapped. You should use a lip conditioner, like a camphor stick, frequently.

Make sure you get enough fluids, particularly if you're in sports and perspire a lot. Also, check your salt intake and be sure you have enough foods high in potassium content (such as oranges, grapefruit, bananas) to replace any body fluids you've lost through perspiration.

Finally, check the lipstick you're using. It may be expensive, but you may also be allergic to the dye. Try switching to one of the non-allergic types available at any drug store.

Gregarious Grandma

My problem may not be in your area, but I hope you can help me. My grandmother lives with us and whenever I have boys or girls over, Grandma hovers around, offering us cookies and food and joining in the conversation. Everybody's too polite to ignore her, but sometimes she's downright embarrassing. How can you be a "New You" if you have to put up with an old grandmother?

Anne M.

Lonely grandparents are only human. Maybe it's your fault (and your family's, too) for not spending enough time with her to begin with. You might set aside a special treat — a once-a-week movie or TV show, or even a regular talk session about the "good old days" — so that Grandma gets her social needs fulfilled, too. Above all, do try to be patient with her. Some people don't have grandmothers to bother them!

Ship-Shape

I'd like to do something about the shape I'm in. I'm not overweight. I feel tired and listless all the time. I tried playing tennis the other day and my muscles really screamed in protest.

Miss Carolyn L.

If you're sure there's nothing physically wrong with you, regular exercise can do wonders toward perking you up. The key word is "regular." An hour or two of tennis once a week won't keep you in top form. Add a 15-minute exercise plan to your daily schedule. Look into Yoga — it's easy and painless. Walk in the open air at least half an hour a day. Without enough oxygen, your body is bound to feel sluggish.

Victorians Plan Mainland Trip To Attend Haute Cuisine School

A number of Victorians are planning to travel to Vancouver next month to attend a session of the School of Haute Cuisine being held April 19 to 22.

They include Mrs. V. M. Knox, Mrs. W. F. Jermy, Mrs. C. R. Stein, Mrs. E. C. Mayhew, Mrs. J. Stevenson, Mrs. R. J. Wride, Mrs. K. D. Stone, Mrs. A. L. Greenway, Mrs. P. J. Steel, the Misses H. G. Parkinson and V. K. French.

The group will leave at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, April 19, on a chartered bus to attend that day's session on "Weekend Entertaining," returning home that evening at 7 p.m. Co-director of the Condon Blum School of Cookery in London, Mrs. Muriel Downes, will conduct the sessions.

They are being sponsored jointly by the mainland branches of the Royal Commonwealth Society and the English-Speaking Union. Funds raised will be used by the society's mainland and Vancouver Island branches for their centennial project, the institution of a university scholarship of $400 a year for four years. Two Vancouver Island students have applied for the award.

A few seats are still available on the charter bus, the only tickets remaining for the session. For further information contact Mrs. T. B. S. Chambers, 478-2770, or a member of the Victoria Branch, Royal Commonwealth Society.

Thousands in B.C. Working For 'Sub-Standard' Wages

Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver Burrard) told the legislature that if the labor department wants to emulate the industrial peace and prosperity in Sweden it must encourage trade unionism.

Mr. Berger said 97 per cent of all Swedish workers are members of trade unions and obtain the benefits of collective bargaining as compared with less than 50 per cent in B.C.

He said a new look is needed at the social and economic function of the trade union movement because "it provides a salutory countervailing force to what otherwise would be unrestrained corporate economic power."

He siad it is in the organized work forces that productivity has increased so that collective bargaining, far from ruining some industries, has improved them.

But present anti-union policies mean "we are developing two distinct classes of working men and women in this province," said Mr. Berger.

"We have on the one hand the men and women who belong to powerful trade unions. They are able, through collective bargaining, to achieve wages and working conditions that provide a good living for themselves and their families.

"On the other hand, there are thousands of men and women in the province who are working for substandard wages and under substandard working conditions."

"Instead of placing barriers in the way of collective action by employees in our low-wage industries and occupations, we ought to encourage collective organization and collective bargaining for these employees."

Fire Displaces 6,000

Semester Plan Urged For UBC

The department of education should force the University of B.C. to adopt the tri-semester system, George Mussallem (SC—Dewdney) said Monday.

The comment came during debate on education department spending estimates in the legislature.

UBC officials should be told "to get off their chairs," Mr. Mussallem said. Operating only seven months a year is wasteful.

"The system has tended to cause young men and women to loaf," the Social Credit member said. Then at the end of the year 1,000 students are put in one room and told to write an examination upon which depends their year's work.

Education Minister Peterson said he was in sympathy with Mr. Mussallem's desire for full use of facilities. But, said the minister, universities use their facilities beyond the seven months usually acknowledged by the public.

How best use can be achieved "is a matter for the universities themselves to determine," Mr. Peterson said.

'Department Can't Dictate To RCMP

The department of education cannot dictate to RCMP and other police organizations on university campuses, Education Minister Peterson told the legislature Monday.

His comment came during debate on department of education estimates when Dave Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam) said he is disturbed over an incident at Simon Fraser University last week when four unidentified police officers questioned a student as to the political activities and beliefs of his associates.

Did Mr. Peterson approve of such police actions? Mr. Barrett asked.

"Our universities in this province are autonomous, self-governing institutions," Mr. Peterson said. "It is not for the education department to say who can question the students, who cannot question the students, who can come to campus and who cannot come to campus," Mr. Peterson said.

Mr. Barrett should direct his complaint to authorities at the university.

TAKE GAGLARDI FOR A RIDE FIRST

Group Wants to Complete the 'C'

A 26-mile trek on a snowmobile to be exact.

Idea behind the ride is to persuade Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi on the advantages in building a road in the remote southeast corner of the province which would complete a circular highway route through two parks in Alberta and Montana.

If B.C. were to build the road in the Akemina-Kishenina Creeks region, chamber representative Ed Lonsdale said, it would mean tourists in Montana's Glacier National Park or Alberta's Waterton Lakes Park could swing through both natural attractions as well as get a look at a beautiful and rugged part of B.C.

At present the road forms a C shape and travellers in the region have to back track to leave the area.

To promote the region the chamber of commerce is planning a trip over the roadless B.C. section the weekend of March 18. About 40 machines are expected to make the trip through the pass connecting the creeks, now about four feet deep in snow.

The highways minister was "interested" in the day-long outing, said Mr. Lonsdale, and would let the Lethbridge chamber know later whether his schedule would allow him to be there.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

AIRLINE PLAGUED BY INCIDENTS

Bomb Scare; Bullet Rips Through Plane Fuselage

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Lake Central Airlines revealed today a bomb scare occurred on one of its flights at Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday night, a few hours after a bullet ripped through the fuselage of another of its airliners approaching the Terre Haute, Ind., airport.

Officials said Flight 537, which originated in Chicago and terminated at Cleveland, was delayed for about three hours at Columbus when a young male passenger about 20 years old remarked to a stewardess as he left the plane: "Do you know there's a bomb aboard the aircraft?"

The stewardess notified airport and airline officials, and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents launched a search for the passenger and were reported to have questioned two passengers several hours later.

The flight was delayed until after midnight when it finally departed for Akron-Canton on the next-to-last leg of its trip.

Earlier, a bullet whistled up from the dark southwest Indiana countryside and ripped through an airliner flying 160 miles an hour as the craft approached the airport at Terre Haute. The plane landed without incident and none of the 11 persons aboard was hurt.

The shooting came just two days after a Lake Central plane crashed claiming 38 lives in northwestern Ohio and a week after a bomb threat on another of the airline's planes forced an emergency landing at Youngstown, Ohio.

Best 'Thaw' We've Theen For Years

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Move over Harlem Globetrotters—the thaw is coming.

Maybe basketball spoofs are always a riot, but until the Spring Thaw company of nine put their show on the McPherson stage Tuesday night, it did seem the Globetrotters had the corner on nimbleness and the dazzle of perfect rhythm and timing.

But for sheer brilliance of handling and footwork and for comedy that builds to a solidly hilarious punch in the climax, Yea Wolfe, Yea, Yea, Montcalm challenges any such previous conclusions.

BALANCED SHOW

This number ends the first half of a tight, well-paced and balanced show that is undoubtedly the best "Thaw" to hit the road in a number of years.

What is notable is that the writing—the whole book is by Donald Harron—is so infinitely superior to previous editions in which various authors made contributions.

My Country, What's It to You, as the show is subtitled, is of course, Canadian history reflected in the mirrors of a fun house.

WRY TRUTH

The perverted, sometimes wildly grotesque image has an underlying substance of often wry truth—the hypocritical exploitation of this country's indigenous peoples and resources; Canadian indifference and the sell-out to foreign interests, for example.

But the acridity of satire does not overbalance other flavors in this rubaboo of discovery, battles, commerce and politics.

Delightful comedienne Barbara Hamilton, mistress of "the eye," the "shrug," the "quizzical brow" in her solo, Paddle Song was fully regal and playing it straight in an ironic Queen Victoria skit.

Then there is Miss McKinnon's unusual and haunting voice in the title song and the number, New Found Land.

FUMBLE-FREE

Peter Mews, Donald Harron, Ron Tanguay, Doug Chamberlain carry the ball throughout the show with never a fumble.

Costumes are certainly the best ever and in particular are quite fabulous in two of the best numbers—Charles the Fecund, involving King Charles, Nell Gwynne, etc,—and Products of Canada.

Use of a large replica of a TV screen elevated against the backdrop on which various scenes and personalities were projected in full color from time to time, sharpened the point of several sequences.

My only regret is that more Victorians could not see this Thaw—in fact more Canadians altogether.

As they sing at one point: "Canadian performers are dying of despair . . . unless it's from United States the public don't care."

More of this sort of show could be the beginning of the end for that state of mind.

AN ALLEGORY OF POLITICAL POWER

Swedes See Play About Duplessis

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A political stageplay by Swedish playwright Lars Foresll, apparently inspired by the character of the late Quebec premier Maurice Duplessis, is running successfully for the fifth week at the Royal Dramatic Theatre here. Some of Sweden's foremost actors are in the cast.

Foresll, one of Sweden's leading playwrights, wrote the play called Flickan I Montreal (The Girl in Montreal) following a lengthy recent visit to Canada. It also has appeared in book form.

The play of about one hour and 40 minutes, with elements of Music Hall-style music and ditties, was described by critics as a general political allegory intended to show how power corrupts the powerful as well as the guiltless who are exploited by them. It received generally favorable reviews here.

'I Consider Myself A Very Lucky Man'

LONDON (AP)—British actor Jack Hawkins is back at work in a movie just a year after removal of his larynx because of cancer.

"It's marvellous to be back among so many of my friends," he said in the soft new voice he has developed.

Hawkins now speaks with the muscles of his throat — it is called esophageal speaking—and has made such good progress that it is possible to understand every word he says. He even has some of the former tonal quality of his voice, which is unusual for such cases.

"I consider myself a very lucky man," he said on the set of The Great Catherine.

GULPS AIR

"I had cancer of the larynx and today I could have been six feet under the ground. . . .

"Instead, they removed my larynx and I had to learn to speak all over again. I do it by gulping in air and then releasing it slowly."

HAWKINS

Hawkins, 56, looks in fine shape. A gold St. Christopher medal hides the small opening in his throat.

"I had some black, black moments," he said. "I thought I would never work again. Apparently this operation I went through does cause people to suffer very deep depressions."

HIS GARDENS

A Drop Never Wasted

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Request a few days back from the lightkeeper on Race Rocks to the Department of Transport for some "good clean soil" in order that he might start a garden brought back to my memory a story about Harold Okell, first lightkeeper on Trial Islands.

Forbes

He had a garden too. One that grew vegetables and flowers under the most adverse circumstances.

When the Okells went to Trial light in 1906 they had with them a cow, a horse, a litter of pigs and a dozen or so chickens. But fresh vegetables had to be packed in a sack from Victoria and rowed across to the islands twice a week.

There was a good field behind the beacon. Plenty of kelp for fertilizer. A few gardening friends "ashore" (including my parents) to give him advice. So he started out to "grow his own."

This wasn't as easy as it sounds for amongst many things the islands lacked was a good water supply. In fact, the only water at that time came right from the sky.

Captured in barrels and doled out by the bucketful, this rain water was used in the house first, for baths, washing clothes and for dishes. Then it was drained off through a system of pipes to a cistern under the lighthouse for use on the garden.

★ ★ ★

To further conserve the precious supply of moisture, they had tobacco cans punched full of holes and sunk into the vegetable beds like the cups on golf greens. Water from the cisterns was poured into these cans, passed through the holes and right to the roots of the vegetables. There wasn't a drop wasted.

One time when the precious rain water was very scarce the Okells tried sea water on their garden with disastrous results. Every plant was dead in a day.

Another time when there was a scarcity of water even for the house, the government boat brought a few barrels of the precious liquid from Victoria.

Only trouble was they brought this water in old whiskey barrels. Harold Okell didn't try it on the garden but he did offer a bucketful to the cow. She turned it down.

There were other ways in which this early lightkeeper beat the water shortage. He planted very early and he cultivated his garden thoroughly.

There was little or no frost on Trial Islands and the family was usually eating spring vegetables long before they were ready in Victoria. Their strawberries were always ripe before the first of May.

At the end of 25 years the Okells were transferred to Albert Head light. And when they moved, Harold vowed there was going to be no more garden. He was going to loaf.

But the price of vegetables frightened him back to growing his own. So, in 1931, he started a second garden from scratch, old tobacco can system and all—for water was still scarce. In later years when he talked of the water shortages he would tell you that when he and his wife Ada dreamed of the holiday they would take together "some day," it was always where they could turn on a tap and let it run without any worry about the supply.

In the 32 years he was lightkeeper they never did take a holiday together. One or the other was always tending the light. And just six months before they were to retire and the holiday looked to be a certainty—Ada Okell died.

Harold lived out the rest of his days in Victoria in a place where he could walk along the shore and take a look at Trial Island any day of the week.

Occasionally he would talk of the garden he planted "out there" and of the one at Albert Head. When he did he always concluded with the assertion that they were "champion."

They must have been for they gained for him, at that time, the reputation of being premier gardener among lightkeepers on the Pacific Coast.

CAMPBELL
. . . public health role

FIRST STEP FOR CONTROL BY REGION

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said a bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday would make it possible to make public health a function of the Greater Victoria regional district.

He was commenting on an amendment to the Health Act which would empower the provincial cabinet to pass a regulation to "authorize the assumption of the exercise of the powers and duties of a metropolitan board of health by a regional district . . . whereupon the jurisdiction of the (health board) shall cease and be conferred upon the regional district . . ."

Time of Flowering Depends on Variety and rees.

The scarlet salvia as an example, is offered by seedsmen in six or seven named varieties, out of which you may select the one to suit your needs.

The varietal name will appear on the seed packet after the name salvia, and height to which the variety grows will usually be listed also.

A 12-inch scarlet salvia is quite useful here for the front of borders where this particular red is wanted early in summer. St. John's Fire is the one to have first blooms opening in June if seed is sown indoors by March 7, yet will continue to September frost if given a fertile soil.

A trifle later and two inches taller is Blaze of Fire, also compact and bushy, and perhaps just a little more floriferous than St. John's Fire. This too will open its first blooms in early June from a March sowing indoors.

Bonfire and Globe of Fire are up in the 18 and 24-inch heights. These are fine if you want the scarlet color to come along during August and be absent in early summer.

Gardens in areas not usually subjected to early frosts could make use of these taller, later varieties. A spectacular effect can be achieved with the use of Salvia farinacea, a rich blue-purple, which also flowers in late August through September until frost, on 30-inch stems.

DeBECK, SPEAKER WILLIAM MURRAY WITH WHALE'S TOOTH

Distinguished Servant Of House Honored

The popular white-thatched clerk who keeps the house business in running order and is the right hand man to Speaker William Murray has held the post since 1948.

Mr. DeBeck's unfailing patience and knowledge of procedure "has been an inspiration to me as premier," said Mr. Bennett.

"I'm sure that I speak not only for all sides but for all the people of this province when I say to you, sir, how pleased we are to see you looking so well and cheerful in spite of all that goes on here," he said to general applause.

Mr. Strachan said that visitors to the legislature ask more questions about Mr. DeBeck, who wears a black robe and uses a ball-pointed quill pen, than they do about any MLAs.

"He is more than a distinguished servant of this house," said Mr. Perrault. "He has become a revered institution."

While all MLAs drummed prolonged applause, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell draped a sterling silver chain and whale's tooth over Mr. DeBeck's shoulders to induct him as the seventh member of North Vancouver Island's "Loyal Order of the Whale's Teeth".

Back Wages for Miners Promised by April 30

Back wages totalling almost $40,000 owed 145 miners by Cowichan Copper, of Jordan River, will be paid by the end of April, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, told the Legislature Tuesday.

He said $15,000 was paid on account when the Industrial Relations oBard obtained an order seizing some ore, and another $5,000 was received for the men Tuesday.

Aetna Investment Corporation of Toronto, which re-financed Cowichan Copper, also has guaranteed that another $10,000 will be paid by March 31 and the balance within a month of that.

However, Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) said Aetna "made $300,000 for its shareholders" by financing Cowichan Copper and the mine "should be shut down until these men are paid their wages".

He claimed that 65 men now are working at the reopened mine and there is no guarantee that Aetna will pay their wages if the previous workers are still not fully paid.

Mr. Peterson called Mr. Nimsick's remarks "irresponsible" and not to be given weight because the men involved have not asked for shutting down the mine.

He said the Industrial Relations Board has obtained the promise of full payment of the back wages faster than the men themselves could have done through legal action and at no cost to them for legal fees.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) said that "workers in my area lost double that ($40,000) amount in NSF cheques from sub-contractors on clearing work for the Columbia River project".

He called for better proection for workmen to ensure their wages are paid.

Mr. Peterson replied that B.C. Hydro will hold prime contractors responsible in the future for payment of wages to (sub-contractor) employees.

He said the IRB had found that with certain fly-by-night sub-contractors efforts to recover workmens' wages "was like wringing blood from a stone".

MORTON ACCUSES DUNCAN

'Sabotage' Charged Against Sewer Vote

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — The city is trying to sabotage North Cowichan's plan to resubmit a sewer bylaw to south-end ratepayers in April.

This was charged Tuesday by Reeve Donald Morton.

He made the accusation in reply to a press release from city hall.

The release said residents of 800 houses bordering the north and west of Duncan had shown considerable interest in joining Duncan "so they can avail themselves of city services."

The release added: "The city development committee has considered costs and details and finds that sewer service can be supplied to these areas at the present city hall rental of $30-a-year per residence."

Replied Reeve Morton: "This $30 figure is possibly correct, but 10 extra mills must be added for general tax plus a local improvement charge for increasing the size of the city sewer mains."

He was supported by Coun. John Cannon who accused the city of having one set of facts for municipal council and another for public consumption.

In reply, Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan said the city atatement was only meant to deal with sewer costs.

"I just don't like to see the double costs."

Of the reeve's charge, he commented: "I voted for the bylaw on behalf of the city the last time as I want sewerage in that area."

The contentious release said: "Services to the area in question should be settled by a vote of the electorate."

Reeve Morton said the city has already indicated the area will have to become a part of Duncan in order to get sewer service.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN BACKED BY GOV'T

DUNCAN—The provincial government has approved in principle the city's five-year plan for urban renewal.

Gordon Berry, city clerk, reported Tuesday the next step is to have the planning consultants draw up detailed estimates for the first phase.

"If these details are approved by the provincial and federal authorities we really get down to business," he said.

"Blighted properties in the downtown area will be bought, the present improvements razed and the land made available for modern development in line with the city's overall plan."

City council is on record as being prepared to spend up to $40,000 a year for five years as its 25 per cent share of urban renewal.

With the federal contribution of a further 50 per cent and the province contributing 25 per cent it could mean a $1,000,000 face-lift for Duncan.

Progress Reported On Track Removal

DUNCAN — City hall Tuesday reported progress in the campaign for removal of railroad tracks which run through the city.

A statement from Gordon Berry, city clerk, said: "A satisfactory meeting has been held with CPR representatives and it now appears it is possible to have all but one, or two, of the five tracks removed."

The city's hope is to lease some of the released land for parking, and that removal of extra tracks will clear the way for a third railroad crossing at Coronation Avenue.

Duncan's downtown development plan calls for a third crossing to relieve traffic congestion.

"Some expense will be involved and cost estimates are being prepared by the CPR for submission to the city."

The city's application for a third crossing is already in the hands of the board of transport commissioners.

INFORMATIONS SWORN

Four Go to Court To Collect Wages

Four Cowichan Copper Co. miners Tuesday initiated their own legal proceedings against former mine operator Aetna Investment Corp., Ltd., in an effort to obtain back wages.

The four men appeared in Sooke RCMP court and swore informations against Aetna under the B.C. Payment of Wages Act, claiming varying amounts due them since Aetna closed the mine down last Sept. 16.

They were Sydney Hall, Louis Henry Van Beers and Peter K. Whitford, of Sooke, and Edwin Fender, of Jordan River.

140 LOST JOBS

About 140 miners and other employees of the copper mine at Jordan River were thrown out of work with wages owing.

It was thought that others would bring individual charges against Aetna, despite an assurance made in the legislature later Tuesday night by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Peterson said all remaining unpaid wages would be paid up by April 30, totalling some $25,000. (See above.)

The miners have only until next Thursday to bring charges against Aetna since the payment of Wages Act limits actions to six months.

Aetna will be summoned to appear in court within two weeks.

JOHNSON PLAN

Draft by Lottery System Cuts Exemptions in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress Monday he will order younger men drafted first under a lottery-type system as part of an overhaul of U.S. military selective service system.

His announcement of actions to come within two years — mostly without need of congressional approval—follows months of study and controversy over the U.S. draft system.

The president said deferments for fathers, men with essential occupations and most graduate students will be ended.

But in a special draft message sent from the Texas White House, he postponed indefinitely a politically touchy decision on whether to end undergraduate student deferments. Family hardship deferments will be continued, Johnson said.

Without action by Congress, men who had not had a deferment could not be drafted after that date even though they were in the priority class 1-A. Men who had been deferred but were in 1-A on June 30 would still be subject to call.

SYSTEM STUDIED

He made it clear that some features of the revised draft system he has in mind won't be adopted for months—perhaps not until 1969.

Johnson shied away from total endorsement of recommendations made to him by a 20-member advisory commission in a report released Saturday.

Although a commission majority urged an end to all student deferments, Johnson asserted that "an issue so deeply important, with so many compelling factors on both sides, cannot be decided until its every aspect has been thoroughly explored."

Johnson said he will end deferments for graduate students except for those preparing for careers as physicians or dentists. Divinity students already are deferred by law.

DRAFT YOUNGEST FIRST

The two biggest changes in the draft system will be these:

—Younger men will be drafted first. The present pattern is to induct older men first.

—For the first time since the Second World War men to be drafted will be chosen by lot. The precise system hasn't been devised but Johnson gave it a name and a set of initials: "Fair and Impartial Randon (FAIR) system of selection."

In essence, here is how it will work:

Each year there will be a lottery pool containing the names of all eligible 19-year-olds plus older men whose deferments expired in that particular year. The names will be ranked under the "fair" system and will be inducted in order, as needed.

Since the draft claims only 100,000 to 300,000 men each year —and nearly 2,000,000 reach 19 annually — many youths classified 1-A can expect to maintain their civilian status throughout their one year in the prime pool.

Laborite Says Wilson Too Sure He Is Right

LONDON (UPI) — A prominent Labor party Member of Parliament hit back at Prime Minister Harold Wilson Monday for his "biting dogs" denunciation of back bench party rebels and defence of U.S. policies in Vietnam.

"I think it is the most dangerous attack on social democracy ever made in this country in my time," said 71-year-old Sydney Silverman.

"I am afraid it is no use writing to the prime minister," Silverman said in a letter he handed parliamentary chief whip John Silkin in the House of Commons.

"He is too sure he is right, too contemptuous of other people's opinions, too neglectful of Cromwell's advice to the protesting divines — 'I pray you gentlemen, think it possible you may be mistaken?'"

Silverman, an irascible, silver-haired MP, accused Wilson of adopting almost Fascist positions on the issues of Vietnam and an incomes policy.

His comments followed reports that an angry Wilson had lambasted party backbenchers last Thursday following the abstention of about six Labor MPs on the government's defence white paper.

Enlargement For Park Proposed

Central Saanich parks committee has recommended that 4.8 acres of land on White Road be incorporated with Centennial park.

Council decided to inspect the property this week after Coun. Tom Michell opposed the recommendation.

He requested that a municipal yard be established on the site.

"I'm opposed to the establishment of a yard alongside our major park," said parks committee chairman Charles Mollard. "I think we should dedicate this property as parkland as soon as possible."

Grandmother Suspected of Witchcraft!

In grandmother's day older women put rosewater on their faces to make them look younger and this was considered witchcraft. When mixed with glycerine the rosewater and glycerine mixture quickly softened skin and drove dryness away. Now science has compounded this formula into a far more effective liquid or cream in Tritles original Glycerine and Rosewater. This modern mixture quickly transforms unhappy, aging, lined skin into a fresh-feeling more youthful looking complexion. Tritles soothes and smoothes hands almost instantly and when applied night and morning you can watch your skin become softer, younger looking by the day.

MALNUTRITION IN EARLY YEARS . . .

. . . BELIEVED TO IMPAIR INTELLIGENCE

By VICTOR K. McELHENY
The Washington Post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Hundreds of millions of hungry children all over the world may be suffering mentally as well as physically, scientists suspect.

Evidence is accumulating that malnutrition in the first three years of life, when the human brain grows rapidly to reach 80 per cent of adult size, may impair intelligence permanently.

The conference was sponsored by the nutrition foundation of New York and by the department of nutrition and food science of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, aided by a Ford Foundation grant.

WORRISOME

Scientists at the meeting emphasized that the evidence for a link between malnutrition and impaired intelligence, although worrisome, remains indirect. It comes from several sources.

Experiments with rats, dogs, pigs and guinea pigs show that malnutrition at critical periods around the time of birth can cause long-term damage to brain tissue and to body functions controlled by the brain.

These results were discussed by Dr. Richard H. Barnes of Cornell University and two British scientists, Dr. John Dobbing of the Institute of Child Health of the University of London and Dr. R. J. C. Stewart of the National Institute of Medical Research in Mill Hill.

Early malnutrition also leads to smaller brains compared to age, but scientists like Dobbing and Stewart doubted if mere size had a severe effect on behavior.

From humans, there is evidence that malnourished children have smaller brains and that this smaller brain size is linked to lower performance on intelligence tests.

Dr. Mavis Stoch of South Africa described studies of 20 poorly fed Cape colored children who have been followed from babyhood in 1955. A comparable group of 20 well-fed Cape colored children have also been followed.

Although the living conditions of most of the 20 malnourished children have improved markedly, Dr. Stoch reported, they have never caught up in brain size or test performance.

The conference heard estimates that 300 to 350 million children under the age of six are suffering from malnutrition. That is, more than half of the 90 million babies born each year may be running the risk of permanent retardation

SPECULATORS! ! !

We have received exclusive instructions to sell one of Victoria's outstanding conversion properties with five suites grossing $8,760 per annum. Formerly one of the celebrated private residences of the city, the magnificent grounds afford 274 feet frontage on Rockland Avenue with an average depth of 166 feet plus another lot at the rear (approx. 160 ft. by 100 ft.) which has access to Joan Crescent.
The main building was converted, quite regardless of expense, in 1955 and is in immaculate condition throughout. Please note that two lots could be sold off for approximately $18,500, but this would be shortsighted and suicidal action as this whole property represents one of the few large estates remaining available in a first class residential area.
All enquiries (from principles only) must be directed to the owner's exclusive agent.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The CBC has adopted a policy to increase bilingualism in the corporation.

The Board of Directors said the move was necessary to meet adequately the operational needs of the corporation in providing and developing national broadcasting in English and French.

Stephen

The newly announced policy calls for bilingualism in appropriate supervisory and operation positions at those locations where the CBC broadcasts in both languages. It puts special emphasis on bilingualism at head office which is responsible for corporate activities, regardless of language.

For some employees, bilingual competence as a job requirement will mean more money on payday. The details still have to be worked out, such as job levels at which this would apply.

The policy is not to be dropped into CBC operation holus-bolus. It will be applied over a period of time, making gradual changes in selection, promotion and training of personnel.

The policy will give precedence to the welfare of present employees over immediate implementation. Some staff members in bilingual positions may be exempt from application of the policy because of age and length of service.

No employee will lose his job with the CBC because of this policy.

Arnold Palmer, like Sandy Koufax, is to be bought lock, stock and barrel by NBC-TV.

The network will obtain the rights to Palmer's personal appearances on television and radio as well as most of his business empire.

This represents big money, for Arnold Palmer Enterprises is an organization with 7 divisions and a 15 million dollar per year sales turnover.

The enterprises include franchising of putting courses, golf driving ranges and indoor golf schools, manufacture of sportswear bearing his name, and the selling of golfing clothes, books and pamphlets.

The network didn't announce the purchase price or the salary to be paid Palmer.

But he is the second sports hero to join NBC in recent months. Last November, pitcher Sandy Koufax retired from the Los Angeles Dodgers and signed a 10 year contract as sportscaster at $100,000 per year.

Distress Over Surgery

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A while ago Dr. David W. Swanson of the department of psychiatry of the University of Illinois, studied 200 surgical patients, and found 59 who, before or after the operation were much upset mentally. Some were so distressed, so fearful of the operation, and so fearful of dying on the table or later, that the surgeon gave up the idea of operating on them.

Alvarez

Some persons who were operated on soon became much depressed. Ten of the 59 were so fearful of dying that they had to be given much reassurance. One of the 10 did die, and it is possible that she lost her life because she did not want to live.

In my long experience I have seen many a poorly adjusted person who was close to a mental breakdown when he went to see his home doctor. Then perhaps the doctor was so terribly busy that he hardly glanced at the person, and hence did not notice the great sadness and perhaps tragic picture of depression that was written all over his face.

As a result, he operated, perhaps to remove a symptomless gallstone that the X-ray study had happened to turn up. Then after the operation, the doctor wondered why his patient was not only not better, but decidedly worse.

How helpful it would be if every person who is badly depressed or has spells of schizophrenia, on going to a doctor, would begin, not by saying "I have a stomach-ache," or "I have a pain in my abdomen," but by saying, "I am so depressed that every day now I think how nice it would be to commit suicide, and thus be done with all my terrible mental suffering."

How helpful it would be if a woman would say, "What is wrong with me is that I am terribly afraid I'll soon wind up in a mental hospital, like my mother, my aunt, and my brother." Then the doctor would not be so likely to remove her harmless appendix, or gallbladder, or knobby womb.

Dizziness is a fairly common complaint; often it is mild and hence not very frightening. In other cases it is very frightening, and it may cause nausea and even vomiting.

In younger persons and persons of middle age, I think of disease of the little spirit levels which lie in the bones on the sides of the head and alongside the inner ear. These little spirit-levels tell us what our position is in space. If we didn't have them, we would stagger around like a drunken man and some of us might not be able to walk at all.

In older people—especially if the dizziness is momentary and the person feels as if he might be flung off his bed, or up against the ceiling, and if he feels he is having a stroke and in a minute is going to die, I feel that the episode almost certainly is due to a little stroke. I am the surer of this if after the spell the person notices some loss of memory or ability or strength.

There is a fairly common type of dizziness which is due to a sudden change in position, as when a man jumps up from his bed or a couch.

When I was a boy working in a library, and looking for a book on the bottom shelf, when I stood up, I often had to grab hold of the bookcase because I felt that I might fall. What happened was that my nervous system did not quickly enough cause contraction of the arteries in my abdomen, thighs, and legs. In all of us such quick contraction is needed if our blood is to be pushed up quickly into the brain.

This tardiness is likely to be found in people with a low blood pressure, such as I have had all my life. Fortunately, this is a type of dizziness that we don't have to worry about.

I have had it for such a long lifetime, and it has not turned into anything. Often it leaves me alone for weeks.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

ASK ANDY

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lavonne Ferrell, age 8, of Smyrna, Georgia, for her question:

What are the rules for the Ask Andy column?

Some people hate rules and say that rules are made to be broken. But Andy's young friends know this is nonsense. Rules are to make complicated things easier. They also are made so that everybody gets the same fair chance as everyone else.

Dozens of questions pop into your head every day. There are millions of young people in the world and questions pop into their heads, also. Now suppose you could read the answer to every one of your questions in the paper every day. Suppose all the other young persons also could read theirs. Goodness, our newspapers would weigh tons and there would not be one inch of room for the news from at home and abroad. Everyone, naturally, knows that this idea was just one of Old Andy's impossible notions.

There are some pretty rough-tough reasons why Andy can answer only two from all your questions every day. The problem—and what a problem it is—is selecting the two questions each day from so many. There must be a few rules to make the job easier. If there were no rules, Andy would be snowed under your cards and never get out in time to select even one question.

Andy's rules are simple and easy to understand. Young people need not understand the reasons for many rules of the grown-up world. But naturally, the sensible young people obey them anyway. Andy, of course is a pooka type pixie, and quite a stranger in the grown-up world. He says that you can understand the reasons for his rules—if you want to.

There are a few rules for you and there are a few other rules for Andy himself. Let's begin with yours. Your writing should be clear and easy to read. Andy refuses to strain his eyes trying to read scrawls. Be sure to add your name and your age. Be sure to add your home address, with that fancy new zip code number. Address your card to your family newspaper and put a stamp on it. The paper will mail it on to Andy. If you forget the stamp, Andy has to pay out extra postage money. He doesn't like that. Would you?

Send Cards

The last thing for you to remember is not quite a rule—and, sad to say, there is a rather wearisome tale to it. Sometimes Andy himself has a request. Please, he says, send your questions on postal cards—and please, please do not send letter in envelopes. Most of his pen pals politely do as he asks and send cards. But many do not and his helpers spend hours opening those envelopes.

The other rules are the ones for Andy himself. He selects sensible questions on any sensible subject in the world. He finds one and then rereads the card, trying to think what this pen pal really wants to know. Then he thinks of all his readers. They also should like this question and be interested enough to read it. At last Andy decides. Then he starts an uproar that sends his helpers dashing off in every direction to track down the right answer. the latest news about it and a few extra notes of interest to make the answer worth reading and remembering.

Andy, of course, has a few other rules for just himself. Some, but not all of you, have guessed that the old pooka writes his column in 11 different languages. Oh, yes, he does. And many of you read them all. He has one language for a seven year old pen pal, another for an eight year old—and so on, year by year, up to age 17. Each language has harder words. Sometimes he needs a word from the 11-year language to answer a question for a pen pal of eight. Then he explains, right there, what the harder word means in eight-year-old words.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Thomas Keller, age 8, of Fairfield, Connecticut, for his question:

WHAT IS MICRONESIA?

Its musical name means "the Little Islands." And Micronesia is in the vast Pacific Ocean. Its tiny islands are dotted along a thin line that curves for thousands of miles through the ocean. Around each lonely little spot of dry land, on every side the salty sea stretches far and wide. They have counted 2,500 little islands in Micronesia—and there are more that are too small to be counted. Many Micronesian islands are small reefs, just high enough to reach above the waves. Others are lovely little atolls or coral isles. Some of the more important islands of Micronesia have been in the news and we know their names. Maybe you have heard of Wake Island and the Marshalls, the Gilberts and the Marianas.

Shortage Of Nurses Denied

Reports of an acute shortage of nurses in British Columbia are not true, minister without portfolio Pat Jordan told the B.C. legislature Monday.

"There is no acute shortage of graduate or registered nurses in B.C.," Mrs. Jordan said during debate on education department estimates. "There is some concern that we could better utilize our nurses."

Mrs. Jordan, a professional nurse, made the comments in reply to William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet) who had complained that nurses in training received only $300 over a three-year period.

"We should raise this stipend from $300 to $1,095, which is a dollar a day," Mr. Hartley said. "These girls work hard and study hard."

MOVING TRIBUTE AT FUNERAL

Nation Honors General Vanier

Body Sent On Train To Quebec

OTTAWA (UPI) — The body of Georges Philias Vanier, 19th Governor-General of Canada, left here by special train for Quebec City today.

The 78-year-old statesman, soldier and diplomat will rest overnight in the Quebec Basilica where a Requiem Mass will be held Thursday morning. It will be offered by Maurice Cardinal Roy, the Chaplain-General of the Canadian armed forces.

Early this morning, as the sounds of a 78-gun salute—one for each year of his life — snapped sharply in the cold air, the body of the Governor-General was carried into Notre Dame Basilica here.

The flag-draped casket, the hat and sword of the former commander-in-chief on top, was brought in slow procession through the streets of the city from Parliament Hill.

TEN BISHOPS

Inside the Basilica a funeral mass was concelebrated by Paul Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal. He was assisted by ten bishops representing each of Canada's provinces and by Father Benedict Vanier, a Trappist monk, one of the four sons of the late Governor-General.

Dramatic changes in the mass were adopted for the state funeral.

The most striking were the replacement of black garb at the altar by white vestments and the joyous pealing of the church bells instead of the former mournful tolling.

The changes transformed the mass from one of sorrow to one of triumph in the eternal life of the soul and resurrection of the body.

The casket, mounted on a varnished oak and brass-trimmed gun carriage, was drawn by 60 naval ratings, their white hats and gaiters glaring in the bright morning sun.

Behind them walked the other three sons of the deceased Governor-General—Bernard, Michel and Jean, who works with the retarded in France. They were followed by a riderless black horse draped in a black mantle. In the stirrups, black empty reversed boots symbolized the warrior and master had departed.

VAN DOO'S ON GUARD

A 200-man guard of the Royal 22nd Regiment of Canada—the famous Van Doo's—stood at rigid attention as the gun carriage slowly moved down the gentle slopes of Parliament Hill.

To the sound of muffled drums the 2,000-man cortege slow-marched its way through the crowded streets of the city. The band was silent, the air so cold the instruments had jammed.

As the procession approached the Basilica, a flight of 12 jet aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force swept low over the rooftops along the route.

They came in three flights of four, their engines oddly muted to a muffled roar.

Despite the chilling cold, the people, six and eight deep in places, stood quietly, their faces pale and drawn.

Few spoke. Most men doffed their hats as the casket passed and some, obviously former

NEXT WEEK, SAYS PETERSON

'Entirely New' Act Due on Compensation

By GLEN ALLEN

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday promised Opposition critics an "entirely new" Workmen's Compensation Act will be tabled in the Legislature next week.

"The department intends not only amendments to the act, but an entirely new act, for this session," he said.

His statement came in answer to one of several Liberal and NDP members speaking to labor department estimates of $7,518,000.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) had charged Mr. Peterson's department — he doubles as labor and education minister — with delay in formulating a new act. The royal commission on compensation had been struck in 1961 he pointed out.

"I am going to insist on an answer," said Mr. Nimsick.

"What is going to be in that Compensation Act?"

He said that Mr. Peterson could have made available some kind of preliminary report some time ago.

Mr. Nimsick said that time had passed by many of the people in B.C. dependent on compensation payments.

"We're sitting pretty good," he said. "We get an indemnity at the end of the session. It's pretty easy to forget."

He said those who suffered by "picayune increases" in WCB payments were widows, children and those injured years ago."

Mr. Nimsick said where "a breadwinner is killed in an industrial accident, there is only $122.04 for the widow."

He said senior citizens are now guaranteed $140 monthly by the two senior governments.

"Is that right or just?"

He termed a two per cent rise since 1964 in pensions for those injured in accidents, "a slap in the face.

The official opposition's "shadow" labor minister Rae Eddie (New Westminster) attacked all phases of government involvement in labor disputes, particularly labor injunctions which are "thrown around most freely.

"USED AS LEVER"

"We see injunctions used as a lever to upset the delicate balance between the parties in the favor of the employer.

"The result can only be frustration and hard feelings."

Mr. Eddie also called for a full-time Labor Relations

Garrison Must Tell Says Judge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Bernard J. Bagert ruled today District Attorney Jim Garrison must reveal the "confidential informant" Garrison says heard conspirators planning the assassination of President Kennedy.

Bagert ruled attorneys for Clay L. Shaw, charged with conspiracy to murder the president, were entitled to a full hearing on the evidence, including the identity of Garrison's confidential informant at next Tuesday's preliminary hearing.

But Bagert turned down most of the other defence motions, including one to get the charge against Shaw dismissed.

After the brief session in Judge Bagert's courtroom, Assistant District Attorney James Alcock told newsmen his office would provide enough evidence Tuesday to hold Shaw for trial.

"More than enough," Alcock said.

'A SIMPLE BUT GREAT MAN'

Victorians of All Faiths Join in Final Homage

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria joined with the rest of Canada today in mourning the loss of a distinguished soldier, diplomat and statesman and a "gracious Christian gentleman.

As a 21-gun royal salute thundered across the city, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes joined government officials and clergy of all faiths in a solemn service of remembrance in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

More than 1,000 men and women filled every pew in the white-pillared cathedral for a service of con-celebration conducted by Monsignor Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese.

To the right of the altar were Anglican Archdeacon J. W. Forth, Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral, Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Church of Our Lord, and ministers of many Protestant churches.

In the front pew, facing the altar, were Premier and Mrs. Bennett, Speaker William Murray, Opposition Leader and Mrs. Robert Strachan, B.C. Liberal leader and Mrs. Ray Perrault and deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace.

LED PROCESSION

Sounds of muffled weeping were heard above the soft tremulous notes of the cathedral organ and the soulful singing of Verdi's Requiem by the Sisters of St. Ann and the choir of St. Ann's Academy.

From without came the muffled boom of guns fired from Work Point by the 5th (B.C.) Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

After a scripture reading by Mr. Pearkes, the congregation joined in the singing of Abide With Me and a eulogy to the late governor-general was given

$30 MILLION IN DOPE SEIZED IN TWO RAIDS

HONG KONG (AP)—Police have seized more than a ton of raw opium and 200 pounds of raw morphine in two waterfront raids, the Hong Kong narcotics bureau announced today.

The haul was valued at about $2,000,000 on the Hong Kong black market, but narcotics agents said after refining it would have been worth more than $30,000,000 to illegal drug dealers in Europe and the United States. No arrests were announced.

Airliner Hits Bridge, 11 Killed in Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—A chartered airliner cut a swathe of death through trucks and a rickshaw when it plunged on to a bridge seconds after taking off from a civil airport here today, killing 11 persons.

Four of the aircraft's crew members and seven persons travelling in vehicles on the road, including the driver and passenger of the rickshaw, were reported killed.

Two crew members were taken to hospital.

A Pakistan civil aviation official said the aircraft, a modified DC-4 known as a Carvair, apparently failed to maintain height after take-off.

He said it was owned by the French Air Transport Co. and was on a flight to Tokyo.

U.S. ALARM BELLS RINGING OVER OUR UNIFICATION?

WASHINGTON (CP)—A former U.S. naval attache in Ottawa has raked Canada's military-unification plan from stem to stern.

"If the Royal Canadian Navy is indeed doomed as an anti-submarine warfare force, we may be sure that the alarm bells are ringing in U.S. naval headquarters in Washington, Norfolk, Va. and Pearl Harbor," says retired Capt. P. B. Ryan.

Has Canadian "preoccupation" with an international peacekeeping role really obscured traditional Canadian emphasis on defence of her Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic waters, he asks?

"Pushing the thought farther, are Mr. Defence Minister Hellyer's aides indeed relying on the U.S. Navy to assume the burden of anti-submarine warfare operations for both countries?"

Ryan, who served in Ottawa from 1956 to 1959, is the author of an article called Canadian Unification: The World Watches, in the current issue of U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings.

The magazine is published monthly by the U.S. Naval Institute, a private organization.

Ryan also said the protest retirements of senior Canadian naval officers have ensured a good parliamentary discussion on the navy and "the upshot may be a veering away from the humanitarian policy of international peacekeeping to the more realistic one of protecting Canadian and North American interests."

IT'S LADY COMRADE'S DAY IN RUSSIA

The Other 364 Days Don't Count

MOSCOW (UPI)—Today Russian women laid down their sickles and hammers and for 24 hours became a weaker sex. It was ladies day in the Soviet Union.

The government told men to cook the meals and try to mind the children, to shovel the snow and run hospitals and do the work expected of Soviet women the other 364 days of the year.

The combination Mother's and Valentine's day is a legal holiday, the one day when a Russian woman's place is strictly in the home.

Husbands carried home candy, flowers and other gifts for their wives. Moscow television broadcast special programs for women. The Kremlin announced it adores Soviet women.

"Builders of Communism," it called them and reminded Russians that it was a women's march for bread that started the trouble in Petrograd (formerly St. Petersburg, now Leningrad) that led to the Bolshevik revolution.

"You are resolutely against U.S. aggression in Vietnam," the Soviet Communist Party central committee said in a message to lady comrades.

The committee told the women they also are "against the attempts of imperialists to involve mankind in the catastrophe of a new world war."

The men of the central committee, which also has women members, said, "In the USSR the women have every opportunity to apply their energy and initiative."

In practice, this means it is women who go into the wintry streets before dawn to shovel off the snow and do many tough manual jobs that in other countries are considered male jobs. Besides repairing roads, pouring cement, driving locomotives, Soviet women also provide most of the nation's doctors and many of its engineers.

A favorite theme of the Soviet press is that Soviet men all too often cling to the "old fashioned" idea that women, besides working in the factories, must do all the housework. The result, they say, is that the women of Russia work seven days a week, 52 weeks a year—except on ladies day.

Fer a lot o' them flyin' hunters in the St. Lawrence it's sealing zero.

Second Section
Pages 11-22

Arthur Mayse

Recent intelligences from Gastown-on-Burrard indicate that B.C. Progressive Conservative Association has managed to land a haymaker on its own jaw. This by entertaining a convention resolution which would rob Victoria of her position as provincial capital.

The suggestion, lugged in by covetous Vancouver Tories, should have been rejected with promptitude and vigor. But the convention chose to refer it back to committee, which means that it just might raise its ugly little head another day.

As a result of this caper, PC legislative standing is now reduced from zero to a minus quantity. After all, who on this side of the water is likely to plunk for a party which has any such resolution lurking under its platform?

The capital is here, and here is British Columbia's capital. This happy condition has prevailed since away back near our beginnings, when it became plain that New Westminster couldn't cut the mustard, and Victoria assumed the crown.

★

That Vancouver should covet our role is understandable. To be the capital—to host the lieutenant-governor and bask in the kudos we enjoy through possession of a legislative complex—would suit that purse-proud metropolis very well indeed.

However, I doubt that even those mainland legislators who scurry for the ferry each Friday afternoon would truly appreciate a shift in location.

For one thing, they wouldn't like the climate, which specializes in fogs even thicker than those that descend on our stately Victoria legislative chamber when the member for North Muskeg is sawing his way through his 69-page reply to the throne.

Further, I can envisage all too easily the hideous edifice which Vancouver would run up as its seat of provincial stewardship.

It would glitter with chrome and glass-brick, and in exterior design, would cross the United Nations Building with Toronto City Hall.

Inside, it would be heavily air-conditioned. Elevators would serve it, not stone stairways worn by the tread of generations of thoughtful law-makers. We do have an elevator here, of course, but it is largely ignored, even by the sturdy old folk who populate the public galleries from beginning to end of each session.

That audience conducts itself with proper Victoria decorum. Over there, they'd be constantly screaming for yet another bridge across Burrard Inlet, and like as not would throw things at our MLAs where they cowered under the hard, fluorescent glare.

★

The arguments advanced at the PC convention for a shift of capitals are the same old set with which we are belabored whenever jealous Vancouver looks our way.

To keep the capital here, those who advance them insist, is to indulge in 'expensive inefficiency' and 'outdated economics."

If we care to forget the virtues of established tradition, also the massive dislocation of civil servants which a shift of capitals would involve, such arguments might have a minor validity.

But this is overweighed by the advantages of permitting government to conduct its legislative and executive functions in the relative peace and quiet Victoria affords.

Much better to keep the peoples' business and private industry separated by a highway haul and a watergap.

Anyway, the time is coming when we will have to rebuke these snatchers after the capital status we enjoy, and for a measure that would make our point, suggest another dose of the disciplining which Victoria applied to rowdy Vancouver in February, 1867.

On the 24th of that month, with the ink on their city charter scarce dry, a rioting mob of Vancouverites swarmed down on the Chinese quarter with fist and flame.

Victoria promptly impounded Vancouver's charter until she promised to behave herself . . . a come-uppance that our mainland cousins would do well to keep in mind!

SHIRLEY

'SPECTATOR GALLERY' ALERTED

Boat-Watchers: Dust Off the Binoculars, Cameras

Shirley Hewett, a sailing enthusiast of several years standing, today launches a weekly column on small boat activities in the Southern Vancouver Island area. Shirley is a graduate of Victoria College and became a boat fan after her marriage, crewing for her husband, who is in the business. Her column will cover the wide range of small boating as well as actual sailing. Mail for her column should be addressed c/o The Times.

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

The Boat Watchers Society of Victoria is unorganized and largely informal.

Its membership is anonymous and includes everyone who has ever travelled the waterfront roads, paused to lean over the Csuseway, or stopped for a coffee at Oak Bay Marina.

Its dues are exacted in tolls of shoe leather and car gasoline. Its most avid members pursue their quarry with binoculars and cameras. Its legions probably include you.

●

Boat watching can be highly specialized. Some people never miss the passage of a P & O-Orient liner. Dallas Road residents can time their daily activities by the Port Angeles ferries. But in the city which has played host to many Swiftsure yacht races, hundreds of people have a particular interest in the sailing boats which are now proliferating at an unprecedented rate.

Those who relish the excitement of the Swiftsure spectacular can look forward to another international sailing regatta this summer. The Royal Victoria Yacht Club will sponsor the Pacific International Yachting Association Regatta from July 1 to 4. This will probably attract a field of over 100 entries ranging from small racing dinghies to the Swiftsure regulars.

●

So the "Spectator Gallery" has three months to brush up on basic terminology, and sort out the difference between a spinnaker and a genoa.

During March, refresher courses in sailboat watching are available free of charge at two locations.

Sunday March 12 will see the seventh race of the cruising classes series which has been going since November at Tsehum Haven.

These races have attracted an average of 15 starters, whose skippers and crew are mostly the "pros" of the local sailing world. The first and second placers in the 1966 "Little Swiftsure" (Juan de Fuca) Race, Peter Coombs' Doxy II and Theo de la Mare's Tandem, have both been out perfecting their tactics. A good vantage point for viewing is the Sidney government wharf.

●

No less enthusiastic, but a little less experienced are the group which sails out of Oak Bay Marina. The Turkey Head Sailing Association will hold its final races on Sunday, March 19. This series was launched last fall by Dick James and Charlie Pash, who qualify as unofficial commodores of the Marina Sailboat Owners' "Yacht Club."

Competing boats are rated by a golf-type handicap, which is constantly revised according to the performance of the boat and her skipper. The Marina is winter home for most of the Sharks and Haidas in the area, and these two "one designs" have been the most consistent participants in the Sunday races.

Once a year, power and sailing boats can be inspected away from their natural environment. Boat Show time is here, and many Victorians will make the annual pilgrimage to the Vancouver P.N.E. grounds.

Formerly, only boats, motors, and related equipment were exhibited. Last year the show expanded to include trailer, camping, and other outdoor sporting gear. The show runs for 10 days and includes two weekends, which is particularly convenient for out-of-towners who cannot travel during their working week.

Starting on Thursday, the Showmart, Purefoods, Agrodome and Home Arts Buildings will be open on weekdays from 6 p.m. through to 11 p.m. The Saturday and Sunday schedule is 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. A variety act stage and pool show in the Agrodome goes at 8:30 p.m. weekdays; 4 and 8:30 p.m. Saturdays; and 4 p.m. Sundays.

EYE-FILLING DAYS AHEAD

Mt. Douglas Next To Go Regional

Mount Douglas Park will come under regional district jurisdiction within a year, according to Ald. Robert Baird.

Ald. Baird made the statement this morning following the last meeting of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

During the meeting the committee formally agreed to switch the administration and maintenance of Elk-Beaver Lake Park to Saanich on March 15 as the first step to bringing the area under regional control.

Two weeks ago Victoria council agreed to sell the park area to the regional board for $250,000 and to dedicate the land for park use in perpetuity.

'NOT TOO LONG'

In discussion on what the budget should be for the one remaining property, Ald. Baird said he didn't think too much should be spent "because it won't be too long before Mount Douglas becomes a regional park."

Asked how long he felt it would be before the city relinquished title to its last park property in Saanich, Ald. Baird replied "in a year's time."

NEW NAME

With Mount Douglas the only park left to the Victoria-Saanich Committee it was decided to recommend to both municipal councils that the name of the group be changed to the "Victoria - Saanich Mount Douglas Park Committee".

The budget for work on Mount Douglas this year will run a little more than $5,000 as compared with $3,500 spent last year.

Total budget for the joint-committee operation, estimated prior to the transfer of maintenance costs to Saanich, was $53,000.

WHOLE COST

In the past the costs have been shared on a 50-50 basis with Saanich which will now pick up the entire cost of the Elk-Beaver operation.

The budget, as prepared by Victoria parks superintendent Herb Warren and city treasurer James Bramley, will be handed over to Saanich for study and a final decision on how much should be spent.

As prepared the budget had earmarked $6,565 for Hamsterley Park, $6,650 for Eagle Park, $15,300 for Beaver Lake Park, $8,225 for lifeguards, $6,580 for varied maintenance and improvement projects and $4,790 for administration.

These expenditures will now be assumed by Saanich.

POLISH FESTIVAL PLANNED TO MARK CANADA'S CENTENARY

Sponsored by the White Eagle Polish Association, the festivities will be held in the Polish Hall, 90 Dock Street, starting at 3 p.m.

President Les Kubica, a veteran of World War II, who served with the British Eighth Army as a paratrooper in North Africa and Italy, said about 200 people are expected to attend the banquet.

"It will be a Polish festival," he said. "There will be Polish music, songs and dances."

Marriage Split Hurt Policeman's Promotion Chance

But he said the fact that Constable Lorne Shandley is president of the Victoria Policemen's Union was not considered when he was evaluated for promotion.

Inspector Andrews was giving evidence before an arbitration board inquiring into Constable Shandley's charge that he was treated unfairly by the city police commission.

Constable Shandley, a member of the police force for 21 years and union president for 15 of them, claims he was passed over for promotion despite his being recommended for advancement by a department promotional board.

DISCRIMINATION

Constable Shandley told the hearing that he thinks he was discriminated against by Chief J. F. Gregory, Deputy Chief Ray Maitland, Inspector Brooke Douglass and Inspector Andrews.

The deputy chief and the two inspectors made the evaluation of Constable Shandley for promotion. This evaluation resulted in him being recommended as suitable for promotion.

However, he was passed over by Chief Gregory in favor of another man who scored a lower over-all rating.

Constable Shandley told the hearing that he questioned some items in his evaluation, as well as the fact that he was passed over for promotion.

SCORED HIGHER

Constable Shandley scored 75.75 points in the over-all evaluation, compared with 70.75 points for the man who was promoted. However, if the points for seniority were deducted, the other man came out one point ahead of Constable Shandley.

One reason for this one point difference was that Constable Shandley's rival was awarded two points for "integrity" on the evaluation and Constable Shandley received only one.

Questioned on the reason why Constable Shandley was given half the points awarded the other man, Inspector Andrews replied that it was done "for the simple reason that Shandley is separated from his wife."

Const. Shandley was given one point when evaluated on his "respect for authority" compared with 1½ points for the other person in the case.

Insp. Andrews, under examination by Const. Shandley's lawyer, Dermod Owen-Flood, said this lower evaluation had nothing to do with Const. Shandley's union activities.

RESPECTFUL

He said "I can't recall" why Const. Shandley received a half-point less than the other officer. "As far as I am concerned, he has always been most respectful for authority."

Insp. Andrews said that when Const. Shandley completed a six-months stint as a detective-constable, and moved back into the uniform division, "I complimented him on his work and said I was sorry he had to leave the (detective) division."

Mr. Owen-Flood's examination on the reasons for the evaluation was cut off at this point after E. E. Pearlman, lawyer for the police commission, objected.

Mr. Pearlman argued the arbitration board should not be concerned with how the promotional board made its evaluations so long as it applied the same yardstick in each case. Insp. Andrews said all candidates for promotion were assessed on the same factors.

Giving evidence, Const. Shandley told of an interview with Chief Gregory when he asked why he had been passed over for promotion.

He said the chief at first pointed out that Const. Shandley had received 28.75 points on a law examination, compared with 32.25 for his rival. However Chief Gregory, when corrected by Const. Shandley, agreed that he in fact had scored 34.75 points on the exam.

Const. Shandley said that on another occasion when he discussed his evaluation with the chief, Chief Gregory asked ". . . if I was questioning the integrity of the board to evaluate you. I said, 'I certainly am at this juncture'."

ONLY WHEN EQUAL

Under cross-examination by Mr. Pearlman, Const. Shandley agreed that at one point Chief Gregory had told him that seniority was a factor in promotion only when the evaluation of candidates was equal.

Mr. Pearlman told Const. Shandley, "You seem to overlook the fact that, although there were no complaints against you, it is possible there were also none against (the other man) and he may be a better man than you. Is that possible?"

Const. Shandley answered, "Yes".

But he also said under cross-examination that "I feel I am just as qualified or better" than the man promoted over him "and he is a personal friend of mine."

The hearing continued this morning before the three-man arbitration composed of B. W. Dysart, a retired civil servant, Ken Murphy, a city lawyer, and C. R. Maclean, a Vancouver lawyer.

Forger Jailed 15 Mos.

$800 Obtained In Cheque Fraud

A young man who pleaded guilty to charges of forgery amounting to more than $800 was sentenced to 15 months in jail today in central court.

Magistrate J. A. Byers also sentenced Harry Marshall Smith, 3000 Tillicum, to six months indefinite detention.

Smith had been remanded to today after an earlier hearing.

A total of nine counts of uttering at stores in three Victoria municipalities were specified in the charge.

Speaking to sentence, Smith's counsel said Smith "had a false sense of values. He thought as long as he had money he would be alright."

CAR THEFT SENTENCE

Marko Smart, 1751 Hampshire, was sent to jail for 14 months definite, and six months indefinite on a charge of theft over $50.

Court was told at an earlier hearing Smart stole an automobile from the lot at Victoria High School Feb. 24.

Passing sentence Magistrate Byers said "various probation officers and others have been doing their best to straighten you out.

WEEK REMAND

A Vancouver man was remanded a week for a presentence report after pleading guilty to forging another man's name to $140 worth of travellers' cheques Tuesday.

Court was told Donald MacDonnell passed seven forged $20 American Express cheques at the Hudson's Bay Co., the T. Eaton Co., Safeway Co. and Esquimalt Bakery in Esquimalt Plaza.

Big Weekend Shaping Up For May 24th

"Victoria Through the Centuries" will be the theme of this year's three-day May 24 celebrations.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee met Tuesday to discuss plans for the holiday weekend and reports indicate there will be no shortage of entertainment.

Concerts will be held throughout the weekend and featured will be the Ingraham Junior High band from Seattle which has 200 members, and will put as many as possible into the band shell at Beacon Hill Park.

Application forms have gone out to six out-of-town bands which have asked permission to take part in the parade on Monday, May 22, said chairman John Rafter.

In addition to the concerts, the committee expects the Victoria Riding Academy's annual horse show will be staged on the weekend, as well as an inboard-outboard regatta at Elk Lake and a soap box derby.

Woman Given Three Months

A woman who has spent one year in the last three in jail on vagrancy convictions, was sentenced in central court today to another three months.

Court was told Lynn Baily, no fixed address, was found sitting on the railway tracks on the Johnson Street bridge Tuesday afternoon.

LIONS CLUB ON THE BALL SATURDAY

When the Easter Seal campaign gets rolling this year it will be with a real ball.

Lions clubs on the southern Island will push a six-foot ball (made from a fiberglas septic tank) from Sooke to Victoria on Saturday.

City area Lions will roll up at City Hall at 3:30 in the afternoon and will be met there by civic officials.

Campaign chairman Ray Baechler said the target amount for this year's campaign in Greater Victoria — for Centennial year — is $19,670.

★ ★ ★

Last year the Lions and other campaign workers collected $17,000 through the mails.

MLAs MOURNING VANIER

Nobody at Buildings For Peace Marchers

About 50 marchers from the British Columbia Peace Council paraded to the Legislative Buildings in the rain to present a brief urging an end to the Vietnam war.

But there was no one to receive them. The cabinet and MLAs were gathering at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for a memorial service for Governor-General Vanier whose state funeral took place in Ottawa three hours earlier.

Peace Council secretary Lawrence Gardner of Vancouver said most of the 50 marchers were from the lower mainland.

Their march had been organized before the Governor-General's death.

"It was all laid on. We had no chance to change our plans," he said.

ALL ARRANGED

He had understood that some MLAs would be at the Buildings when they arrived.

"We didn't know until this morning about the memorial service."

The marchers dismantled their signs and banners and departed soon after 11 a.m. But they said they would parade back to the Buildings at noon where they hoped to present a brief to the government. They had an appointment to meet NDP officials at 1:40 p.m., they added.

The marchers came here by chartered bus and were joined by a few local demonstrators. They represented all age groups. A handful of youths representing Victoria Youth Council gathered on the Buildings steps to observe the marchers.

The signs read "Stop the bombing in North Vietnam" and "One out of every 17 Vietnamese is now an amputee."

The Peace Council brief asks the provincial government to urge Ottawa to call on the U.S. to halt bombing North Vietnam, halt shipments of war materials to the U.S., ask the U.S. make a settlement based on the 1954 Geneva agreement and make Canadian medical aid available to all of Vietnam.

'TIP THE SCALES'

A press release says, "If the Canadian government can be persuaded to take a positive stand its position in the world would tip the scales in favor of peace. . . ."

The brief claims a million children have been killed or wounded, many of them burned beyond recognition by napalm. It cites Canada's non-neutrality in provision of war supplies.

The brief also points out that the war is having an effect on the B.C. economy, the scarcity of money making it hard for B.C. to compete in overseas markets.

Driver Injured, $1,400 Damage In Hillside Crash

A man was treated for head cuts and rib injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning following a traffic collision at Quadra and Hillside.

George Wetherall, 410 Gorge Rd. W., was driving a car east on Hillside when it collided with a car driven by Robert Johnson, 608 Cornwall—north on Quadra.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $1,400.

Everybody Mum On Welfare Controversy

The question of an alleged list of young welfare recipients prepared for city police was to have been aired Tuesday night by the executive of the Southern Vancouver Island branch, B.C. Association of Social Workers.

But its president, Miss Ann Black, today would only state, "We are not prepared to make any further statement."

Reg Clarkson, who resigned last week as chairman of the social action committee because of the association's reticence, promised further disclosures after the meeting. But he was called up Island on duty and was not available.

When Does Row of Trees Become a Fence? Saanich to Try and Find Right Answer

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich will dust the cobwebs off its fence regulations in May.

As matters stand, under a 31-year-old bylaw, fences and hedges must be less than five feet high unless permission is obtained from council to exceed the limitation.

Council recently rejected a request from one homeowner for a seven-foot fence and tabled a request for permission from another person to retain a hedge over five feet.

One of the earliest Saanich bylaws, passed in 1914, defined a "lawful fence" and even provided for "fence viewers."

A lawful fence was defined 53 years ago as:

- Of earth, stone, brick, concrete or iron;
- Of logs, rails, boards or bars of wood or iron;
- Of upright posts, boards, palings or pickets;
- Of a combination of the foregoing;
- Of standard gauge wire, woven wire or barbed wire;
- Any hedge.

This bylaw provided that:

- No one shall within 25 feet of the boundary line of a property erect a fence or permit any hedge higher than five feet, without council permission;
- No one shall erect a fence of barbed wire beside a highway with a sidewalk;
- No one shall erect a barbed wire fence between his property and the neighboring one or within 25 feet of the boundary without the neighbor's permission.

It was at this time that Saanich incorporated penalties into the bylaw.

The maximum fine was set at $100, or in default imprisonment not exceeding one month.

There was a minor amendment in 1943 and in 1949 it was decided that council permission was needed first before barbed wire fences could abut a highway.

This is just one of the problems in the fence bylaw that municipal officials, and later council, will have to consider in May.

Canucks Rally For Win

The same teams tied 4-4 in an exhibition last Sunday.

Ted Hargreaves, 23-year-old left wing from Weyburn, Sask., tied the count in the fourth minute of the second period, storming in alone against Czech goalie Holecek.

The Canadians overpowered the home team in the third period. Billy MacMillan scored in the second minute, Ray Cadieux in the seventh minute and Morris Mott in the 18th, assisted by Fran Huck.

Swedes Pick Best

Blackboard Binges Danger to Russians

LONDON (UPI)—Bunny Ahearne, colorful European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, thinks Russia's world supremacy will come up for its strongest challenge yet at the 1967 world championships in Vienna, March 18 to 29.

Canada, Czechoslovakia or even Sweden might put an end to the Russians' four-year reign as world champs in the 11,000 capacity Wiener Stadthalle, Ahearne said.

"Too much blackboard coaching is hurting the Russians," said the former World Hockey president now in charge of the 27-nation European division of the federation.

ARMY TRAINED

The powerful Russian sextet has taken it on the chin against all three main challengers this season. Ahearne said he believes one of the reasons is that their coaching is too strict and does not leave enough room for fantasy and initiative on the ice.

But it's doubtful if the Czechs, Canadians and Swedes would agree after having been handed brilliant hockey lessons by the Russians in the last four world tournaments.

In fact, the closest anybody got to beating the super-fit, army-trained Russian outfit in the last three years was Sweden's draw in last year's world tournament at Ljubljana, Yugoslavia.

Ahearne said he thinks Canada's sextet, coached by former NHL player Jackie MacLeod and advised by father David Bauer, is stronger than ever this season. Their wins over the Russians and Czechs on home ice seem to prove it.

Czechoslovakia, which has been rebuilding its team during the last three years, seems to be hitting top shape just in time. "Dangerous as ever," said Ahearne.

Sweden has had serious trouble with its half-new, half-veteran club and they have been trounced badly by the Czechs in warmup games.

"But I can see possibility of the psychological factor letting down," said Ahearne. "That the Russians and Canada might well let Sweden and the Czechs in.

"It will all depend on the coaching, said Ahearne, "from now on they should be psychiatrists rather than hockey coaches."

FOUR SOCCER PLAYERS SLAIN

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — A customer in a bar here drew a pistol and shot to death four soccer players after he had been hit in the back by a football, police said Monday.

The customer, who escaped, seriously wounded two other members of a soccer team who had gathered in the suburban bar after a local match.

Back Wages for Miners Promised by April 30

Back wages totalling almost $40,000 owed 145 miners by Cowichan Copper, of Jordan River, will be paid by the end of April, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, told the Legislature Tuesday.

He said $15,000 was paid on account when the Industrial Relations oBard obtained an order seizing some ore, and another $5,000 was received for the men Tuesday.

Aetna Investment Corporation of Toronto, which re-financed Cowichan Copper, also has guaranteed that another $10,000 will be paid by March 31 and the balance within a month of that.

However, Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) said Aetna "made $300,000 for its shareholders" by financing Cowichan Copper and the mine "should be shut down until these men are paid their wages".

He claimed that 65 men now are working at the reopened mine and there is no guarantee that Aetna will pay their wages if the previous workers are still not fully paid.

Mr. Peterson called Mr. Nimsick's remarks "irresponsible" and not to be given weight because the men involved have not asked for shutting down the mine.

He said the Industrial Relations Board has obtained the promise of full payment of the back wages faster than the men themselves could have done through legal action and at no cost to them for legal fees.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan) said that "workers in my area lost double that ($40,000) amount in NSF cheques from sub-contractors on clearing work for the Columbia River project".

He called for better proection for workmen to ensure their wages are paid.

Mr. Peterson replied that B.C. Hydro will hold prime contractors responsible in the future for payment of wages to (sub-contractor) employees.

He said the IRB had found that with certain fly-by-night sub-contractors efforts to recover workmens' wages "was like wringing blood from a stone".

MORTON ACCUSES DUNCAN

'Sabotage' Charged Against Sewer Vote

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — The city is trying to sabotage North Cowichan's plan to resubmit a sewer bylaw to south-end ratepayers in April.

This was charged Tuesday by Reeve Donald Morton.

He made the accusation in reply to a press release from city hall.

The release said residents of 800 houses bordering the north and west of Duncan had shown considerable interest in joining Duncan "so they can avail themselves of city services."

The release added: "The city development committee has considered costs and details and finds that sewer service can be supplied to these areas at the present city hall rental of $30-a-year per residence."

Replied Reeve Morton: "This $30 figure is possibly correct, but 10 extra mills must be added for general tax plus a local improvement charge for increasing the size of the city sewer mains."

He was supported by Coun. John Cannon who accused the city of having one set of facts for municipal council and another for public consumption.

In reply, Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan said the city atatement was only meant to deal with sewer costs.

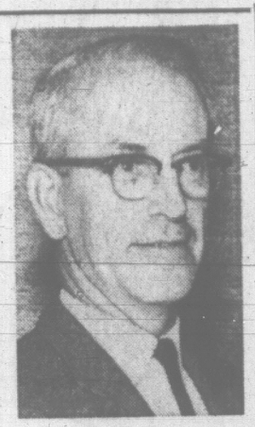
"I just don't like to see the double costs."

Of the reeve's charge, he commented: "I voted for the bylaw on behalf of the city the last time as I want sewerage in that area."

The contentious release said: "Services to the area in question should be settled by a vote of the electorate."

Reeve Morton said the city has already indicated the area will have to become a part of Duncan in order to get sewer service.



BERRY

FIVE-YEAR PLAN BACKED BY GOV'T

DUNCAN—The provincial government has approved in principle the city's five-year plan for urban renewal.

Gordon Berry, city clerk, reported Tuesday the next step is to have the planning consultants draw up detailed estimates for the first phase.

"If these details are approved by the provincial and federal authorities we really get down to business," he said.

"Blighted properties in the downtown area will be bought, the present improvements razed and the land made available for modern development in line with the city's overall plan."

City council is on record as being prepared to spend up to $40,000 a year for five years as its 25 per cent share of urban renewal.

With the federal contribution of a further 50 per cent and the province contributing 25 per cent it could mean a $1,000,000 face-lift for Duncan.

Progress Reported On Track Removal

DUNCAN — City hall Tuesday reported progress in the campaign for removal of railroad tracks which run through the city.

A statement from Gordon Berry, city clerk, said: "A satisfactory meeting has been held with CPR representatives and it now appears it is possible to have all but one, or two, of the five tracks removed."

The city's hope is to lease some of the released land for parking, and that removal of extra tracks will clear the way for a third railroad crossing at Coronation Avenue.

Duncan's downtown development plan calls for a third crossing to relieve traffic congestion.

"Some expense will be involved and cost estimates are being prepared by the CPR for submission to the city."

The city's application for a third crossing is already in the hands of the board of transport commissioners.

INFORMATIONS SWORN

Four Go to Court To Collect Wages

Four Cowichan Copper Co. miners Tuesday initiated their own legal proceedings against former mine operator Aetna Investment Corp., Ltd., in an effort to obtain back wages.

The four men appeared in Sooke RCMP court and swore informations against Aetna under the B.C. Payment of Wages Act, claiming varying amounts due them since Aetna closed the mine down last Sept. 16.

They were Sydney Hall, Louis Henry Van Beers and Peter K. Whitford, of Sooke, and Edwin Fender, of Jordan River.

140 LOST JOBS

About 140 miners and other employees of the copper mine at Jordan River were thrown out of work with wages owing.

It was thought that others would bring individual charges against Aetna, despite an assurance made in the legislature later Tuesday night by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Peterson said all remaining unpaid wages would be paid up by April 30, totalling some $25,000. (See above.)

The miners have only until next Thursday to bring charges against Aetna since the payment of Wages Act limits actions to six months.

Aetna will be summoned to appear in court within two weeks.

$4.5 Billion Viet Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress quickly approved and sent to the White House today a compromise $4.5 billion supplemental authorization bill for the Vietnam war.

The measure also included a policy declaration initiated by the Senate and approved Tuesday by Senate-House conferees calling for a multi-nation peace conference to end the war "as soon as possible".

Rescue Bid Fails on Mt. McKinley

TALKEETNA, Alaska (AP) — An attempt to airlift two climbers from the 8,250-foot level of Mt. McKinley failed today in the face of air turbulence and clouds.

Another effort to reach the two, Gregg Glomerg, 25, of Denver, and John Edwards, 35, Cleveland, was planned for later in the day.

Lady Comrade's Day in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI)—Today Russian women laid down their sickles and hammers and for 24 hours became a weaker sex. It was ladies day in the Soviet Union.

The government told men to cook the meals and try to mind the children, to shovel the snow and run hospitals and do the work expected of Soviet women the other 364 days of the year.

The combination Mother's and Valentine's day is a legal holiday, the one day when a Russian woman's place is strictly in the home.

Husbands carried home candy, flowers and other gifts for their wives. Moscow television broadcast special programs for women. The Kremlin announced it adores Soviet women.

"Builders of Communism," it called them and reminded Russians that it—was a women's march for bread that started the trouble in Petrograd (formerly St. Petersburg, now Leningrad) that led to the Bolshevik revolution.

"You are resolutely against U.S. aggression in Vietnam," the Soviet Communist Party central committee said in a message to lady comrades.

The committee told the women they also are "against the attempts of imperialists to involve mankind in the catastrophe of a new world war."

The men of the central committee, which also has women members, said, "In the USSR the women have every opportunity to apply their energy and initiative."

In practice, this means it is women who go into the wintry streets before dawn to shovel off the snow and do many tough manual jobs that in other countries are considered male jobs. Besides repairing roads, pouring cement, driving locomotives, Soviet women also provide most of the nation's doctors and many of its engineers.

A favorite theme of the Soviet press is that Soviet men all too often cling to the "old fashioned" idea that women, besides working in the factories, must do all the housework. The result, they said, is that the women of Russia work seven days a week, 52 weeks a year—except on ladies day.

Airliner Hits Bridge, 11 Killed in Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—A chartered airliner cut a swathe of death through trucks and a rickshaw when it plunged on to a bridge seconds after taking off from a civil airport here today, killing 11 persons.

Four of the aircraft's crew members and seven persons travelling in vehicles on the road, including the driver and passenger of the rickshaw, were reported killed.

Two crew members were taken to hospital.

A Pakistan civil aviation official said the aircraft, a modified DC-4 known as a Carvair, apparently failed to maintain height after take-off.

He said it was owned by the French Air Transport Co. and was on a flight to Tokyo.

$30 MILLION IN DOPE SEIZED IN TWO RAIDS

HONG KONG (AP)—Police have seized more than a ton of raw opium and 200 pounds of raw morphine in two waterfront raids, the Hong Kong narcotics bureau announced today.

The haul was valued at about $2,000,000 on the Hong Kong black market, but narcotics agents said after refining it would have been worth more than $30,000,000 to illegal drug dealers in Europe and the United States. No arrests were announced.

U.S. ALARM BELLS RINGING OVER OUR UNIFICATION?

WASHINGTON (CP)—A former U.S. naval attache in Ottawa has raked Canada's military-unification plan from stem to stern.

"If the Royal Canadian Navy is indeed doomed as an anti-submarine warfare force, we may be sure that the alarm bells are ringing in U.S. naval headquarters in Washington, Norfolk, Va. and Pearl Harbor," says retired Capt. P. B. Ryan.

Has Canadian "preoccupation" with an international peacekeeping role 'really obscured traditional Canadian emphasis on defence of her Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic waters, he asks?

"Pushing the thought farther, are Mr. Defence Minister Hellyer's aides indeed relying on the U.S. Navy to assume the burden of anti-submarine warfare operations for both countries?"

Ryan, who served in Ottawa from 1956 to 1959, is the author of an article called Canadian Unification: The World Watches, in the current issue of U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings.

Ryan also said the protest retirements of senior Canadian naval officers have ensured a good parliamentary discussion on the navy and "the upshot may be a veering away from the humanitarian policy of international peacekeeping to the more realistic one of protecting Canadian and North American interests."

COMPENSATION

New Act Coming Next Week

By GLEN ALLEN

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday promised Opposition critics an "entirely new" Workmen's Compensation Act will be tabled in the Legislature next week.

"The department intends not only amendments to the act, but an entirely new act, for this session," he said.

His statement came in answer to one of several Liberal and NDP members speaking to labor department estimates of $7,518,000.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) had charged Mr. Peterson's department — he doubles as labor and education minister — with delay in formulating a new act. The royal commission on compensation had been struck in 1961 he pointed out.

"I am going to insist on an answer," said Mr. Nimsick.

"What is going to be in that Compensation Act?"

He said that Mr. Peterson could have made available some kind of preliminary report some time ago.

Mr. Nimsick said that time had passed by many of the people in B.C. dependent on compensation payments.

"We're sitting pretty good," he said. "We get an indemnity at the end of the session. It's pretty easy to forget."

He said those who suffered by "picayune increases" in WCB payments were widows, children and those injured years ago."

Mr. Nimsick said where "a breadwinner is killed in an industrial accident, there is only $122.04 for the widow."

He said senior citizens are now guaranteed $140 monthly by the two senior governments.

"Is that right or just?"

He termed a two per cent rise since 1964 in pensions for those injured in accidents, "a slap in the face.

"USED AS LEVER"

"We see injunctions used as a lever to upset the delicate balance between the parties in the favor of the employer.

"The result can only be frustration and hard feelings."

Mr. Eddie also called for a full-time Labor Relations

Garrison Must Tell Says Judge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Bernard J. Bagert ruled today District Attorney Jim Garrison must reveal the "confidential informant" Garrison says heard conspirators planning the assassination of President Kennedy.

Bagert ruled attorneys for Clay L. Shaw, charged with conspiracy to murder the president, were entitled to a full hearing on the evidence, including the identity of Garrison's confidential informant at next Tuesday's preliminary hearing.

But Bagert turned down most of the other defence motions, including one to get the charge against Shaw dismissed.

After the brief session in Judge Bagert's courtroom, Assistant District Attorney James Alcock told newsmen his office would provide enough evidence Tuesday to hold Shaw for trial.

"More than enough," Alcock said.

GUN CARRIAGE bearing flag-draped coffin of Governor-General Vanier passes Peace Tower during funeral procession in Ottawa today. After funeral mass his body was put on train for Quebec.

Big Crowd In Tribute At Ottawa

The 78-year-old statesman, soldier and diplomat will rest overnight in the Quebec Basilica where a Requiem Mass will be held Thursday morning. It will be offered by Maurice Cardinal Roy, the Chaplain-General of the Canadian armed forces.

Early this morning, as the sounds of a 78-gun salute—one for each year of his life — snapped sharply in the cold air, the body of the Governor-General was carried into Notre Dame Basilica here.

The flag-draped casket, the hat and sword of the former commander-in-chief on top, was brought in slow procession through the streets of the city from Parliament Hill.

TEN BISHOPS

Inside the Basilica a funeral mass was concelebrated by Paul Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal. He was assisted by ten bishops representing each of Canada's provinces and by Father Benedict Vanier, a Trappist monk, one of the four sons of the late Governor-General.

Dramatic changes in the mass were adopted for the state funeral.

The most striking were the replacement of black garb at the altar by white vestments and the joyous pealing of the church bells instead of the former mournful tolling.

The changes transformed the mass from one of sorrow to one of triumph in the eternal life of the soul and resurrection of the body.

The casket, mounted on a varnished oak and brass-trimmed gun carriage, was drawn by 60 naval ratings, their white hats and gaiters glaring in the bright morning sun.

Behind them walked the other three sons of the deceased Governor-General—Bernard, Michel and Jean, who works with the retarded in France. They were followed by a riderless black horse draped in a black mantle. In the stirrups, black empty reversed boots symbolized the warrior and master had departed.

VAN DOO'S ON GUARD

A 200-man guard of the Royal 22nd Regiment of Canada—the famous Van Doo's—stood at rigid attention as the gun carriage slowly moved down the gentle slopes of Parliament Hill.

To the sound of muffled drums the 2,000-man cortege slow-marched its way through the crowded streets of the city. The band was silent, the air so cold the instruments had jammed.

As the procession approached the Basilica, a flight of 12 jet aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force swept low over the rooftops along the route.

They came in three flights of four, their engines oddly muted to a muffled roar.

Despite the chilling cold, the people, six and eight deep in places, stood quietly, their faces pale and drawn.

Few spoke. Most men doffed their hats as the casket passed and some, obviously former servicemen, stood at attention with shoulders braced until it passed.

Along the one-mile route another 1,000 servicemen—regular and reserves—lined the pavement. They, too, stood rigid as the cortege passed.

WINDOWS FILLED

Windows in buildings overlooking the procession were jammed with faces, some young but mostly old. A few blessed themselves as the casket moved slowly by.

For tribute to Canada's first French-Canadian Governor-General, the nation and the world were there to mourn.

'A SIMPLE BUT GREAT MAN'

Victorians of All Faiths Join in Final Homage

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria joined with the rest of Canada today in mourning the loss of a distinguished soldier, diplomat and statesman and a "gracious Christian gentleman".

As a 21-gun royal salute thundered across the city, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes joined government officials and clergy of all faiths in a solemn service of remembrance in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

More than 1,000 men and women filled every pew in the white-pillared cathedral for a service of con-celebration conducted by Monsignor Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese.

To the right of the altar were Anglican Archdeacon J. W. Forth, Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral, Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Church of Our Lord, and ministers of many Protestant churches.

In the front pew, facing the altar, were Premier and Mrs. Bennett, Speaker William Murray, Opposition Leader and Mrs. Robert Strachan, B.C. Liberal leader and Mrs. Ray Perrault

Sounds of muffled weeping were heard above the soft tremulous notes of the cathedral organ and the soulful singing of Verdi's Requiem by the Sisters of St. Ann and the choir of St. Ann's Academy.

From without came the muffled boom of guns fired from Work Point by the 5th (B.C.) Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery.

After a scripture reading by Mr. Pearkes, the congregation joined in the singing of Abide With Me and a eulogy to the late governor-general was given by Very Rev. William Bulloch, rector of St. Andrew's.

"While we mourn his loss, we thank God that we have known such a man," Rev. Bulloch said. "He was a man who recognized the value of the whole human being. And he put all these values together in the life of Christ.

"He stood forth as a giant among men and he revealed his deep personal faith and humility in everything he did.

"Throughout this great nation today there is a wave of vast silence; of a whole people pausing to do honor to one who stood for the ultimate in human integrity."

Archbishop Sexton said the late governor-general stood rock-like for stability in an unstable age.

"His was an example of courage and quiet, steady determination whose influence will endure; indeed his life had that ever-green quality of simplicity, honor and integrity that will never fade.

'SIMPLY BUT GREATLY'

"He lived simply but greatly, serving the peoples of this great dominion with faithfulness and loyal regard for their welfare. And he was passionately devoted to the cause of national unity.

"The immense power of personal example, as well as the value of high ideals, has been abundantly exemplified in his life. His was a character, marked by the highest qualities . . ."

Archbishop Sexton recalled that the wise men in the Book of Proverbs said the spirit of man is the candle of the Lord.

"The candle of the Lord was particularly luminous in the life of the late governor-general. He was an illuminated character, illuminated not only by high qualities, but by a simple faith in God.

"This was the secret of his poise and high efficiency. He was always at ease and he put others at their ease because the candle of the Lord burned brightly in him.

"The noble qualities which adorned his life were manifest in a deep concern for the welfare of Canadian home life, which we need to realize is so vital to the best interests of our country."

The archbishop closed with a short prayer:

"Rest eternal grant unto him, O Lord, and let light perpetual shine upon him. May he rest in peace."

Absent were Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo and Attorney-General Robert Bonner, both attending the state funeral in Ottawa.

Three Protestant and three Roman Catholic services for members of the armed forces were held at Naden Chapel, Belmont Park and the Canadian Officers' School at Venture.

WORK POINT SERVICES

At Work Point barracks, the First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, held Protestant and Catholic services in the two chapels.

All government offices in the Federal Building were closed during the morning. So were HMC Dockyard, the Manpower and Immigration department at Vancouver and Pandora, and the Unemployment Insurance office.

Books of condolence have been placed in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings and Government House for signatures of private citizens.

One of the first to sign at the Legislative Buildings was 83-year-old Mrs. Roderick MacKenzie, 675 Niagara Street.

Vice-president Hubert Humphrey came to represent the United States, and ambassadors from all the countries represented in Ottawa attended.

Mr. Humphrey, who flew from Washington earlier in the day, arrived with External Affairs Minister Martin and W. W. Butterworth, American ambassador.

On Thursday, interment ceremonies for Vanier will be held in Quebec City, his home. Final burial will take place later in the chapel of the Royal 22nd Regiment in Quebec's historic Citadel.

Role of the professional host in Canada's Centennial Year will be examined at an afternoon seminar for hotel and restaurant personnel Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

Titled Red Carpet Canada '67, the discussions are part of a country-wide effort to improve the nation's food and accommodation image, impress the importance of tourism to Canada's economy, and build Canada's reputation abroad as a host country.

Seminars are sponsored jointly by the Canadian Restaurant Association and the Hotel Association of Canada with the assistance of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau.

OPEN TO ALL

Although aimed at management personnel and department heads, the seminar is open to anyone with an interest in the tourist, including policemen, sales clerks and public servants.

Victoria visitors bureau commissioner Mike Heppell will welcome what is expected to be a crowd of up to 300. Deputy minister of recreatoin and conservation Dr. David B. Turner will take part, and guest speakers will be:

Michael Lambert, general manager of the Calgary Inn, who will speak on methods of providing warm, friendly service to guests;

C. C. Bud Hoffman, vice-president and general manager of Niagara International Centre, who will describe the importance of Centennial Year as a means of putting Canada on the tourist map.

Program chairman will be Colonist publisher R. J. Bower, former president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Seminar starts at 2 p.m. and closes at 5.

Stranded Seal Hunters Picked Up

HALIFAX (CP) — About 50 seal hunters who spent last night on ice in the gulf of St. Lawrence apparently suffered no ill effects despite snow, high winds and low temperatures.

Ross E. Homans, area director for the federal fisheries department, said in a telephone interview from Cap-aux-Meules in the Magdalen Islands that a department helicopter picked up 17 of the men who were stranded Tuesday when at least nine planes were damaged in a variety of landing accidents on the ice.

Mr. Homans said some of the men spent the night on sealing ships in the area while others built shelters for protection from wind and snow. Temperatures had dropped to about 10 above zero by early this morning.

PLANES TAKEOFF

Two planes that remained on the ice overnight rather than risk returning to land in snow and sleet left the ice after daybreak with men and seal pelts aboard.

It was considered doubtful many aircraft would be used today to ferry sealers to the herd, which covers an area four miles wide and 12 miles long near the centre of the gulf. The weather office here warned of freezing spray and northwest gales of 35 miles an hour.

About 60 aircraft and eight ships began the annual hunt at dawn Monday but only four—the Chesley A. Crosbie, North Star VI, Brandal and Chester—had reached the herd.

Seal Hunt Protests Called for

MONTREAL (CP)—"A total of 1,000,000 protests in Ottawa" against the hunting of seals in the Gulf of St. Lawrence is being called for by Brian Davies, executive secretary of the New Brunswick Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mr. Davies issues the call in letters to the editors of a number of newspapers. He lists specific directions as to what form the protests can be given by Canadians anxious to "help the seals."

First on the list of suggested methods are petitions to Prime Minister Pearson, each with 1,000 signatures.

Also suggested are letters of protest to MPs and letters of approval sent to officials of news media carrying "exposures" of methods being used in the seal hunt.

Mr. Davies says petitions to the prime minister should ask "that the Gulf of St. Lawrence be declared a sanctuary for harp seals." This would "end the brutal seal hunt."

Mr. Pearson also should be urged to "recommend that alternative modes of employment be found for those men who will suffer loss of income when seal hunting is abolished."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Temperatures were mild over most of B.C. overnight as a weather system spread cloud and occasional rain over the entire province. Some clearing and cooler temperatures have occurred on the north coast in the wake of the system and will spread to the remainder of the province tonight. Interior areas will see some sunshine Thursday but shower activity is expected to persist in coastal areas.
